PREFACE.

A second edition of this volume of the Annals of Albany having been called for, opportunity has been taken to introduce a large portion of the city records belonging to this period, that are missing in the volumes at the chamberlain's office, but which exist in the state archives at Hartford, Conn., where they were probably conveyed by Robert Livingston, in the time of the troubles with Leisler. They were found and translated by Dr. E. B. O'Callaghan, and published in the Documentary History of New York. There are still other important documents at Hartford, that belong to our city records, which remain unpublished. An omission has been made of the portion of Dutch church baptisms which was in the first edition, because they will be more perfectly printed, entire, either in a separate volume, or in a future volume of the Historical Collections of Albany, which is published in continuation of this series of annals. A more complete index than the one in the first edition has been made. Otherwise than in these particulars, the contents of the volume have been very little changed.

ANNALS OF ALBANY.

WAMPUM.

This article, more frequently called sewant in the pages which follow, particularly in the old city records, is said to be derived from wampi,¹ signifying in the Massachusetts Indian language, white, the color of the shells most frequent in wampum belts. It was strung, and sometimes formed into a broad belt, to be worn as an ornament. One of the sea coast terms of the Algonquins for this article was peag,² and it is frequently called wampumpeage. It was the first money in use in New Netherland and in New England.³ Seawant was the generic name of this Indian money, of which there were two kinds; wompam, commonly written wampum, which signifies white, and suckhanock, sucki signifying black. Wampum or white money, was originally made from the stem or stock of the meteahnock or periwinkle; suckhanock, or black money, was made from the inside of the shell of the quahaug, commonly called the hard clam. Specimens of a similar article are numerous in the Indian cemeteries of this state, formed of bone and mineral. The material from which the figure here given is copied, is the red pipe-stone of the west, so much valued; it is perforated longitudinally, and was evidently worn about the neck and breast, like the modern article of wampum. The Indians had various kinds of ornaments strung in a like manner, some of which were worn for a defense against witchcraft. This, also, was formed of the red pipe-stone of the Coteau du Prairie, west of the Mississippi, and its disinterment from Indian graves in the state of New York, denotes an early traffic or exchange of the article, Mr. Schoolcraft thinks. Other species, assuming a great variety of shapes, and formed of as many kinds of material, including native copper, seem to have been worn with the object of producing a jingling sound, or to inspire fear by the tread.

John Josselyn says: "Their beads are their money; of these there are two sorts, blue and white; the first is their gold, the last their silver. These they work out of shells so cunningly, that neither Jew nor devil can counterfeit them."—Old Indian Chronicle, 58.

The manufacture of wampum by the Indians, before the appearance of Europeans, was necessarily laborious, with the rude implements which they employed. They broke off about half an inch of the purple color of the inside of the shell, and converted it into beads.¹ These before the introduction of awls and thread, were bored with sharp stones, and strung upon the sinews of animals, and when interwoven to the breadth of the hand, more or less, were called a belt of seawant, or wampum. A black bead, of the size of a large straw, about one-third of an inch long, bored longitudinally and well polished, was the gold of the Indians, and always esteemed of twice the value of the white; but either species was considered by them, of much more value than European coin. An Indian chief, to whom the value of a rix dollar was explained by the first clergyman of Rensselaerswyck, laughed exceedingly to think the Dutch should set so high a value upon a piece of iron, as he termed the dollar. Three beads of black, and six of white, were equivalent, among the English, to a penny, and among the Dutch to a stuyver. But with the latter the equivalent sometimes varied, depending upon the finishing of the seawant. Seawant was also sometimes made from the common oyster shell, and both kinds made from the hard clam shell.

The use of wampum was not known in New England until it was introduced there in 1627, by Isaac De Razier, secretary of New Netherland, while on an embassy there to settle a treaty of amity and commerce between the two colonies. He carried with him wampum and goods, and with them purchased corn. To this introduction of wampum into New England, Hubbard attributes all their wars with the Indians which afterwards ensued. "Whatever were the honey in the mouth of that beast of trade, there was a deadly sting in the tail. For it is said they (the Dutch) first brought our people to the knowledge of wampum-peag; and the acquaintance therewith occasioned the Indians of these parts to learn the skill to make it, by which, as by the exchange of money, they purchased store of artillery, both from the English, Dutch and French, which proved a fatal business to those that were concerned in it."¹

Although the general distinction of this seawant was black and white, yet that in use in New England was black, blue and white; and that of the Iroquois of a purple color.²

² Wampum is a sort of a shell found on the New York coast; they are burgos or periwinkles, some of which are white, others violet, verging towards black. The white are of little value; the violet more in demand, and the more they incline to black the higher are they esteemed. Wampum, for state affairs, is shaped into small cylinders, a quarter of an inch long, and proportionably thick. They are worked into two forms, strings and belts. The strings consist of cylinders strung, without any order, one after another, like the beads of a rosary. The belts are wide sashes, in which the white and purple beads are arranged in rows and tied by little leathern strings, whereof a very pretty tissue is formed. Their length, width and color are in proportion to the importance of the affair to be negotiated. Ordinary belts consist of twelve rows of 180 beads each.

These belts and strings of wampum are the universal agent among the Indians, serving as money, jewelry, ornaments, annals, and for registers; 'tis the bond of nations and individuals; an inviolable and sacred pledge which guaranties messages, promises and treaties. As writing is not in use among them, they make a local memoir by means of these belts, each of which signifies a particular affair, or a circumstance of affairs. The chiefs of the villages are the depositaries of them, and communicate them to the young people, who thus learn the history and engagements of their nation.

In addition to the name gaionne, which is most used to signify these belts, the Indians gave them, also, that of garihova, which means, an affair; that of guavenda, as a speech or message, and gaianderensera, which implies greatness or nobility, because chiefs only are competent for the great affairs treated by belts; they it is who furnish the belts and strings, and it is among them that they are divided, whenever presents are made to the villages and answers are given to the speeches of ambassadors.—Doc. Col. Hist., x, 556, note.

A string of this shell money, one fathom long, varied in price from five shillings, among the New Englanders, to four guilders among the Dutch, or one dollar and sixty-six and a half cents of our present currency. The process of trade was this ; the Dutch and English sold for seawant to the Indians of the interior, their awls, knives, combs, scissors, needles, looking-glasses, hatchets, guns, black cloth, and other articles of aboriginal traffic, and with the seawant bought the furs, corn and venison from the Indians on the seaboard, who also with their shell money bought such articles from the aborigines residing farther inland ; and by this course the white men saved the trouble of transporting their furs and grain through the country. Thus, by this circulating medium a brisk commerce was carried on, not only between the white people and the Indians, but also between different tribes among the latter. So much was this the circulating medium, that the colonial governments found it necessary to make regulations on the subject. In 1641 Gov. Kieft and his council, in view of the fact that a vast deal of bad seawant, " nasty rough things imported from other places," was in circulation, while the " good, splendid seawant, usually called Manhattan's seawant, was out of sight, or exported, which must cause the ruin of the country!" therefore, in order to remedy the evil, it was ordained that all coarse seawant, well stringed, should pass at six for one stuyver only, but the well polished at four for a stuyver, and whoever offered or received the same, at a different price, should forfeit the same, and also ten guilders to the poor.

The Connecticut Code of 1650 ordained " That no peage, white or black, bee paid or received, but what is strunge and in some measure strunge sutably, and not small and great, uncomely and disorderly mixt, as formerly it hath bene."

Massachusetts colony passed a law in 1648, declaring that wampumpeag should pass current in the payment of debts to the amount of forty shillings ; the white at eight for a penny, and the black at four for a penny, "if entire, without breaches or spots ; except in payment of county rates to the treasurer." This law was repealed in 1661, yet seawant continued to form a part of the circulating medium of the colony for a long period afterward.

The wampum currency appears sometimes to have been measured by the fathom, in New England. The Pequot Indians, in the year 1656, paid as a tribute to the united colonies of New England 215 fathoms of wampum; of which amount Thomas Stanton, the agent among the Indians, was paid 120 fathoms for his salary, and the remaining 95 fathoms, together with 51 fathoms at New Haven, in all 146 fathoms, was divided among the united colonies, according to the number of males enumerated in the year 1655, in the following manner, being the first distribution of public moneys in the good old time of our history.

To Massachusetts,	94 fathoms.
Plymouth,	18 fathoms.
Connecticut,	20 fathoms.
New Haven,	13 fathoms.

The governor and council in the city of New York, in 1673, made an order, declaring that by reason of the scarcity of wampum, that which had hitherto passed at the rate of eight white and four black pairs, for a stuyver or penny, should then pass at six white and three black pairs for a stuyver, "and three times so much the value of silver." At this period there was little "certain coin in the government" of N. York, and wampum readily passed as change for current payment in all cases. This seawant, or wampum, was the only Indian money ever known in North America; it was not only the money of the Indians, but also the ornament of their persons. It distinguished the rich from the poor, the proud from the humble. It was the tribute paid by the vanquished to those, the Five Nations for instance, who had exacted contribution. In the form of a belt it was sent with all public messages between the Indian tribes, and preserved as a record of all public transactions among the aboriginal people. If a message was sent without the belt, it was considered an empty word, unworthy of remembrance. If the belt was returned it was a rejection of the offer or proffer accompanying it. If accepted it was a confirmation, and strengthened friendship, or effaced injuries. These shells, indeed, had more virtue among the Indians, than pearls, gold and silver had among Europeans. Seawant was the seal of a contract, the oath of fidelity. It satisfied murders, and all other injuries, purchased peace, and entered into the religious as well as the civil ceremonies of the aborigines. A string of seawant was delivered by the orator in public council, at the close of every distinct proposition made to others, as a ratification of the truth and sincerity of what he said, and the white and black strings of seawant were tied by the pagan priest, around the neck of the white dog suspended to a pole, and offered as a sacrifice to Thaloughyawaagon, the upholder of the skies, the god of the Five Nations.¹

The article continued to be manufactured in different parts of the state of New York until a comparatively recent period. Smith² mentions, that a short time previous to writing his work, several poor families at Albany made their living by its manufacture. Bûrnaby³ mentions that in journeying from Philadelphia to New York, he passed through Staten Island, and had an opportunity of seeing the method of making wampum, the process of which he thus describes; "It is first chipped to a proper size, which is that of a small oblong parallelopiped, then drilled, and afterwards ground to a round smooth surface and polished. The purple wampum is much more valuable than the white; a very small part of the shell being of that color." In the summer of 1831, several bushels of wampum were brought from Babylon, on Long Island, and the person who had them, stated that he had procured them for an Indian trader, and was in the habit of supplying those traders with wampum. The best wampum is at this day manufactured on Long Island, to be sent to the western states and territories, for the purpose both of a circulating medium, and of conventions and treaties.⁴

Wampum is also manufactured at the present day in Bergen county, New Jersey, for the Indian traders of the far west.⁵ It has been manufactured by the females of that region from very early times, of the thick and blue part of the sea-clam shell. The process is simple, but requires a skill attained only by long practice. The intense hardness and brittleness of the material render it impossible to produce the article by machinery alone. It is done by wearing or grinding the shell. The first process is to split off the thin part with a light sharp hammer. Then it is clamped in the sawed crevice of a slender stick, held in both hands, and ground smooth on a grindstone, until formed into an eight-sided figure, of about an inch in length, and nearly half an inch in diameter, when it is ready for boring. The shell then is inserted into another piece of wood, sawed similarly to the above, but fastened firmly to a bench of the size of a common stand. One part of the wood projects over the bench, at the end of which hangs a weight, causing the sawed orifice to close firmly upon the shell inserted on its under side, and to hold it firmly, as in a vice, ready for drilling. The drill is made from an untempered handsaw. The operator grinds the drill to a proper shape, and tempers it in the flame of a candle. A rude ring, with a groove on its circumference, is put on it; around which the operator, who is seated in front of the fastened shell, curls the string of a common hand-bow. The boring commences, by nicely adjusting the point of the drill to the centre of the shell; while the other end is braced against a steel plate, on the breast of the operator. About every other sweep of the bow, the drill is dexterously drawn out, cleaned of the shelly particle by the thumb and finger, above which drops of water from a vessel fall down and cool the drill; which is still kept revolving, by the use of the bow with the other hand, the same as though it were in the shell. This operation of boring is the most difficult of all, the peculiar motion of the drill rendering it hard for the breast; yet it is performed with a rapidity and grace interesting to witness. Peculiar care is observed, lest the shell burst from heat caused by friction. When bored half way, the wampum is reversed, and the same operation repeated. The next process is the finishing. A wire about twelve inches long is fastened at one end to a bench. Under and parallel to the wire is a grindstone, fluted on its circumference, hung a little out of the centre, so as to be turned by a treadle moved with the foot. The left hand grasps the end of the wire, on which is strung the wampum, and as it were, wraps the beads around the fluted or hollow circumference of the grindstone. While the grindstone is revolving, the beads are held down on to it, and turned round by a flat piece of wood held in the right hand, and by the grinding soon become round and smooth. They are then strung on hempen strings, about a foot in length. From five to ten strings are a day's work for a female. They are sold to the country merchants for twelve and a half cents a string, always command cash, and constitute the support of many poor and worthy families.

The value of sewant about 1660, in Rensselaerswyck, in payment of taxes, was twelve white and six black to the stuyver, which is a little less than two cents.

The collections in the church were mostly in sewant, of which they had in the treasury at one time about 13,000 guilders in amount. It was a depreciated currency, however; a guilder in sewant being but about twelve and one-half cents in gold, or about one-third of a guilder, which was nearly forty cents.

COLONY OF RENSSELAERSWYCK.

[From O' Callaghan's History of New Netherland, Vol. 2.]

1646 to 1664.

Johannes Van Rensselaer, heir to the patroonship of Rensselaerswyck, being a minor at his father's decease, the care of his interests devolved on his uncle Johannes Van Wely, and Wouter Van Twiller,¹ executors to the last will and testament of the first patroon, who immediately rendered fealty and homage for the colonie to their high mightinesses, in the name and on the behalf of their ward.

The immediate management of this estate was entrusted to Brant Arent Van Slechtenhorst of Nieuwerkerke in Guilderland, who was appointed director of the colonie, president of the court of justice, and superintendent of all the bouweries, farms, mills, and other property belonging to the patroon, at a salary of seven hundred and fifty florins ($300) per annum, to reckon from the date of his arrival out, together with a house, four milch cows, two horses, four morgens of tillage and four morgens of pasture land. He was specially charged to uphold, maintain and defend the freedoms and privileges with which the colonie was invested, to promote the interests and advance the settlement of Beverwyck and its immediate neighborhood, and to acquire by purchase the lands around Katskill, for the greater security of the colonie, inasmuch as the colonists, through a notion of acquiring property in that quarter, were forming companies or associations to remove thither and abandon Rensselaerswyck. He was further ordered to explore the country for minerals, and to report to his superiors in Holland whatever success might crown these labors. Thus commissioned and instructed, the newly appointed director sailed with his family and servants for Virginia. He proceeded thence in another vessel to the Mannhattans, where he landed after a passage of four months and finally arrived in the colonie in the latter part of March.

¹ Van Twiller died in Holland in 1656, or 1657. Van Wely died 19th March, 1679, aged 82 or 83 years.

His son, Gerrit Van Slechtenhorst, was to act as officier or schout-fiscaal, at a salary of six hundred florins; but he filled the office only two months, when it was merged in that of the director.¹

From the moment that colonies began to be planted by patroons in New Netherland, the directors of the Amsterdam Chamber became jealous of their existence and opposed to their continuance. They considered them injurious to the settlement of the country and the increase of its population.² By the repurchase of Payonia and Zwanendaal in 1634, they took the earliest means to check the evil. In the prosecution of their policy, they endeavored to induce the patroon of Rensselaerswyck to cede to them his rights, privileges and possessions also; but having failed in effecting this, they now changed front, and determined to circumscribe a jurisdiction and weaken a power which they could not buy off, and which they wished to destroy. Gen. Stuyvesant and Brant Van Slechtenhorst were the champions of these hostile interests and opposing views. The former claimed to be supreme ruler of the whole country, irrespective of the special rights and feudal privileges granted, as well by the charter of 1629, as by the civil law, to the local authorities of independent fiefs. The latter, thoroughly conversant with the immunities claimed for manors and municipalities in continental Europe, recognized the exercise of no authority within his limits save that of his patroon, or such as was approved and sanctioned by his legal representatives. Whatever orders or placards the director-general might issue were, he maintained, null and powerless, unless so endorsed and countersigned by his commander and executed by the officers of his court. It was easy to foresee that pretensions so opposite could not fail to lead to collision, and Slechtenhorst had not been much more than a month at his post when an explosion took place.

A copy of a proclamation ordering the first Wednesday in May to be observed by a general fast and the performance of public worship in the several churches of New Netherland was duly forwarded to Rensselaerswyck. It was received by the authorities of that place, not in that spirit of submissive obedience which the director-general demanded for all his orders, but as an invasion of the rights and authority of the lord of the manor, against which Van Slechtenhorst forthwith protested.¹

This proceeding did not comport with Stuyvesant's ideas either of law or propriety. To correct the abuse he resolved to visit the colonie, where, accompanied by a military escort, he soon after landed, his arrival being most loyally greeted by salvos from the patroon's artillery.² Summoning Van Slechtenhorst, he called in question his pretensions, and charged him with infringing the company's sovereignty. But the sturdy commander retorted: "Your complaints are unjust, I have more reason to complain, on behalf of my patroon against you." The director-general fulminated, thereupon, a lengthy protest, in which Van Slechtenhorst was accused with having conveyed lots, and authorized the erection of buildings, in the immediate vicinity of Fort Orange, in disregard not only of the sovereign authority, but in contempt of ¹This 26th April, 1648, hath the director Slechtenhorst protested against a certain writing of the Right Hon. P. Stuyvesant, concerning the publication of a day of fasting and prayer, whereby it is understood, that the right and authority of the Lord Patroon are invaded. This document was handed in only before the sermon, so that there was no time to have it read.—Rensselaerswyck MSS.

²July, 1648. Whereas, the council of the colony directed the Heer General Peter Stuyvesant should be greeted on his arrival and departure, with several salutes from the Heer Patroon's three pieces of cannon, so hath the director employed Jan Dircksen Van Bremen, and Hans Encluyts, to clean the same, as they were filled with earth and stones, and to load them, in which they were employed three days, to wit: one day in cleaning them; the second in firing for the arrival, and the third, for Stuyvesant's departure — for which Slechtenhorst purchased 20lbs. of powder, and expended ten guilders, for beer and victuals, besides having provided the Heer General, at his departure, with divers young fowls and pork.—Ib.

the director-general's commission, thus infringing the privileges granted by their high mightinesses and destroying the security of the fort. Such proceeding was totally repugnant to "military discipline and tactics." He therefore ordered, "in a friendly manner," a stop to be put to all building, within range of cannon shot, unless specially ordered by the lords majors. He further commanded, that no new ordinances affecting the sovereign authority, or relating to commerce or the public welfare, be issued without the previous consent of their high mightinesses or their representative in New Netherland; and that no exclusive right to any branch of trade be rented, nor any grain, masts, or other property belonging to the company's servants be seized, unless the prosecutions on such suits were disposed of without delay. The practice of compelling the inhabitants of the colonie to sign a pledge that, as defendants, they should not appeal to the supreme court of New Netherland from judgments rendered by the court of Rensselaerswyck, was pronounced "a crime," an infraction of the law of the land, and a subversion of the twentieth article of the charter. To prevent the recurrence of this illegal practice, an annual return to the director and council of all the affairs transacted in the colonie and of the proceedings of the court was insisted on, conformably to the twenty-eighth article of the said charter. And as Van Slechtenhorst claimed, in direct contradiction to the charter and the director-general's commission, to the vilification of the latter's office and in disrespect of the lords majors, not to be responsible to the government at Fort Amsterdam, he was called on to produce his authority, either from the states-general or the directors of the chamber at Amsterdam, for such pretension. Failing this, the director-general protested against him for disobedience of orders.

Commander Slechtenhorst, was, in the estimation of his opponents, "a person of stubborn and headstrong temper." He was, besides, fully confident that he had law and custom on his side; he was sure that he had the instructions of his superiors in his pocket, and was therefore determined not to abandon the rights of "his orphan patroon." He answered protest by protest. He charged, in his turn, the director-general with having proclaimed a day of fasting and prayer in Rensselaerswyck, "contrary to antient order and usage, as if he were the lord of the patroon's colonie."

He accused the company's servants at the fort with having cut, without permission, the best timber and firewood in the patroon's forests, "as if these were their own;" and with having ranged through the whole colonie, along with people from Manhattans, "with savages by their side to serve as brokers," trading publicly with the aborigines, as if the place were their property; all this without license from the patroon or his authorized agents, and without paying either duties or recognitions. As for the order not to build within a prescribed distance of Fort Orange, it was an aggression which could not be justified. The patroon's trading house stood, "a few years ago," on the border of the moat which surrounded that fort. That soil, with all around, belongs still to the patroon; he was never disturbed in its possession until Director Stuyvesant sought now "by unbecoming means," to oust "his orphan heir," to deprive him of the benefit thereof, and to appropriate the soil to himself; threatening to destroy the patroon's buildings by cannon shot. Van Slechtenhorst is hereby prevented erecting "even a hog pen" on the patroon's own land, and Stuyvesant has become a judge in his own case. The assertion that the objectionable buildings endangered the security of the fort, was a mere pretext. They were more than five hundred rods from the fort, or trading house; and, it was added, eight houses already intervened between them and Fort Orange.

In keeping with the spirit here displayed, did Van Slechtenhorst continue his improvements in Beverwyck. Another protest from the Manhattans followed, warning him that force should be used if he did not desist. But this had the effect only of calling forth "a counter blast." No suit, he insisted, could be instituted, nor execution issued in another district, without previous consent of the schout fiscaal or court of that jurisdiction, on the pain of non-suit and arbitrary correction, and therefore the present proceeding was informal. The pretensions now put forth were, moreover, at variance with those which had already been promulgated, and in contradiction with practice even at New Amsterdam. The director-general claimed, in July, that all the territory within range of cannon shot belonged to Fort Orange; now he reduces the circle to the range of a musket ball, within which he will not allow a house to be built, "notwithstanding he permits whole streets to be filled with houses, in view of Fort Amsterdam." It was a matter of surprise, that he should use the power with which he was invested, to oppress "our infant patroon." It was his duty, as a Christian neighbor, to preach other doctrines; to turn his arms, not against friends, but enemies. It was besides, highly unbecoming in him to use force whilst their high mightinesses had not yet decided the case, especially as the house in dispute was not within musket shot of the fort.

This continued contumacy served but to irritate the executive. The freshets of the past winter had nearly destroyed Fort Orange, and the company's commissary had received orders to surround that post with a solid stone wall in lieu of the wooden fence by which it had hitherto been encompassed. But scarcely had a rod of the work been finished, when Van Slechtenhorst forbade Carl Van Brugge, "in an imperious manner," to quarry stone within the colonie, or to fell a tree either for the repair of the fortification or for firewood. The farmers and inhabitants were also ordered, contrary to the practice of former magistrates, and contrary, it might be added, to the fifth article of the charter of 1629, not to convey any such materials thither.¹ The company was thus deprived of articles necessary to build forts, or other edifices, and compelled either to beg them from their vassals; or "what is worse," to purchase them at enormous prices. Whilst thus opposing repair of the public works, Van Slechtenhorst actively continued his own buildings, "even within pistol shot of Fort Orange."

On receipt of this intelligence, General Stuyvesant resolved to maintain his authority by force. Six soldiers² were dispatched to Van Brugge's assistance, with orders to demolish the offending house, to arrest Van Slechtenhorst "in the most civil manner possible," should he offer any opposition, and to detain him in custody until he delivered a copy of his commission and his instructions, and had declared that he had no other. He was finally summoned to appear at Fort Amsterdam to answer for his conduct. Orders were at the same time issued, prohibiting the importation of guns into the colonie without license from the lords majors. Such arms, when imported, were to be sold only to the company at a fixed price of two beavers each.

² A manuscript protest among the Rensselaerswyck papers, represents this force as "seven soldiers and five sailors," who remained fourteen days in the colonie.

The excitement produced in the hitherto peaceful hamlets of Beverwyck, on the appearance of this armed posse, may be easily conceived. The oldest inhabitant had not seen a soldier nor heard the sound of a drum in that place until the director-general's visit in the course of the last summer. And now when another armed band arrived, with the hostile design of razing the houses of quiet and inoffensive settlers, they were sorely amazed and much alarmed.

Those whom the director-general had dispatched to enforce his orders, were not, in truth, the best qualified for the performance of this delicate mission. They were very zealous "when the patroon's timber was to be cut, or his deer killed," and were not slow to exhibit their insolence by grossly insulting the commander, "when walking the public street" in company with his deputy, Andries de Vos, cursing them and "abusing God's holy name," because "they had not bade them good evening."

This rude conduct, and the unconcealed avowal of their mission, aroused the indignation not only of the settlers but even of the Indians. These assembled in a tumultuous and angry manner, and demanded if "Wooden Leg,¹ in whom they had confided as their protector, intended to tear down the houses which were to shelter them in stormy and wintry weather?" When they learned that all the trouble was about a few roods of land, they told the commander to accompany them home, and they would give him plenty of land "in the Maquaas country;" so that "more kindness was evinced by the unbelieving savages than by our Christian neighbors, subjects of the same sovereign, bound by their oaths to protect us against insult and outrage."

The soldiery now flushed with triumph, were disposed to celebrate whatever victory they obtained by firing a feu-de-joie. They accordingly discharged three or four volleys. This brought the Indians again together. Slechtenhorst succeeded, however, in soothing their irritation, and persuaded them to depart. They returned, shortly, in increased numbers, and inquired in angry terms, "If Wooden Leg's dogs were gone?" They were assured that all would yet be well; that they had been misinformed, that the houses should not be pulled down. A threatening storm was thus happily averted, for the director-general's rash conduct had well nigh produced bloodshed, "and the ruin not only of the colonie, but of the Manhattans and of the Christians within this land, who are all at the mercy of the savages"—especially had these been joined by some Christians, "as might have been the case."

Van Slechtenhorst's indignation at this encroachment on the patroon's privileges was not so easily removed. He gave vent to his feelings in a long and angry protest. The demand for a copy of his commission, and the summons to appear at Fort Amsterdam, he answered by calling for a copy in writing of the director-general's claims and complaints. "The noble patroon had obtained his possessions and immunities; was invested by the States General with high and low jurisdiction and the police of the most privileged manors; and were he, as his agent, now so base as to crouch before the present unwarrantable proceedings, and to produce his commission, before he had received orders to that effect, from his lords and masters, not only would they be injured, but he be guilty of a violation of his oath and honor, a betrayal of his trust, and a childish surrender of the rights of his patroon." He could not, therefore, obey such demands, the illegality of which was only rendered more flagrant by the unusual and insolent manner in which they were made. If a sworn messenger in Holland had to serve a summons, or to execute a warrant, in one of the small cities, in the name of the supreme court, or of any of the states, he was previously required to solicit admittance, consent and aid from the local magistrates, who should give permission in writing, by endorsing the words "Fiat insinuatio" on the paper, before the summons could be made. This written authority was then placed in the hands of the messenger of the city in which the order was to be served, who thereupon made his first service both verbally and in writing on the party complained against, and reported the result to the messenger of the court or state. This, and no other, constituted a legal service. Such was the practice in Fatherland, even in the same province, though subject to a high court of appeal. But none of these prerequisites were observed by the director-general's commissary. Accompanied by an armed soldiery, he not only entered the patroon's jurisdiction, but violated, on the 28th September, the sanctity of his house. Such illegal conduct betrayed a deep contempt of the patroon and his court, as well as of the sovereign whom they represent. Those who have been guilty of similar violations of law in Fatherland "had often been apprehended, and condemned to bread and water for the space of five or six weeks; yea, were sometimes brought to the block," so jealous was every local jurisdiction of the least encroachment on its privileges.

As for preventing timber being cut within the colonie, is the patroon, he demanded, not master on his own land? Is he not free to cut his timber at well as his corn? And can he not arrest these, when cut by others without his permission? Jacob Jansen had cut two fir trees in the course of the summer without leave; the patroon's officer seized them eight days afterwards, on the river, and can he not now exercise a like authority? The objection, that the houses he was building militated against the defense of the "famous fortress," was, he again maintained, a mere pretense. "The ten houses which stood betwixt them and the fort on the north, besides those to the west, and the patroon's woods, not a stone's throw to the west, south-west and north-west," were left unmolested, though they were a greater obstruction than the new buildings to the fort, "which you can enter or quit at pleasure, by night or by day," without let or hindrance. "Wherefore it is notorious that all the present proceedings emanated from party spirit; had no foundation in reason, and were as justifiable as the complaint in Æsop's fable, of Cousin Gysbert, who, whilst drinking on a hill from a waterfall, quarrelled with a lamb, who stood below, for disturbing the water and making it muddy."

This protest produced a long replication from the director and council, whose power, it was maintained, "extended to the colonie of Rensselaerswyck, as well as to the other colonies, such as Heemstede, Vlissingen and Gravenzande." Stringent orders were issued to Van Brugge and Labadie to prosecute and complete the repairs of the fort; to procure, for that purpose, timber everywhere within the limits of NewNetherland; to quarry stones "from the mountains, rocks and plains, and have them conveyed from any place, and in the most convenient manner, except from farms and plantations which are fenced and cultivated, or about being so." In case the people were forbid to assist with their horses and wagons, the commissaries were to have a wagon made, and to use the horses belonging to Jonas Bronck, on Van Curler's farm, as he was indebted to the company. The jurisdiction of the company, and "the antient and uninterrupted use of the gardens and fields near the fort," were to be rigidly maintained, and the destruction of the buildings within musket or cannon shot proceeded with forthwith.

The schout-fiscaal of New Netherland followed. He averred that it was long since notorious that the director and council had been treated with disrespect by Van Slechtenhorst. No court of justice in the colonie could pronounce on the present case, even if the director-general should condescend to appear before such a tribunal. The only question to decide now was, whether Van Slechtenhorst had been summoned three times by the company's commissary in the presence of two credible witnesses; for it was, by no means, the custom in Holland to serve written summons. It was a base misrepresentation to assert that three armed soldiers insolently intruded themselves into the patroon's house. Van Brugge had knocked at the door "in a civil manner," and had been admitted by the back way when he "courteously" demanded the commander to exhibit his commission and to furnish him with a copy thereof. This having been refused, a protest was served, according to order, and Van Slechtenhorst summoned to appear at Fort Amsterdam. He could have obeyed without inconvenience, as "the river remained open, the winter pleasant, and several vessels sailed up and down, during the whole month of November." Now, however, to remove all doubt, the citation was again renewed, and the commander was peremptorily ordered to appear at Fort Amsterdam, on the fourth of April next ensuing, by the first sailing vessel, "where he will be informed of the complaint against him." The director-general immediately forwarded a report of the whole of this affair to his superiors. The prospect from Fort Orange ought, in his opinion, to be unobstructed, at least within circle of cannon shot: there were plenty of vacant lots along the river, on which the inhabitants could construct their dwellings, yet they persist, "through pride," in building near the walls. But the truth was, it was neither through pride nor obstinacy that the colonists, at this early day, persisted in clinging to Fort Orange. This post supplied them in their feebleness, with security against the Indians, and they were loth to forego its protection.

Removed from the contentions which were distracting the capital of New Netherland, Commander Van Slechtenhorst was actively extending the limits of Rensselaerswyck, by the purchase of the Mohegan lands to the south of that colonie. On the 4th of September, 1648, he had acquired for the patroon the tract called Paponicuck, in exchange for some thirty ells of duffels and a few handfuls of powder¹ and this spring purchased Katskill² and Claverack. On the other side of the Atlantic, Wouter Van Twiller was boldly laying claim to the control and monopoly of the upper waters of the Hudson river, and publicly announcing his determination not to permit any merchant vessel to pass Beeren Island, or to trade in the vicinity of Rensselaerswyck. For he maintained that Fort Orange had been built on the patroon's territory, and that none—"not even the company"—had a right to permit others to erect houses or to pursue any branch of business thereabout. Feudal law and feudal privileges thus brought along with them, into these parts, the old feudal quarrels of Europe for the free navigation of nature's highways to the ocean, and the question was whether the North river should be open to all their high mightinesses' subjects, or whether these should be debarred from its use of the garrison on Beeren island, now named "in such a lofty way, 'The place by right of arms.'" The absurdity of the claim to the soil on which Fort Orange stood, was clearly established, by the fact that that fort was built and garrisoned by the company full fifteen years before the existence of Rensselaerswyck; that up to the year 1644, the company had the exclusive enjoyment of the fur trade, which the company intended to reclaim "whenever it shall be able to provide its magazines with a sufficient store of goods." In view, therefore, of all these circumstances, and in order to correct a state of things, of which the merchants generally complained, the directors determined to use their sovereign right to the confusion of Van Twiller—"that ungrateful individual, who had sucked his wealth from the breasts of the company whom he now abuses." They accordingly dispatched orders to remove all obstructions to the free navigation of the North river and commercial intercourse with Fort the kil with the falls, also along the north side of the kil three flat parcels of land, and on the south side two flats, extending on both sides, from the mouth of the kil unto the aforesaid fall, together with the wood and pasture of the woods on both sides, to hold all in peaceable possession. Whereof cession and conveyance are from this day made to the aforesaid patroon. For the purchase thereof is this day handed to them, by the honorable director of this colonie, seventeen and one-half ells of duffels, a coat of beaver, and a knife, and that in full without any further demand, all without fraud or deceit. In witness whereof the aforesaid squaw as cedant, and her son, with witnesses, have signed this instrument with their own hands. Orange. If Van Twiller should again plant guns near that river, they were to be seized ; and if any person dared to exact tolls, or salt duty, on any rivers, islands, or harbors within the company's limits, to the injury of the inhabitants or traders generally, such were to be prevented by all means possible—even by force if necessary—as it was the firm determination of the directors never to part with these preeminences or jurisdictions to any colonists whatsoever.¹

²"In manner, under restriction, stipulation, and condition as herein before particularly mentioned, [in the deed of Paponicuck,] hath the honorable the director sent deputies in the presence of the Rev. Mr. Megapolensis, in the name and for the account of the honorable the patroon of this colonie Rensselaerswyck, and bought of Pewasck, being a squaw, and chief of Katskill, therein included, and her son Supahoof, through the medium and interpretation of Skiuias, or Aepje, chief of the Mahecanders, a kil named Katskill, accounted to be nine miles from Fort Orange, and six miles from Beeren island, together with the land on both sides that is to say,

Previous to this date Van Slechtenhorst had granted several leases for land in Katskill. But the directors refused to admit the patroon's pretensions to that section of country, as it had already been granted to another. In conformity with his instructions, Stuyvesant now protested against those leases, and announced his resolution to oppose these encroachments. The authorities of Rensselaerswyck were, consequently much embarrassed, and therefore remonstrated : they had only obeyed the orders of their superiors in Holland : “ as two opposite things can not be made to approximate unless one give way,” it is easy to see how impossible it had become for them to perform their duty according to their oaths. “ It is unbecoming natives of the United Netherlands,” they added, “ to loosen the bond of union by which they are joined ; on the contrary, they ought to use all possible means to tighten it.” They therefore requested the director-general to defer further proceedings in the matter, until they should communicate with their superiors, and promised in the meanwhile neither to send nor allow to be sent any settlers or cattle to the land in dispute. Thus was impeded the early settlement of the present county of Greene.

The local authorities were now earnestly besought to provide the inhabitants with a proper schoolmaster, “ Perceiving how necessary such a person was to the establishment of a well-constituted republic,” a committee was appointed to build a school-house and to collect funds for defraying whatever expenses might be incurred. Andries Jansz was appointed to take charge of this institution in the course of the following year, and received a present, on entering on the discharge of his duties, of twenty dollars.

Whilst engaged in this praiseworthy undertaking, the settlers were thrown into great consternation by a report that the Mohawks were meditating an attack upon them. An Indian from Tappaan had arrived "unasked and unexpected," and said, "Ye Dutchman have now been selling guns long enough to the Maquaas. They have been among us, and by presents, engaged us to assist them to kill you when the river takes. They have been likewise among the southern Indians, who have promised also to lend them a hand." When closely questioned he persisted in his statement: "Come and take me, and bind me fast; and if it do not happen at the stated time, as I have said, then strike me dead!" Asseverations so strong could not fail to convince. The settlers were called together, and the whole matter was laid before them. Opinions, however, differed. Some were for repelling force by force: others recommended negotiation. The latter and wiser policy prevailed and the authorities passed, accordingly, the following resolutions:

"The insecurity of our lives and property forces itself continually upon us, living, as we do, under the licentious constraint of inhuman men and cruel heathens. Of this we had, last year, a suspicion, but now it has really manifested itself by evident demonstration and truthlike predictions and advices communicated to us, not by the parties implicated, but by warnings and premonitions from far distant Indians. Though some have advised a recourse to arms and resistance, and to measure our weakness with their strength, the director, commissaries and council, weighing the necessity of the case have concluded and resolved to commission and empower Mons. Arendt Van Curler, Gerrit Van Wencom, Cornelis Teunisz. van Breuckelen, Thomas Chambers, and Volckert Hanz (being thereunto requested), to repair, with a suitable present to the Mohawk country, and to renew former friendship and alliance, for the welfare of the Patroon's colonie, the safety of the common weal, and the protection of our wives and children, all which they willingly undertake."

Labadie, the French commissary at Fort Orange, who was well acquainted with the Mohawk tongue, was invited to accompany this embassy; but he refused. Would it not be better, he was asked, to embrace peace than war? "It matters little to those in the fort," he selfishly replied, "how it goes — whether it be war or peace ;” and truly they could not but feel secure. In addition to whatever arms they might have belonging to the company, the commissary, to render his position stronger, had borrowed three pieces—one a six, another a five, and the third a three pounder, belonging to the Patroon. With these, therefore, it mattered little with him what the relations with the Indians were. But it was far different with the mass of the unprotected colonists.

The ambassadors departed in the beginning of October, solemnly assuring the authorities of Rensselaerswyck that they should do all in their power to promote peace. To remove all cause of future misunderstanding with the Indians, a placard was issued abolishing licenses to trade in the interior, as well as “bosloopers” or runners, called by the French “coureurs de bois,” a “fountain of mischief, trouble and animosity ;” “but as this could not be properly or effectually accomplished without the consent of the people, the latter, in confirmation of their good inclination, have, as far as they were concerned, assented thereto, in Fort Orange, under their own hands.”

The embassy to the Mohawk was successful. Presents were distributed among them to the amount of five hundred and seventy-five guilders ; the expenses of the delegation amounted to eighty-one and a half guilders, or about thirty dollars, the whole of which sums were paid by the authorities of Rensselaerswyck.¹

In 1651, the call for a subsidy from Rensselaerswyck brought on a collision between the authorities of that colonie and the provincial government. The latter had, already, peremptorily demanded the excise on wines and strongliquors consumed in the Patroon’s district, which was refused. It was considered an invasion of the freedoms, and in direct opposition to the custom of fatherland. The Patroon had defrayed, from his own resources, the salaries of the minister and other public servants, as well as the general expenses attendant on the settlement of the country. These had amounted, on the 30th of June, 1650, to the sum of twenty-five thousand seven hundred and seventy-three guilders, or more than ten thousand dollars ; no part of which had been paid either by the company, or the codirectors of the colonie.¹ It would be, therefore, submitting to a wrong to consent to the demand now put forth. As it was a matter, however, that concerned the common interests of the country and the privileges of the colonie, commander Van Slechtenhorst was commissioned to proceed to New Amsterdam, to remonstrate with the director and council against it.

He arrived at the Manhattans towards the close of the month of April, and took the earliest opportunity to represent how contrary to reason, law and usage were the proposed exactions. But Stuyvesant was inexorable, and Slechtenhorst, on his side, was equally unyielding ; “ for it was a matter of great importance, which may cause not only tumult but bloodshed in the country.” The parties separated, but Slechtenhorst had not yet finished his dinner, when a messenger summoned him before the director-general and council. Immediately on his appearance the authorities proceeded to pronounce sentence against him, animadverting in strong terms on his conduct, especially in reference to the settlement of Katskill. Slechtenhorst, no ways daunted, demanded if a man could be condemned unheard ? The only answer he received was an order for his arrest. He was detained four months at the Manhattans, notwithstanding he repeatedly protested against his detention, and the authorities of Rensselaerswyck made several applications for his release. Finally, seeing no prospect of obtaining permission to depart, he embarked in a sloop, and returned to Fort Orange, having given a guaranty to the skipper to see him harmless, should he be prosecuted for having received him on board. It was well for the skipper that he had taken this precaution ; for, on his return to the Manhattans, his vessel was arrested, and he was fined two hundred and fifty guilders and costs. Van Slechtenhorst estimated his expenses in consequence of these proceedings at about four hundred dollars.

Three years had now elapsed since director Stuyvesant set up a claim for a separate jurisdiction for Fort Orange, distinct and independent of that of Rensselaerswyck. Yet the question remained still unsettled. Lines were not drawn in those days with as much precision as in our times. The Indians measured by the day's journey; Stuyvesant by the cannon ball. The jurisdiction of the fort, as claimed by him, extended over a circumference within the range of gun shot, which he estimated at six hundred paces of five feet to a pace;¹ a distance subsequently estimated at one hundred and fifty rods. As the hamlet of Beverwyck, now becoming every day more populous and valuable, would, by this operation, be severed from the colonie; and as the company could not fail, in consequence, to secure the greater part of the fur trade, to the serious injury of the Patroon, considerable opposition was manifested to Stuyvesant's pretension. The authorities of Rensselaerswyck maintained that the fort stood on the Patroon's soil; that the whole territory from Beeren island to the Cohoes was his; and that, consequently, the fort could have no jurisdiction beyond its walls. As for trading in furs, or cutting timber, it was, they insisted, a flagrant spoliation of the Patroon's property.

Jean Baptiste Van Rensselaer, the first of that family who visited this country, was elected one of its magistrates, whilst this controversy was at its height. Shortly afterwards, an order was issued that all the freemen and inhabitants should take the oath of allegiance to the Patroon and his representatives.

These conflicting pretensions were necessarily productive of a bad state of feeling between the opposing parties. On New Year's night, some soldiers, armed with matchlocks, sallied from the fort, and fired a number of shots at the Patroon's house. Several pieces of ignited wadding settled on the roof (which was of reed), and had caused the destruction of the building had not the inmates been on the alert. On the following day, the soldiers assaulted young Slechtenhorst in the street, "and not only beat him black and blue, but dragged him through the mud and mire in the presence of Joannes Dyckman, the company's commissary,¹ who cried out all the time, "Let him have it now, and the d—l take him!" Philip Pietersen Schuyler endeavored to save his brother-in-law. Dyckman, hereupon, drew his sword and threatened to run Schuyler through, if he interfered. The soldiers struck others of the commander's children, and threatened to shoot them, but were prevented. The friends of the family were justly incensed at this outrage, and menaced revenge. This coming to Dyckman's ears, he, it is represented, ordered the guns of the fort to be loaded with grape, with the intention of blowing down the patroon's house.

Things were in this unpleasant state when Stuyvesant sent up some placards relating to the limits of Fort Orange, which he ordered to have published in the colonie. Dyckman, accompanied by six followers and three soldiers "armed with carbines and pistols," proceeded to the house where the magistrates were in session, and demanded of Slechtenhorst to make a minute of what he was about to require. As it was contrary to law for any man to enter another's jurisdiction with an armed posse, without the previous consent of the local authorities, Dyckman's conduct was looked upon as an additional insult, against which Slechtenhorst protested, ordering the commissary at the same time to quit the room. Dyckman retired; but "as force hath more to say here than justice," he returned with increased numbers, and demanded that the placards should be published throughout the colonie by the sound of the bell. "It shall not be done so long as we have a drop of blood in our veins," replied the court, "nor until we receive orders from their high mightinesses and our honored masters." But Dyckman, nevertheless, persisted, and ordered the porter to ring the bell. This was opposed also. Dyckman now proceeded to the fort; ordered the bell there to be rung three times; then returned to the Patroon's court-house; ascended the front stoop, or steps, with his armed followers, whilst the wondering burghers stood round, and directed his deputy to make proclamation of the placards. The latter was about to obey, when Van Slechtenhorst, rushing forward, tore the placards from his hands, "so that the seals fell on the ground." Another long protest followed from the authorities of the colonie, whilst young Van Rensselaer said to the crowd, "Go home, good friends! 'tis only the wind of a cannon ball fired six hundred paces off."

On receiving the report of these occurrences, the director-general immediately dispatched another placard to Dyckman; again declaring the jurisdiction of Fort Orange to extend within a circumference of six hundred paces of said fort, "and in order that no man shall plead ignorance, we further charge our commissary, after publication hereof, to erect on the aforesaid limits, north, south and west of the aforesaid fortress, a post, marked with the company's mark, and to affix on a board nailed thereto, a copy hereof." Within these bounds, no house was, for the future, to be built, except by consent of the director and council, or those authorized to act for them.¹ This violent and illegal act, violating at once the rights of property and the sixth article of the charter of 1629, severed, now and forever, the town of Beverwyck from Van Rensselaer's colonie.² It was not,

² The Patroon and codirectors of Rensselaerswyck never ceased to protest against this high handed proceeding, and to demand the restitution of the property thus unlawfully taken from them. They succeeded at length in 1673 (when the country fell a second time into the hands of the Dutch), in obtaining tardy justice. On the 3d of April of that year, the directors of the West India Company acknowledged, by a notorial act, after having examined the original Indian deeds, that the proprietors of the colonie were also right owners of the town, then called Willemstadt; that the aggression committed against them by director Stuyvesant, was in special violation of the 6th Art. of the charter of 1629, and could neither take away nor diminish the proprietorship claimed by the parties. The company at the same time declared that they had no right or claim to any part of the said colonie. This view of the case was admitted also by Gov. Dongan, in 1686, who considered it necessary to obtain a release from the Patroon of all his claims, before he could legally incorporate the city of Albany.

however, quietly submitted to by the authorities of the latter, for they immediately ordered their constable to remove the posts forthwith, "protesting before Almighty God and the states-general, against all open force and violence, and insisting on reparation for all losses and damages which might accrue, or be caused thereby." On the same day, the court drew up a long remonstrance "against the unbecoming pretensions and attacks of the director and council of New Netherland," in which they denied that the latter had any authority over the colony; they had never sworn allegiance to the company, much less to Monsieur Stuyvesant, and owned no masters but the states-general, and their own immediate superiors, whose lands have been erected into a perpetual fief, with high, middle, and low jurisdiction; and he who would now destroy this, must be more powerful than the company, "yea, than their high mightinesses." The late director Kieft, understood the law better than those who administer it now-a-days; and this will be made manifest when the matter shall be subjected to that touchstone.¹

This paper was declared, by the director and council, "a libellous calumny." Secretary de Hooges was called on to furnish the names of the magistrates who had voted in favor of it, and threatened, in case of disobedience, to prosecute him for contumacy.

In the meanwhile the question of jurisdiction presented itself in a new shape to agitate and disturb still further this infant hamlet. A negress belonging to Sander Leendertsen Glen, charged with theft, caused several "decent persons" to be prosecuted as receivers of stolen goods. She was ordered to be arrested for defamation, and Dyckman proceeded to take up the wench. Her master refused to surrender her that evening. Dyckman, offended at this, told the burgher that he had power to send him and all his family to jail; to pull his house down about his ears, and trample it underneath his feet, "as it was erected on the company's soil." "I have nothing to do with you," replied Glen; "I can not serve a new master until I am discharged from the one I live under." The commissary threatened him with Stuyvesant, but the other thought he should fare as well at the director-general's hands as he. This retort overthrew Dyckman's temper. He drew his rapier and threatened to run his adversary through. But Glen was not afraid. He seized a stick to repel his assailant, who then retired. Next morning he was summoned to the fort, and placed under arrest. Rumors now became rife that Stuyvesant was about to visit the place, and the commissary went so far as to give out that a new gallows was building for Slechtenhorst and his son, and for young Van Rensselaer, who were put down as the fomenters of this rebellion."¹

The director was at this time occupied in ridding himself of all that remained of his opponents at New Amsterdam. Melyn was in a manner outlawed; Van Dinclage had retired to Staten Island to brood over his contumelies; Van Schelluyne durst not exercise his profession, and the nine men were under ban. The only one undisposed of was attorney-general Van Dyck, and his hour had now arrived.

From the moment that he had been commissioned, he was treated by Stuyvesant with marked contumely, and excluded from the council for over two years after his arrival in the colony. In the exercise of his office he was most commonly employed as a scrivener, to copy legal papers, the drafts of which the director-general usually prepared; at other times he was "charged to look after the pigs and keep them out of the fort, a duty which a negro could very well perform." When Van Dyck happened to object, the director "got as angry as if he would swallow him up;" or if he presumed to disobey, "put him in confinement, or bastinadoed him with his rattan!" A series of ill-usage such as this naturally drove the fiscal into the ranks of the opposition. Charges of drunkenness and of having received bribes were brought against him as early as 1647, and periodically renewed, but did not accomplish as yet his dismissal or disgrace.

But in the spring of this year ¹ a silly lampoon against the director-general made its appearance, and Van Dyck was put down as its author.² The council was convoked to consider this weighty affair of state, and a resolution followed, dismissing the schout-fiscaal from office, "on account of the multitude of his misdemeanors and connivances." This resolution purported to be "by and with the advice of the nine men," but these repudiated the assertion, and declared, "that they never had any knowledge of the commonalty, having complained of Van Dyck; that they never had agreed to the resolution ordering his dismissal; that Stuyvesant had passed it on his own authority, and that the secretary had falsely appended to it their names."

To fill this vacancy, Cornelius Van Tienhoven, the putative author of the above intrigue, received the appointment of attorney-general; Carel Van Brugge, "an Englishman," provisionally succeeded him as provincial secretary; and Adriaen Van Tienhoven became receiver-general in place of his brother.

"Were an honorable person appointed in my stead," says Van Dyck, commenting on these proceedings, "the false

¹ The directors, writing this year to Stuyvesant, say: "We have observed that your climate does not reform much the manners of individuals. Of this there is yet much less hope if the chiefs of the administrations set a bad example to others. In this respect, we receive many complaints from those who return from New Netherland, against the attorney-general, for drunkenness and other vices. If he continue such a disorderly life, we shall be compelled to employ such means of restraint as we deem expedient."—Alb. Rec., iv, 74.

² This pasquinade was in these terms: "Myn Heer General! It is impossible for me to conceal from your excellency, that I heard you scolded and cursed on the evening of the 11th of March, at Mr. Fyn's house, as a rogue and a tyrant, with many other calumnious defamations, which cut me to the heart. Thou art a God appointed of God! I pray you for Christ's sake to prevent it, or I shall feel very unhappy, for I can no longer listen to it, and durst not acquaint you with it by word of mouth. Christman, Fyn, and two other women heard it also. I wish that the fiscaal would bestir himself. No other man is better. Was neither signed nor subscribed, nor compared with the discovered scrap, this 28th March, 1652, in New Amsterdam, (signed), Cor. Van Thienh., secretary." Van Dyck accused Van Tienhoven, Christman (V. T.'s clerk), and others of having got up this plot, and circulated this lampoon to have him dismissed.—Hol. Doc., vi, 263-265.

accusations against me, which have been so long resolved upon and written, might have some semblance of truth; but the person whom the director-general hath, on his own mere motion, made fiscaal, is his perjured secretary, who returned here contrary to their high mightinesses' prohibition; a public, notorious, and convicted whore-monger and oath-breaker; a reproach to this country, and the main scourge of both Christians and heathens, with whose sensualities the director himself has been always acquainted." "The fault of drunkenness could easily be noticed in me, but not in Van Tienhoven, who has frequently come out of the tavern so full that he could go no further, and was forced to lie down in the gutter." ¹

Having thus disposed of Van Dyck, Stuyvesant turned his attention to Van Slechtenhorst, and to conclude all difficulties with him, repaired to Fort Orange and called on the authorities of Rensselaerswyck to state where their bounds commenced. It was indifferent to him from what point, north or south, they should start. The exemptions allowed them four miles on one, or two miles on both banks of the river, and he was prepared to concede to that extent; but he warned them, if they should refuse this "reasonable offer," he would proceed ex parte. They replied that they had no instruction to act in the premises; and requested delay, until they advised with the interested parties in Holland. The delay was granted, but the question of supremacy over Beverwyck was not so easily settled. Sergeant Litchoe presented himself with a party of soldiers before the patroon's house, and having stationed his followers at the door, ordered Van Slechtenhorst to strike the patroon's flag. The latter peremptorily refused to obey, whereupon "fourteen soldiers armed with loaded muskets, entered the enclosure, and after firing a volley, hauled down the lord's colors." Stuyvesant followed up this act, by issuing a proclamation erecting in Fort Orange a court of justice for the village of Beverwyck and its dependencies, apart from, and independent of, that of Rensselaerswyck. This placard having been affixed to the court house of the colonie, was torn down by Van Slechtenhorst, who in return posted a proclamation vindicating the patroon's rights, and denouncing the pretensions of those who infringed them. This was removed by those of the fort.¹

From the date of general Stuyvesant's proclamation above mentioned, reckons the establishment of a legal tribunal in Beverwyck, and consequently, in the present city of Albany. It was an exercise of the prerogative which followed naturally the high-handed proclamation of the fifth of March preceding.

Van Slechtenhorst's reign was now evidently drawing to a close. For four years he had manfully defended the rights of his "orphan patroon," and unflinchingly contended against the invasions of superior force. But what, in those days, could avail in New Netherland the opposition of one man against the attacks of the executive? Nine armed soldiers burst into his house, and, without exhibiting any authority for the act, dragged him, a prisoner, "against all his protests," to Fort Orange, "where neither his children, his master, nor his friends, were allowed to speak to him," whilst "his furs, his clothes, and his meat were left hanging to the door-posts," and his house and papers were abandoned to the mercy of his enemies. He was next conveyed on board a sloop lying in the river, and removed, in charge of a guard, to New Amsterdam, "to be tormented, in his sickness and old age, with unheard of and insufferable prosecutions, by those serving a Christian government, professing the same religion, and living under the same authority."²

Jan Baptist Van Rensselaer succeeded Van Slechtenhorst as director, and Gerrit Swart was appointed sheriff or schout-fiscaal of Rensselaerswyck in his place. Provision was made at the same time for the regular preaching of the gospel, and the conversion of the heathen, by the appointment of the Rev. Gideon Schaets as minister of the colonie; at a salary of eight hundred guilders, or $320 per annum. This stipend was afterwards raised to one thousand, and then to thirteen hundred guilders.¹

Information was received by the patroon and codirectors of Rensselaerswyck of the high-handed measures which Stuyvesant had exercised in the early part of this year in regard of their colonie. They thereupon sent in to the Amsterdam chamber a remonstrance, complaining, 1st. That the director-general had dared to intrude in their colonie, and had commanded the patroon's flag to be hauled down; 2d. That he had caused timber to be cut on the complainant's lands, without either their knowledge or permission; 3d. That he had claimed for the company the right of jurisdiction and property over all the land within a circumference of one hundred and fifty rods of Fort Orange, where he had erected a court of justice, notwithstanding the soil had been purchased from the right owners by the patroon, with the jurisdictions thereunto belonging; whereby the colonists were reduced to a state of dependency, absolved from their oaths, "transformed from freemen to vassals, and incited to disregard their former solemn compacts and their lord and master;" 4th. He had, moreover, discharged sheriff Swart from his oath of office and obliged him to swear allegiance to the company; 5th. Demanded copies of all the rolls, protocols, judgments, resolutions and papers relative to the colonie and its affairs; 6th. Ordered his commissary to force Van Slechtenhorst's house, and to toll the bell at the publication of his illegal placards; 7th. Arrested by force and arms the director of the colonie; had him conveyed to the Manhattans, where he illegally detained him in custody; 8th. Taxed the colonie to swell the company's revenues; licensed those who quit the patroon's service to sell articles of contraband to the savages; and in

¹ The power of attorney to J. B. Van Rensselaer is dated 8th May, 1652. Gerrit Swart was born in 1607, and was, consequently, 45 years of age when he came to New Netherland. addition to the exaction of the tithes, had raised a tax by farming out the excise on wines and beers—"thus in every respect and everywhere using violence and infringing rights, jurisdictions and preeminences, apparently determined to take our goods and blood, contrary to all laws, human and divine; declaring, over and above all this, that he is continued in his administration solely in the hope and consideration that before his departure he should ruin this colonie."¹ The patroon and codirectors solemnly avowed their intention "to employ all lawful remedies to preserve and maintain their rights and privileges, and to protect their colonists against such lawless aggressions," and insisted that the West India Company should forthwith order their director to abandon these attempts, repeal his placards, and compensate for the injuries which he had inflicted. But if the directors were of opinion that they had any just cause of complaint, they were then called on to appear in any court of justice to make good their pretensions before "our common judges." Failing to answer categorically the above accusations within four and twenty hours, the interested parties threatened "to complain where they expect they shall be heard."

The director answered in vague terms, that they were unwilling to commit an infraction on any person's privileges; but this not being deemed satisfactory, the patroon and his friends addressed a memorial to their high mightinesses the states-general, of whom they demanded justice and redress. This paper was immediately sent to the department of Amsterdam, who, after considerable delay, returned a reply to some of the charges brought against their agent in New Netherland. They denied all knowledge of the patroon's

¹We, the undersigned, certify that it happened in December, Anno 1651, when M. Joannes Dyckman was in conversation with us concerning the Heer General Petrus Stuyvesant, and the difference between his honour and the colonie, that he answered thereupon, that the Heer General was continued in his office for no other purpose than to plague the colonie. This we declare to have occurred, and are ready to confirm the same by a solemn oath. Done in the Colonie Rensselaerswyck, the 16th March, Ao. 1652. B. V. flag having been hauled down; of his colonists having been released from their oaths; of any of his lots having been taken away; and of the establishment of a court of justice in Fort Orange. The timber was removed from a place so defined as to injure no one, and all complaints against the extension of the jurisdiction of Fort Orange were without foundation. That jurisdiction was determined "before the colonie of Rensselaerswyck was granted." "The limits of the colonie were, therefore, fixed above and below the fort, under whose walls the petitioners were afterwards permitted to shelter themselves from the savages; but from this concession no right or title can be imagined or acquired." Gerrit Swart was not discharged from his oath to the patroon. He was only obliged to take a second one to the company, "remaining subject to both masters." The demand of the rolls and papers belonging to the colonie, as well as the levying tithes and excise therein, was authorized by the charter. As Van Slechtenhorst would not "toll the bell" on the publication of the placards, it was unavoidably necessary that it should be executed by others; and his arrest was imperatively demanded in order to curb the insufferable insolence, effrontery and abuse of power," of which he was guilty. The authorizing the sale of arms and ammunition to the savages was acknowledged. "It was deemed prudent that it should be now and then permitted."

Having thus disposed in one way or another, and as best they could, of the charges which were brought against them, the directors now assumed the offensive, and presented against the patroon and codirectors of Rensselaerswyck a number of counter-charges, in justification of the measures they had adopted, or as an offset to those accusations made against themselves.

They had, it was averred, exceeded their lawful limits, and were now called on to record their boundary lines in the land office of the company, otherwise the latter would have the survey made by its own orders. They had attempted, against all law, to extend their lines along the North river, to monopolize the trade, to the ruin of private persons. They refused to permit any vessel to pass by a certain house called Rensselaers-stein, and claimed without any foundation the privilege of staple right. They exacted seven per cent duty on each beaver and five per cent on other goods, enforcing these pretensions with cannon shot, which they discharged into yachts that refused to come to. They have endeavored, "by perverse machinations;" to possess themselves of Fort Orange, and when frustrated herein, they undertook to lease lots in its vicinity and erect buildings thereupon. "They had dared to grant commissions to individuals to sail to the coast of Florida;" and forbade colonists to move within the company's limits on pain of corporal punishment, confiscation of property and banishment; to cut or cart wood for the inhabitants of Fort Orange; to pay to the latter what they owed them; or to appeal from any judgments over fifty guilders, as they were privileged to do. They declined to furnish any extracts of their proceedings or judgments; to make returns to writs of appeal; to publish placards or permit such publication by others, but tear them by force from the hands of court messengers and destroy their seals; and if any writ be served by the company's officers, then they incite the parties summoned not to appear. Over and above all this, the oath which the colonists are compelled to take is "seditious and mutinous," for no notice is taken therein, either of their high mightinesses or of the company. No report has been made of the state of the colonie, as should have been annually done, nor have the instructions issued for the administration of the colonie been ever communicated, as the charter required. "From all which flow, as a natural consequence, an insolent and overbearing demeanor on the part of their commanders to their inhabitants; insufferable protests, injuries, menaces, disputes and provocations against the company's ministers; and, lastly, a general disobedience of all the company's commands and ordinances, to such a degree that they would not permit the director and council to proclaim even a day of prayer in the colonie in the same manner as in all other parts of New Netherland."¹

The limits between Fort Orange and the colonie were in 1654 still undetermined. Some confusion as to jurisdiction necessarily ensued, to remove which the director-general called again on the patroon's agents to fix on their point of departure, as he was willing to allow them, agreeably to the charter, four miles on one side, or two on each bank of the river, "without the limits of Fort Orange." The magistrates of the colonie being unprovided with instructions from their superiors requested delay, and Stuyvesant seized an opportunity which offered, shortly after, to enlarge his jurisdiction. The court of Rensselaerswyck was about to farm the excise, and demanded how far they could collect this impost. The answer was an order to the court of Fort Orange to collect the duties on all wines, beers and spirituous liquors sold by retail "within a circuit of one thousand rods of the fort." The colonie was hereby deprived of a very important source of revenue, and fresh fuel was heaped on the old fires of litigation and trouble. As if the elements of strife were not sufficiently numerous, a claim for tenths was also put in. Counter orders were given by the patroon's officers to their vintners, to refuse the payment of the excise, on the ground that the general government defrayed none of the local charges; and as for the tenths, "neither the inhabitants of the colonie nor those of Beverwyck could be induced either by monitions or persuasions to pay them."¹

Commissary Dyckman, whose violent demeanor might, long ere this, justified doubts of the soundness of his mind, became now so unquestionably insane that the magistrates were forced to represent his condition to the supreme council, who thereupon appointed Johannes de Decker vice-director, "to preside in Fort Orange and the village of Beverwyck, in the court of justice of the commissaries aforesaid to administer all the affairs of police and justice, as circumstances may require, in conformity to the instructions given by the director general and council, and to promote these for the best service of the country and the prosperity of the inhabitants."

Shortly after the installation of the new vice director, Father Le Moyne took occasion to pay his respects to the Dutch at Beverwyck. He was received with much respect by the Hollanders; and the Mohawks whom he visited for the purpose of concluding a treaty on the part of the French evinced more than ordinary gratification at seeing him.¹ But the Father had not well left the country when a body of one hundred of these Indians presented themselves at Fort Orange. They were on the eve of setting forth on a war excursion against the Canada Indians, and fearing "that the French had poisoned the ears of their Dutch brothers against them," now asked the latter to remain neuter. They complained, at the same time, that when they visited the fort, they did not experience as much hospitality and feasting as the Dutch did when they came to their castles; they could not have the smallest repairs done to their guns unless they had wampum to pay in return, which treatment was not such as a brother should receive from a brother. The authorities assured them that they should observe a perfect neutrality, as they had no concern with their quarrels with other Indians. When they visited the Mohawk country they went few in number, and should their brothers observe the same rule, they should be lodged and entertained in a manner becoming their rank. In regard to the other subject of complaint, they could not interfere. Every Dutchman was obliged to earn his bread, and no man could be obliged to serve another for nothing. This being the rule among Christians, their brothers could not justly complain if they were treated as their other brethren. Presents were duly exchanged. The Indians laid their wampum belts at the feet of the white men, and the latter furnished powder and lead in return; "all which they accepted with their customary barbarous applaudings," and departed.²

The church erected in 1643 had long since become inadequate to the accommodation of the community, and it had been determined in the course of the preceding year to erect a new building. To assist this good work, the patroon and codirectors subscribed one thousand guilders or four hundred dollars,³ and fifteen hundred guilders were appropriated from the fines imposed by the court at Fort Orange. A site, at the junction of what is now State street and Broadway, was selected, and in the early part of the summer, Rutger Jacobsen, one of the magistrates, laid the corner-stone of the sacred edifice, in the presence of the authorities, both of the town and colonie, and of the assembled inhabitants. A temporary pulpit was, at first, erected for the use of the minister, but the settlers subscribed twenty-five beavers to purchase a more splendid one in Holland. The Chamber at Amsterdam added seventy-five guilders to this sum, for "the beavers were greatly damaged;" and "with a view to inspire the congregation with more ardent zeal," presented them in the course of the next year with a bell "to adorn their newly constructed little church."¹

The difficulties about the excise in the colonie remaining still unsettled, orders were sent up by the director and council to arrest and convey the contumacious tapsters to New Amsterdam. De Decker accordingly invited one of them to his house, where, on his arrival, he made him prisoner. The sloop in which he was to be conveyed down the river not being ready to sail until the next day, De Decker, for greater security, lodged his prisoner through the night in the same bed with himself. Through the connivance of the soldiers on guard, the tapster contrived to escape from the fort on the morrow, and repaired forthwith to the patroon's house. Hither De Decker followed and ordered him to return to the fort, but he refused. The other tapsters now made common cause with the fugitive, and arming themselves, remained together to protect each other from the emissaries of the law. The vice director, esteeming it an absurdity to suffer an asylum for fugitives from justice to exist in the very centre of his jurisdiction was preparing to execute his orders by force, when John B. Van Rensselaer pledged himself to repair to the Manhattans and arrange the matter with the supreme authorities. To avoid bloodshed, De Decker acquiesced in this proposal; but another order arrived a few days afterwards, directing him to send down the tavern-keepers forthwith. In obedience to these instructions, he proceeded with an armed posse to the houses of the parties, where he again met Van Rensselaer and "his associates." He summoned them, in the name of the director and council to surrender and accompany him to the fort. "Whereupon they each answered, 'There sits the Lord he will answer for me.'" Van Rensselaer acquiesced herein, and again bound himself to produce the tapsters when required. De Decker, finding it useless to continue the discussion, protested, and Mr. Van Rensselaer proceeded to New Amsterdam. Here, on his arrival, he presented a strong remonstrance against the course which the government was pursuing. Their exactions, he insisted, were contrary to the sixth article of the charter. Instead of the directors having any claim on the patroon, the contrary was the fact. The company had guarantied to defend the colonists against all violence, yet the latter had thrice come forward, at great expense, to assist Fort Orange; first, during the war with the French savages; secondly, in the trouble with the English; and lately during the unhappy misunderstanding with the Indians around the Manhattans. Whenever there was any prospect of trouble, they were the first to appease the savages by presents. The losses which the latter inflicted on the colonie, by the killing of cows, horses, and other cattle, amounted annually to several thousand guilders; and, in addition, the patroon and codirectors maintained, at their own expense, all the ministers and officers of the colonie. In the face of these facts, it was manifestly unjust to seize now on the excise, and to insist on the payment, also, of tenths. However, to prevent all further disturbance, he was willing to permit the payment of the former, under protest, if the director and council pledged themselves to refund the money, should a final decision be given against them by impartial judges, either here or in Holland.

This remonstrance was, at once, pronounced "frivolous" by the director-general and council, whose "high office and quality permit them not to stoop so low as to enter the lists with their subjects and vassals, much less to answer their frivolous and unfounded protests with a pusillanimous diffidence." Their duty was rather "to correct such absurd assertions, and to punish the offenders." Wherefore, as a public example, the protestor was fined twenty guilders.

Having thus, as they considered, vindicated their dignity, Van Rensselaer was informed that his colonists were bound equally with other settlers in the province to contribute to the public burthens, not only by the very nature of civilized government, but by Art. XVIII, of the charter of 1629; and this they ought to do, without suspecting any infraction on their privileges or jurisdiction. The excise due from this colonie which amounted by estimate, to fifteen hundred guilders, must therefore be paid, together with all damages which may have accrued by the delay. The tavern-keepers must, moreover, submit to the guaging of their stock as often as the same may be required; and as John Baptist Van Rensselaer was, himself, the original cause that the excise is resisted, he was called on to give a bond of three thousand guilders, for the personal appearance of the "contumacious tavern-keepers;" otherwise he was to remain at the Manhattans under civil arrest.

The director and council also insisted that the colonie was obliged to pay the tithes. If Mr. Van Rensselaer would agree with some of his colonists on a round sum, in lieu of these, it would be accepted until instructions should be received from Holland; if the directors or arbitrators should decide afterwards that the colonie was not subject to tenths, the amount paid should be reimbursed. The assertions that the colonists assisted the company in its difficulties "were made, but not proved." It is true they promised to assist in putting Fort Orange in a state of repair, at the time of the troubles with the English; but it was not less true, that after having given three or four days' labor, "they left us to shift for ourselves." The director and council were entirely ignorant of being under any obligations to them "during the late troubles." This rejoinder was followed by a proclamation, ordering all the towns and colonies in the province not to remove their crops before they settled with the company's commissaries for the tenths. A copy of this placard was sent for publication to the authorities of Rensselaerswyck, but they refused to publish it.

It was during this misunderstanding that the "contumacious tapsters," having been guarantied by the director and court of the colonie against damage, arrived at the Manhat-tans to answer for their conduct. The plea of residence in the colonie and of acting according to superior orders availed them nothing. One was fined two hundred pounds, failing payment of which he was to be banished; the other was mulcted eight hundred guilders. The pa-troon subsequently made good both these fines. The dif-ficulties about the tenths were not settled until July, 1658, when the colonie compounded for them by the yearly pay-ment of three hundred schepels of wheat. Commissary De Decker being now about to return to Holland, resigned his office, and Johannes La Montagne, hitherto one of the coun-cil, was commissioned vice director of Fort Orange, Johan-nes Provoost became secretary and Ludovicus Cobbes court messenger.¹ The vice-director's house at this period was an old building within the fort, twenty-six feet nine inches long, Rhineland measure; two stories high, constructed of boards one inch thick, with a roof in the form of a pa-vilion," covered with old shingles. Under this house was a cellar "as long as the house was broad." The first floor was divided into two compartments. At the north end was a chamber, sixteen or seventeen feet broad; at the south end an entry ten feet wide. The space on the second floor was one undivided room, directly under the roof, without a chim-ney, to which access was had by a straight ladder, through a trap-door. Here the magistrates administered justice: this was the first court-house of the present city of Albany.

Fort Orange was, until the year 1661, the frontier town on the northern and western borders of the province. Beyond that all was "the far west," little known and less explored, wholly abandoned to the wild savage or wilder beasts of prey. But civilization, that giant before whom beasts and savages were alike fated to disappear, and who was never to pause until he bathed his feet in the waters of the Pacific, was now about to take another step westward. The prox-imity of the whites had exhausted the resources of the Indians in the neighbourhood of Beverwyck. Furs were becoming scarce, and the soil was no longer an object of value. The natives were, therefore, inclined to sell for a trifle the Great Flatt, west of the fort, "towards the interior of the country." Six or eight families were desirous to move thither, and the prospect of obtaining additional settlers was favorable, for at Beverwyck the common people were much impoverished and unable to meet their wants, "from one loaf to another."¹ Under these circumstances, Arent van Curler applied, on behalf of himself and others, to the director-general for permission to purchase the land in question. The requisite authority was duly granted,² but had not been yet received at Fort Orange when a freshet laid the country for miles around under water. This was followed, a few days after, by an inundation, much greater than the first, which forced the inhabitants to quit their dwellings and fly with their cattle for safety to the woods on the adjoining hills. Incalculable damage was caused by these irruptions. The wheat and other grain were all prostrated, and had to be cut mostly for fodder, affording scarcely seed sufficient for the next spring.³ This visitation necessarily caused the postponement of the purchase of the great Flatt until the ensuing month, when the following deed was obtained from the Indian owners:

Done in Fort Orange the 27th July, anno 1661, in presence of Martin Morris and William Montagne, thereunto requested, in presence of me La Montagne, Vice Director and Commissary over the Fortress Orange."¹

A grant under the provincial seal was issued in the following year, but the land was not surveyed or divided until 1664.² The inhabitants of Fort Orange and its neighborhood were most anxious to retain the fur monopoly, and had sufficient influence with the director and council to induce them to order that the settlers of Schaenhechtede (as the new village came to be called) should confine themselves exclusively to agriculture, and abstain from all trade with the Indians. This, in fact, was the condition on which they were allowed to remove thither; "for it would never have been permitted to settle this plain except on the assurance that no object was in view but agriculture, because of the dangers which would accrue if, at such a distant place, any trade with the savages was allowed.”¹ Such a restriction was easily evaded at this “distant” outpost, and it soon came to be known that some of the settlers sold intoxicating liquors to the natives. When the application for the survey came before the council, Jacques Cortelyou was sent thither, but with instructions not to survey any man’s land who might refuse to sign the following obligation:

“We the undersigned inhabitants on the Flatt named _____, hereby promise that we shall not carry on, or allow to be carried on, at the aforesaid Flatt, or thereabout, any the least handeling (traffic), however it may be called, with any Indians, under what pretext the same may be, directly or indirectly, on pain of paying, if we, or any of us, happen to violate this our promise, a fine, without any opposition, for the first offence, of fifty beavers: for the second, one hundred; and for the third, forfeiture of our acquired and obtained lands on the aforesaid Flatt.”²

When this resolution was communicated to the parties interested, it excited much discontent. They avowed their loyalty, and willingness to pay the duties rightfully belonging to the company, and not to do anything in violation of the laws and placards of the province. They hoped that they should not be treated less liberally than others. They had purchased their lands with their own moneys, erected buildings, stocked their farms; now should all this be in vain, they would be ruined. They therefore requested that the surveyor might be allowed to proceed, “otherwise they should be necessitated to help themselves as best they could.”³

Accompanying this remonstrance was a private letter from Van Curler to the director-general. On his recommendation the settlers had consented to proceed with their ploughing and planting, though, at first, they seemed unwilling to do so. He trusted that the place would be surveyed, though it was his impression that the director and council were acting on the suggestion of some envious persons who sought their own profit at the expense of the cultivation of the public lands, and that under a pretended fear that "a little beaver" should be bought there, and they have thereby so much less. It seemed to him that they who followed agriculture ought not to be worse treated than those who pursue commerce. It would be lamentable were the settlers and their posterity to remain forever under this ban of slavery, and be excluded from bartering either bread, milk, or the produce of their farms for a beaver, so as to be able to purchase some covering for their bodies and dwellings. No person would imagine that trade could be carried on with the Indians at Schaenhechtady as favorably as at Fort Orange. Goods must be brought from the latter place thither, and therefore must needs sell higher. To obviate all difficulty, the settlers were willing to pledge themselves not to sell any brandy to the Indians, on pain of confiscation of their property.¹

This appeal in favor of unshackled commerce was of no avail. Nothing but danger would accrue if the inhabitants were to continue conveying merchandise, as they had already begun to do, on wagons and horses, to the savages. "Already the Indians had attacked wagons, fired on those who conducted them, and attempted to violate females journeying thither, as well in the concentration as on the road." To prevent a repetition of these insolences, no goods were to be carried to Schaenhechtady for the future, and the schout of Fort Orange was ordered to proceed forthwith to the new settlement, take an inventory of all the goods introduced there in violation of the act of concession, and have the same removed, "as it was not the intention to build up one place for the purpose of bringing ruin on another—yea, on the whole country."² Thus things remained for nearly another year. It was not until May, 1664, that the surveyor was allowed "to lay out the lands of Schauenhechtete."¹ In legal and municipal affairs it remained dependent on the court at Fort Orange.

Jeremias Van Rensselaer succeeded his brother Jan Baptist, as director of the colonie in 1658, and administered its affairs for sixteen years with great prudence and discretion. He was much respected by the French, and exercised an influence over the Indians surpassed only by that of Van Curler. On the change of government and the breaking out of the war, considerable difficulty was experienced in obtaining a patent for the manor from the Duke of York. To obviate this, some persons of influence advised him to take out one in his own name, he being qualified, as a British subject, to hold real estate. To his great honor, it is recorded that he rejected the offer, for he was only coheir, and could not thus defraud his brothers and sisters. He was a man of great industry, and communicated to Holland an account of various occurrences in this country, under the name of the New Netherland Mercury. His correspondence, from 1656 to his death, still in good preservation, affords a valuable and interesting commentary on private and public affairs, and contains a relation of facts and incidents which otherwise would be irreparably lost. He died on the 12th October, 1684, and was followed to the grave by a large concourse of mourners.²

² His wife died 29th January, 1689, N. S., in the 44th year of her age, leaving five children, the eldest of whom, Kiliaen, was the first lord of the manor of Rensselaerswyck, which he represented in the Provincial Assembly from 1691 to 1703, when he was called to the Council. In the following year he conveyed Claverack, or "the lower manor," as it was called, with the Cralo estate at Greenbush, to his younger brother Hendrik. From these two proceed the numerous members of this wide-spread family in this country. Jan Baptist Van Rensselaer survived his brother four years, having deceased 18th October, 1678; Dom. Nicolaus Van Rensselaer died the month following.

DESCRIPTION OF ALBANY AND MANNERS OF THE INHABITANTS.

[From Mrs. Grant's Memoirs of an American Lady.]

The city of Albany stretched along the banks of the Hudson; one very wide and long street lay parallel to the river, the intermediate space between it and the shore being occupied by gardens. A small but steep hill arose above the centre of the town, on which stood a fort, intended (but very ill adapted) for the defence of the place, and of the neighboring country. From the foot of this hill, another street was built, sloping pretty rapidly down till it joined the one before mentioned that ran along the river. This street was still wider than the other; it was only paved on each side, the middle being occupied by public edifices. These consisted of a market-place, or guard-house, a town hall, and the English and Dutch churches. The English church, belonging to the Episcopal persuasion, and in the diocese of the bishop of London, stood at the foot of the hill, at the upper end of the street. The Dutch church was situated at the bottom of the descent where the street terminated; two irregular streets, not so broad, but equally long, ran parallel to those, and a few even ones opened between them. The town, in proportion to its population, occupied a great space of ground. This city, in short, was a kind of semi-rural establishment; every house had its garden, well, and a little green behind; before every door a tree was planted, rendered interesting by being coeval with some beloved member of the family; many of their trees were of a prodigious size and extraordinary beauty, but without regularity, every one planting the kind that best pleased him, or which he thought would afford the most agreeable shade to the open portico at his door, which was surrounded by seats, and ascended by a few steps. It was in these that each domestic group was seated in summer evenings to enjoy the balmy twilight, or the serenely clear moonlight.

ENGLISH CHURCH AND FORT.

From Watson's Annals.

Each family had a cow, fed in the common pasture at the end of the town. In the evening the herd returned all together, of their own accord, with their tinkling bells hung at their necks, along the wide and grassy street, to their wonted sheltering trees, to be milked at their masters' doors. Nothing could be more pleasing to a simple and benevolent mind than to see thus at one view, all the inhabitants of a town, which contains not one very rich or very poor, very knowing or very ignorant, very rude or very polished, individual; to see all these children of nature enjoying in easy indolence, or social intercourse, clothed in the plainest habits and with minds as undisguised and artless. These primitive beings were dispersed in porches, grouped according to similarity of years and inclinations. At one door were young matrons, at another the elders of the people, at a third the youths and maidens, gayly chatting or singing together, while the children played round the trees, or waited by the cows, for the chief ingredient of their frugal supper, which they generally ate sitting on the steps in the open air. This picture, so familiar to my imagination, has led me away from my purpose, which was to describe the rural economy, and modes of living in this patriarchal city.

“The cool, fragrant, and the dusky hour,”

At one end of the town, as I observed before, was a common pasture where all the cattle belonging to the inhabitants grazed together. A never-failing instinct guided each home to her master's door in the evening, where, being treated with a few vegetables and a little fat, which is indispensably necessary for cattle in this country, they patiently waited the night; and after being milked in the morning, they went off in slow and regular procession to the pasture. At the other end of the town was a fertile plain along the river, three miles in length, and near a mile broad. This was all divided into lots, where every inhabitant raised Indian corn sufficient for the food of two or three slaves (the greatest number that each family ever possessed), and for his horses, pigs, and poultry; their flour and other grain they purchased from farmers in the vicinity. Above the town, a long stretch to the westward was occupied first by sandy hills, on which grew bilberries of uncommon size and flavor, in prodigious quantities; beyond, rise heights of a poor hungry soil, thinly covered with stunted pines, or dwarf oak. Yet in this comparatively barren tract there were several wild and picturesque spots, where small brooks, running in deep and rich bottoms, nourished on their banks every vegetable beauty; there some, of the most industrious early settlers had cleared the luxuriant wood from these charming glens, and built neat cottages for their slaves, surrounded with little gardens and orchards, sheltered from every blast, wildly picturesque, and richly productive. Those small sequestered vales had an attraction that I know not how to describe, and which probably resulted from the air of deep repose that reigned there, and the strong contrast which they exhibited to the surrounding sterility. One of these was in my time inhabited by a hermit. He was a Frenchman, and did not seem to inspire much veneration among the Albanians. They imagined, or had heard, that he retired to that solitude in remorse for some fatal duel in which he had been engaged; and considered him as an idolator because he had an image of the virgin in his hut. I think he retired to Canada at last; but I remember being ready to worship him for the sanctity with which my imagination invested him, and being cruelly disappointed because I was not permitted to visit him. These cottages were in summer occupied by some of the negroes, who cultivated the grounds about them, and served as a place of joyful liberty to the children of the family on holidays, and as a nursery for the young negroes, whom it was the custom to rear very tenderly, and instruct very carefully.

In the society I am describing, even the dark aspect of slavery was softened into a smile. And I must, in justice to the best possible masters, say that a great deal of that tranquillity and comfort, to call it by no higher name, which distinguished this society from all others, was owing to the relation between master and servant being better understood here than in any other place. Let me not be detested as an advocate for slavery, when I say that I think I have never seen people so happy in servitude as the domestics of the Albanians. One reason was, (for I do not now speak of the virtues of their masters,) that each family had few of them, and that there were no field negroes. They would remind one of Abraham's servants, who were all born in the house; this was exactly their case. They were baptized too, and shared the same religious instruction with the children of the family; and, for the first years, there was little or no difference with regard to food or clothing between their children and those of their masters.

When a negro-woman's child attained the age of three years, it was solemnly presented, the first New Year's day following, to a son or daughter, or other young relative of the family who was of the same sex with the child so presented. The child to whom the young negro was given, immediately presented it with some piece of money and a pair of shoes; and from that day the strongest attachment grew between the domestic and the destined owner. I have nowhere met with instances of friendship more tender and generous than that which here subsisted between the slaves and their masters and mistresses. Extraordinary proofs of them have been often given in the course of hunting or of Indian trading; when a young man and his slave have gone to the trackless woods together, in the case of fits of the ague, loss of a canoe, and other casualties happening near hostile Indians. The slave has been known, at the imminent risk of his life, to carry his disabled master through unfrequented wilds, with labor and fidelity scarce credible; and the master has been equally tender on similar occasions of the humble friend who stuck closer than a brother; who was baptized with the same baptism, nurtured under the same roof, and often rocked in the same cradle with himself. These gifts of domestics to the younger members of the family were not irrevocable; yet they were very rarely withdrawn. If the kitchen family did not increase in proportion to that of the master, young children were purchased from some family where they abounded, to furnish those attached servants to the rising progeny. They were never sold without consulting their mother, who, if expert and sagacious, had a great deal to say in the family, and would not allow her child to go into any family with whose domestics she was not acquainted. These negro-women piqued themselves on teaching their children to be excellent servants, well knowing servitude to be their lot for life, and that it could only be sweetened by making themselves particularly useful, and excelling in their department. If they did their work well, it is astonishing, when I recollect it, what liberty of speech was allowed to those active and prudent mothers. They would chide, reprove, and expostulate in a manner that we would not endure from our hired servants; and sometimes exert fully as much authority over the children of the family as the parents, conscious that they were entirely in their power. They did not crush freedom of speech and opinion in those by whom they knew they were beloved, and who watched with incessant care over their interest and comfort. Affectionate and faithful as these home-bred servants were in general, there were some instances (but very few) of those who, through levity of mind, or a love of liquor or finery, betrayed their trust, or habitually neglected their duty. In these cases, after every means had been used to reform them, no severe punishments were inflicted at home. But the terrible sentence which they dreaded worse than death, was past—they were sold to Jamaica. The necessity of doing this was bewailed by the whole family as a most dreadful calamity, and the culprit was carefully watched on his way to New York, lest he should evade the sentence by self-destruction.

One must have lived among those placid and humane people to be sensible that servitude, hopeless, endless servitude, could exist with so little servility and fear on the one side, and so little harshness or even sternness of authority in the other. In Europe, the footing on which service is placed in consequence of the corruptions of society, hardens the heart, destroys confidence, and embitters life. The deceit and venality of servants not absolutely dishonest, puts it out of one's power to love or trust them. And if in hopes of having people attached to us, who will neither betray our confidence, nor corrupt our children, we are at pains to rear them from childhood, and give them a religious and moral education; after all our labor, others of their own class seduce them away to those who can afford to pay higher for their services. This is not the case in a few remote districts, where surrounding mountains seem to exclude the contagion of the world, some traces of fidelity and affection among domestics still remain. But it must be remarked that, in those very districts, it is usual to treat inferiors with courtesy and kindness, and to consider those domestics who marry out of the family as holding a kind of relation to it, and still claiming protection. In short, the corruption of that class of people is, doubtless, to be attributed to the example of their superiors. But how severely are those superiors punished? Why this general indifference about home; why are the household gods, why is the sacred hearth so wantonly abandoned? Alas! the charm of home is destroyed, since our children, educated in distant seminaries, are strangers in the paternal mansion; and our servants, like mere machines, move on their mercenary track without feeling or exciting one kind or generous sentiment. Home, thus despoiled of all its charms, is no longer the scene of any enjoyments but such as wealth can purchase. At the same time we feel there a nameless cold privation, and conscious that money can coin the same enjoyments with more variety elsewhere. We substitute these futile and evanescent pleasures for that perennial spring of calm satisfaction, "without overflowing full," which is fed by the exercise of the kindly affections, and soon indeed must those stagnate where there are not proper objects to excite them. I have been forced into this painful digression by unavoidable comparisons. To return:

Amidst all this mild and really tender indulgence to their negroes, these colonists had not the smallest scruple of conscience with regard to the right by which they held them in subjection. Had that been the case, their singular humanity would have been incompatible with continued injustice. But the truth is, that of law the generality of those people knew little; and of philosophy, nothing at all. They sought their code of morality in the Bible, and there imagined they found this hapless race condemned to perpetual slavery; and thought nothing remained for them but to lighten the chains of their fellow Christians, after having made them such. This I neither "extenuate," nor "set down in malice," but merely record the fact. At the same time it is but justice to record, also, a singular instance of moral delicacy distinguishing this settlement from every other in the like circumstances; though, from their simple and kindly mode of life, they were from infancy in habits of familiarity with these humble friends, yet being early taught that nature had placed between them a barrier, which it was in a high degree criminal and disgraceful to pass, they considered a mixture of such distinct races with abhorrence, as a violation of her laws. This greatly conduced to the preservation of family happiness and concord. An ambiguous race, which the law does not acknowledge, and who (if they have any moral sense, must be as much ashamed of their parents as these last are of them) are certainly a dangerous, because degraded part of the community. How much more so must be those unfortunate beings who stand in the predicament of the bat in the fable, whom both birds and beasts disowned? I am sorry to say that the progress of the British army, when it arrived, might be traced by a spurious and ambiguous race of this kind. But of a mulatto born before their arrival, I only remember a single instance; and from the regret and wonder it occasioned, considered it as singular. Colonel Schuyler, of whom I speak, had a relation so weak and defective in capacity, that he never was intrusted with any thing of his own, and lived an idle batchelor about the family. In process of time, a favorite negro-woman, to the great offence and scandal of the family, bore a child to him, whose color gave testimony to the relation. The boy was carefully educated; and when he grew up, a farm was allotted to him well stocked and fertile, but "in depth of woods embraced," about two miles back from the family seat. A destitute white woman, who had somehow wandered from the older colonies, was induced to marry him; and all the branches of the family thought it incumbent on them, now and then, to pay a quiet visit to Chalk, (for so, for some unknown reason, they always called him.) I have been in Chalk's house myself, and a most comfortable abode it was; but I considered him as a mysterious and anomalous being.

I have dwelt the longer on this singular instance of slavery, existing devoid of its attendant horrors, because the fidelity and affection resulting from a bond of union so early formed between master and servant contributed so very much to the safety of individuals, as well as to the general comfort of society.

RETURN OF ABERCROMBIE'S ARMY.

After the defeat of the British under Abercrombie before Ticonderoga, in 1758, the corpse of the gallant and lamented Lord Howe was escorted to Albany by Philip Schuyler.¹ In a few days the wounded of this proud but humbled army, were brought down, and received by the Schuylers at their farm residence, the Flats, as men and brethren. The barn was fitted up as a hospital, and a part of the house allotted to the surgeon, among whose patients was the afterward notorious Charles Lee, who was a captain in the forty-fourth regiment. On the advance of the army from Albany by the way of the Flats, Lee commanded one of the first detachments in the line of march ; and although he neglected to bring the customary warrants for impressing cattle and other necessities, he, however, says Mrs. Grant, seized every thing he wanted wherever he could most readily find it, as if he were in a conquered country ; and not content with this violence, poured forth a volley of execrations on those who presumed to question his right of appropriation. Even Mrs. Schuyler was not spared. On his return he shared the hospitalities of the mansion,² and in the language of Mrs. Grant, " was received and treated as a child." Lee felt and acknowledged the resistless force of such generous humanity. He swore, in his vehement manner, he was sure there was a place reserved in heaven for Madam Schuyler, though no other woman should be there.

¹For an authenticated account of the final destiny of the remains of Lord Howe, see Historical Collections of Albany, I, 390, 391.

²The house of Madame Schuyler was soon after this event burned, but was rebuilt after her death, and a portion of the old wall is still seen in the present edifice.

CHARTER OF THE CITY OF ALBANY.

This instrument was executed by Governor Thomas Dongan, in 1686. In the Governor's report on the province, made in the following year to the committee of trade, he says :

"The town of Albany lyes within the Ranslaers colony, and to say truth the Ranslaers had the right to it for it was they settled the place, and upon a petition of one of them to our present King, about Albany, the petitioner was referred to his Majesty's council at law, who upon a perusal of the Ranslaers papers, made their return that it was their opinion that it did belong to them; upon which there was an order sent over to Sir Edmond Andros, that the Ranslaers should be put in possession of Albany, and that every house should pay some two beavers, some more some less, according to their dimensions, per annum, for thirty years, and afterwards the Ranslaers to put what rent upon them they could agree for. What reason Sir Edmund Andros has given for not putting these orders in execution I know not. The Ranslaers came and brought me the same orders which I thought not convenient to execute, judging it not for his Majesty's interest that the second town of the Government and which brings his Majesty soe great a revenue should bee in the hands of any particular men. The town of itself is upon a barren sandy spot of land, and the inhabitants live wholly upon trade with the Indians. By the meanes of Mr. James Graham, Judge Palmer and Mr. Cortlandt, that have great influence on that people, I got the Ranslaers to release their pretence to the town and sixteen miles into the country for commons to the King, with liberty to cut firewood within the colony for one and twenty years. After I had obtained this release of the Ranslaers I passed the patent for Albany."

The citizens commissioned Peter Schuyler and Roberr Livingston to go to New York and receive the Charter from the hands of the Governor. The original document is on file in the Chamberlain's office, dated July 22, 1686, as is also a copy of it printed by Hugh Gainé, in 1771, from the latter of which we have copied.¹

And I do, by these presents, constitute and appoint Robert Livingston to be the present town clerk, clerk of the peace, and clerk of the court of pleas, to be holden before the mayor, recorder and aldermen within the said city, and the liberties and precincts thereof.

And further, I do by these presents, for his said majesty, his heirs and successors, require and straitly charge and command, that the sheriff, town clerk, clerk of the peace, high constable, petty constables, and all other subordinate officers in the said city, for the time being, and every of them respectively, jointly and severally, as causes shall require, shall attend upon the said mayor, recorder, and aldermen of the said city, for the time being, and every or any of them, according to the duty of their respective place, in and about the executing of such the commands, precepts, warrants and process of them, and every of them, as belongeth and appertaineth to be done or executed.

for the time being, until such offender and offenders shall be lawfully delivered thence.

And I do, by these presents, for his said majesty, his heirs and successors, charge and require the keeper and keepers of the said gaol for the time being, and his and their deputy and deputies, to receive and take into safe custody, to keep all and singular such person and persons so apprehended, or to be apprehended, sent and committed unto the said gaol, by warrant of the said justices or any of them as aforesaid, until he or they so sent and committed to the said gaol, shall from thence be delivered by due course of law.

And further, I do grant for his said majesty, his heirs and successors, that the said mayor of the said city, for the said city, for the time being, and no other, be, and forever shall be clerk of the market within the city aforesaid, and the liberties and precincts, thereof; and that he and no other, shall and may forever do, execute and perform all and singular acts, deeds and things whatsoever, belonging to the office of clerk of the market within the city aforesaid, and the liberties and precincts thereof, to be done, executed, and performed. And that the said mayor of the said city for the time being, and no other person or persons, shall or may have assize or assay of bread, wine, beer and wood, and other things to the office of clerk of the market belonging or concerning, as well in the presence as in the absence of his said majesty, his heirs, and successors, or his or their lieutenants or governors here. Also, I will and grant for his said majesty, his heirs and successors, unto the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the said city for the time being, and their successors forever, that the mayor of the city aforesaid, for the time being, during the time that he shall remain in the said office of mayor, and no other, be, or shall be coroner of his said majesty, his heirs and successors, as well within the city aforesaid, and the liberties and precincts thereof, as without the same, within the limits or bounds of the said county: and that he, and no other, shall do or cause to be done and executed, within the said city, limits and precincts thereof, or without the same, within the limits and bounds of the county, all and singular matters and things to the said office of coroner belonging, there to be done. And that the said mayor of the said city for the time being, shall take his corporal oath before the recorder, or any three or more of the aldermen of the said city, well and duly to execute the said office of clerk of the market and coroner of the said city and county, before he take upon him the execution of either of the said offices.

And also, I do by these presents, grant unto the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the said city of Albany, that if any of the citizens of the said city, or inhabitants within the liberties and precincts thereof, that shall after be elected, nominated, and chosen to the office of mayor, aldermen, assistants, sheriff or chamberlain of the said city as aforesaid, and have notice of his or their election, shall refuse or deny to take upon him or them to execute that office, to which they shall be so chosen or nominated; that then, and so often it shall and may be lawful for the mayor, recorder, aldermen and assistants of the said city, for the time being, or the mayor, or any three of the aldermen, and three or more of the assistants of the said city for the time being, to tax, assess, and impose upon such person or persons so refusing or denying, such reasonable or moderate fines and sum of money as to their discretion shall be thought most fit so as the said fine, penalty, or sum, for refusing or denying to hold and execute the office of mayor of the said city, do not exceed the sum of twenty pounds, current money of this country; and the fine for refusing or denying to hold and execute the place of an aldermen do not exceed the sum of ten pounds, like current money; and the fine for denying or refusing to hold and execute the place of chamberlain, assistant or sheriff, the sum of five pounds, like current money.

And I do, by these presents, for his said majesty, his heirs and successors, authorize the mayor, recorder, aldermen and assistants of the said city for the time being, and the mayor, and three or more of the aldermen, and three or more of the assistants there for the time being, to frustrate and make void the election of such person or persons so refusing or denying as aforesaid; and then, and in such cases, any other fit and able person and persons, citizen and citizens, of the said city, or inhabiting within the liberties and precincts thereof, in convenient times, to elect anew in manner aforesaid, directed and prescribed to execute such office and offices so denied or refused to be executed as aforesaid; and that if it shall happen that such person or persons so to be elected anew, shall refuse or deny to take upon him or them any of the said office or offices unto which he or they shall be chosen and elected as aforesaid; then and in such case, the mayor, recorder, aldermen and assistants of the said city for the time being, or the said mayor, or three or more of the said aldermen, and three or more of the assistants of the said city for the time being, shall or may set, and impose upon them so denying or refusing, such and the like moderate fines as is before set down in the like cases to the respective offices, with such limitations as aforesaid; and also in such and the like manner as aforesaid; to continue and make void such election and elections, and make new elections as often as need shall be and required; all which said fines so set and imposed, I do, by these presents, for and on behalf of his said majesty, his heirs, successors and assigns, grant to be, and shall be and remain, and belong unto, and shall be put into the possession and seizen of the mayor, aldermen and commonalty for the time being, and their successors, to be levied and taken by warrant under the common seal, and by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the several persons so refusing or denying as aforesaid, if such goods and chattels may be found within the said city, liberties and precincts thereof, rendering to the parties the overplus, or by any other ways or lawful means whatsoever, to the only use of the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the said city of Albany, and their successors, without any account to be rendered, made or done to the said king's majesty, his heirs, successors or assigns for the same.

And know ye, that for the better government of the said city, and for the welfare of the citizens, tradesmen and inhabitants thereof, I do by these presents, for his said majesty his heirs and successors, give and grant to the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the said city, and their successors, that the mayor, recorder and aldermen, or the mayor or any three or more of the aldermen, for the time being, shall, from time to time and all times hereafter, have full power and authority, under the common seal, to make free citizens of the said city and liberties thereof; and no person or persons whatsoever, other than such free citizens, shall hereafter use any art, trade, mystery or manual occupation within the said city, liberties, and precincts thereof, saving in the times of fairs there to be kept, and during the continuance of such fairs only. And in case any person or persons whatsoever, not being free citizens, shall hereafter use or exercise any art, trade mystery or manual occupation or shall by himself themselves or others, sell or expose to sale any manner of merchandize or wares whatsoever by retail, in any house, shop or place, or standing within the said city, or the liberties or precincts thereof, no fair being then kept in the said city, and shall persist therein, after warning to him or them given or left, by the appointment of the mayor of the said city, for the time being, at the place or places where such person or persons shall so use and exercise any art, trade, mystery or manual occupation or shall sell or expose to sale any wares or merchandize, as aforesaid, by retail; then. it shall be lawful for the mayor of the said city, for the time being, to cause such shop windows to be shut, and also to impose such reasonable fine for such offence, not exceeding twenty shillings, for every respective offence; and the same fines so imposed, to levy and take, by warrant under the common seal of the said city, for the time being, by distress and sale of the goods and chattels, of the person or persons so offending in the premises, found within the liberties and precincts of the said city, rendering to the parties the overplus, or by any other lawful ways or means whatsoever, to the only use of the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the said city of Albany, and their successors, without any account to be rendered, made or done to his majesty, his heirs and successors or to his or their lieutenants, governors, or commanders in chief for the same. Provided always, that no person or persons, shall be made free as aforesaid, but such as are his majesty's natural born subjects, or such as shall be first naturalized by act of general assembly, or have obtained letters of denization, under the hand of the lieutenant, or governor, or commander-in-chief for the time being, and the seal of the said province; and that all persons to be made free as aforesaid, shall and do pay for the public use of the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the said city, such sums of money, as such person or persons, so to be made free, shall respectively agree for, not exceeding the sum of three pounds twelve shillings, for the admission of each merchant or trader; and the sum of six and thirty shillings, for the admission of each handicraft or tradesmen.

And whereas, amongst other the rights, privileges, preheminences and advantages, which the citizens and freemen of the said city of Albany, and their predecessors, have for many years last past held, used and enjoyed, the privileges, preheminences, and advantages of having within their own wall, the sole management of the trade with all the Indians living within and to the eastward, northward and westward of the said county of Albany, within the compass of his said majesty's dominion here, which hath been from time to time, confirmed to them, and their said predecessors, as well by prescription, as by divers and sundry grants, orders, confirmations and proclamations, granted, ordered, confirmed, and issued forth, not only by and from divers governors, and commanders in chief in the said province, since the same hath been under his said majesty's dominion, but also of several governors, generals, and commanders in chief of the Nether-Dutch nation, whilst the same was, or has been under their power and subjection, which has always been found by experience, to be of great advantage, not only to the said city in particular, but to the whole province in general; and that by the care, caution and inspection of the magistrates, of the said city, to the well and orderly management and keeping the trade with the Indians within their walls, it hath returned vastly to the advancement of trade and the increase of his majesty's revenue, and been the sole means, not only of preserving this province in peace and quiet, whilst the neighbouring colonies were imbrued in blood and war; but also of putting an end to the miseries those colonies labored under from the insulting cruelty of the Northern Indians. Whereas on the other hand, it has been no less evident, that whenever there has been any slackness or remissness in the regulation and keeping the Indian trade within the walls of the said city, occasioned by the incroachment of some persons trading with the Indians, in places remote, some clandestinely, others upon pretence of hunting passes, and the like, the trade not only of the said city, but of the whole province has apparently decreased, the king's revenue has been much impaired, and not only so, but this government has lost much of the reputation and management amongst the Indians, which it otherwise had and enjoyed; wherefore, for and on behalf of his said majesty, his heirs and successors, I have given, granted, ratified and confirmed, and by these presents, do give, grant, ratify and confirm unto the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the said city of Albany, and their successors forever, the right, privileges, preheminance and advantage of the sole and only management of the trade with the Indians, as well within this whole county, as without the same, to the eastward, northward and westward thereof, as far as his majesty's dominion here does or may extend, to be managed and transacted only by the freemen, being actual inhabitants within the said city and within the now walls or stockadoes thereof, and not elsewhere. And I do hereby, for his said majesty, his heirs and successors, absolutely forbid and prohibit all and every the inhabitants of the said province of New York, (the inhabitants of the said city of Albany, only excepted) to trade or traffic with any of the five nations of Indians, called the Senekas, Cayouges, Onnondages, Oneydes, and Maqueas, who live to the westward, or with any other Indian or Indians whatsoever, within the county of Albany, or to the eastward, northward or westward thereof, so far as his said majesty's dominions here, do or may extend, or to have or keep in their houses or elsewhere, any Indian goods or merchandize, upon the pain and penalty of the forfeiture and confiscation of such Indian commodities, whether the same be beavers, peltry or other Indian commodities, whatsoever, except Indian corn, venison, and dressed deer skins, to trade for, and upon pain and penalty of the forfeiture and confiscation of all such Indian goods and merchandizes, as guns, powder, lead, duffels, rum and all other Indian goods and merchandize, which shall at any time hereafter be found, concealed, or kept in any house or place without the walls of the said city, and within the said county of Albany, and the other limits and boundaries herein before set forth and prescribed; and in case any person or persons whatsoever shall at any time hereafter, out of the walls of the said city, and within the said county, or the other limits and boundaries herein before set forth and prescribed, trade or traffic with any Indian or Indians, for any beavers, peltry, or other Indian commodities, (except before excepted) or there shall conceal and keep any Indian goods, wares or merchandizes in any house or place as afore-said; then it shall and may be lawful for the mayor, recorder, or any of the aldermen for the time being, by warrant under their or any of their hands, to cause such Indian commodities so traded for, and such goods or merchandizes so kept and concealed without the walls of the said city, wheresoever they shall be found within the said city or county, or without the same, within the limits and boundaries before expressed, to be seized, and the same to be condemned and confiscate, in the court of pleas, or common pleas in the said city, or any other court of record within the said city or province, one third part to the mayor of the said city for the time being, one third part to such person or persons as shall inform or sue for the same, and the other third part to the use of the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the said city of Albany, and their successors forever. And also, that it shall and may be lawful to and for the mayor, recorder and aldermen of the said city for the time being, by a warrant under their or any of their hands and seals, to cause such person or persons, as shall presume to trade or traffic with the Indians contrary to the form and effect of these presents, to be apprehended wherever they shall be found within the limits and boundaries herein before prescribed, to answer the same at the court of pleas and common pleas in the said city, or any other court of record within the said city or province, where being legally convicted thereof, such person or persons, over and besides the forfeiture and confiscation of such goods, merchandizes and commodities as aforesaid, shall be fineable, and fined in such sum or sums of money, (not exceeding twenty pounds, current money of this country) at the discretion of such court, before whom he or they shall be prosecuted, shall be thought reasonable and convenient; which said fines shall be one-third part to the person who shall inform and prosecute for the same, and the other two-thirds to the use of mayor, aldermen and commonalty, and their successors forever.

And further, I do by these presents, for and on behalf of his said majesty, his heirs and successors, grant and declare to the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty of Albany, and their successors, that his majesty, his heirs and successors, or any of his or their governors, lieutenants, commanders in chief, or other officers, shall not, or will not, from henceforth, forever, hereafter, grant unto any person or persons whatsoever, any license or licenses, to hunt within the said county of Albany, or to the eastward, northward or westward, so far as his said majesty's dominions here, doth, or may extend, without the consent and approbation of the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the said city of Albany, for the time being, by the said person or persons first to be had and obtained.

And further, I do, by these presents, for his said majesty, and his successors, grant to the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the said city, that they and their successors be forever, persons able and capable, and shall have power to purchase, have, take, and possess in fee simple, lands, tenements, rents, and other possessions, within or without the same city to them and their successors forever, so as the same exceed not the yearly value of one thousand pounds per annum, the statute of mortmain, or any other law to the contrary notwithstanding; and the same lands, tenements, hereditaments, and premises or any part thereof to demise, grant, lease, set over, assign and dispose at their own will and pleasure, and to make, seal, and accomplish any deed or deeds, lease or leases, evidences or writings for or concerning the same or any part thereof, which shall happen to be made and granted by the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the said city for the time being.

And further, for and on behalf of his said majesty, his heirs and successors, I do, by these presents, grant to the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty, that they and their successors shall and may forever hereafter, hold and keep within the said city, in every week in the year, two market days, the one upon Wednesday, and the other upon Saturday, weekly forever.

And also, I do by these presents, for and on behalf of his said majesty, his heirs and successors, grant to the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the said city, that they and their successors and assigns shall and may at any time or times hereafter, build a public weigh-house in such part of the said city, as to them shall seem convenient; and that they the said mayor, aldermen, and commonalty shall and may receive, perceive, and take to their own proper use and behoof all and singular the issues and profits therefrom or thereby arising or accruing; as also, that they the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the said city of Albany, their heirs and successors, shall and may at any time or times hereafter, when it to them shall seem fit and convenient, to take in, fill and make up, and lay out all and singular the ground and lands within the limits and precinct of the said city, and the same to build upon and make use of in other manner or way as to them shall seem fit, as far into the river that passeth by the same as low water mark aforesaid.

And further, and on behalf of his said majesty, his heirs and successors, I do, by these presents, give and grant unto the aforesaid mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the said city of Albany, and their successors, that they and their successors, shall and may have, hold and keep within the said city, liberties and precincts thereof, once every fortnight in every year forever, upon Tuesday, one court of common pleas for all actions of debt, trespass upon the case, detinue, ejectment, and other personal actions, and the same to be held, before the mayor, recorder and aldermen, or any three of them, (whereof the mayor or recorder to be one,) who shall have power to hear and determine the same pleas and actions, according to the rules of common law, acts of the general assembly of the said province, and the course of other corporations in the like nature.

And further, for and on the behalf of his said majesty, his heirs and successors, I do, by these presents, give and grant to the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the said city of Albany, and their successors forever, that the mayor of the said city for the time being, shall and may determine all and all manner of actions, or causes whatsoever, to be had, moved or depending between party and party, so always as the same exceed not the value of forty shillings, current money of this province.

And further, for and on behalf of his said majesty, his heirs and successors, I do grant to the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the said city, and their successors forever, that the mayor, recorder and aldermen of the said city shall always be, so long as they shall continue in their said respective offices, justices of the peace for the said county, and as such shall and may sit in the courts of sessions, or county courts, and courts of oyer and terminer that shall from time to time be held and kept within the said county; and that the mayor, recorder, or some one of the aldermen of the said city for the time being, shall and may always preside in or be president of such county courts or courts of sessions, to be held within the said county, as aforesaid, and that the sheriff of the said city for the time being, shall always be sheriff of the said county; also that

THE CITY RECORDS.

The early records of the colony, and of the city also, were written in the Dutch language, until about 1686, There is a mass of books and papers relating to Albany in the office of the secretary of state, and in the county clerk's office; the latter in an imperfect state, and written in a very obscure manner. The records in the office of the clerk of the common council begin in 1668. The first volume consists of minutes of the court from 1668 to 1673, written in Dutch. The second volume consists of the proceedings of the commissarissen, or magistrates, of the city of Albany from 1676 to 1680. The third volume contains the proceedings of the justices of the peace from 1680 to 1685. These are bound in vellum, and are mostly in Nederduytsche, generally very well written. The common council ordered them to be translated several years ago, but the person employed for that purpose has merely given a synopsis of the two last volumes, in such a way that they are of no use to any body. The minutes of the common council are very well preserved, as far as we have observed, from the time the charter was received, in 1686. The following transactions of the common council under the charter are extracts from the records referred to, taken from the volume marked No. 3, which, by the way, is a part of the contents of No. 4, transcribed in a fairer character.

1686 to 1695.

Present the mayor, recorder, all the aldermen and assistants, justices, Rob^t Sanders and Abr. Schuyler.

Whereas the selling and giving of strong drinke to y^e Indians at this present juncture is founde by experience not only inconvenient but extream dangerous insomuch y^t y^e greatest part of y^e traders and inhabitants of this city have made their application to us, y^t it may strickly forbidd, since y^e Indians by their excessive drinking are so insolent and troublesome y^t nothing but y^e greatest mischeeffs and calamities can be expected if not prevented we doe therefore hereby strickly prohibite and discharge all y^e inhabitants of y^e citty and county of Albany to sell or give any rom, brandy, or strong liquor, beer or cyder, to any Indian or Indians, upon any pretence whatsoever, upon y^e penalty of five pounds, toties quoties, and because it has been founde by experience y^t it will almost be impossible to make discovery of y^e breach of this order by y^e ordinary method of probation in regard y^e same will be managed with so much secrecy as none will be privy thereto but y^e delinquents themselves, or Indians whose testimonys are not held valid of law, for y^e discovery therefore of such secret and dangerous practices we doe hereby order and declare y^t upon information made to y^e mayor, recorder, aldermen, or justices of y^e peace, by any Christian Indian or Indians against any person or persons whatsoever, of y^e breach of this order, the said magistrate or justice of y^e peace shall issue out his warrant, requiring him forthwith to come before him; then and there if he can upon his oath so purge himselfe of such accusation as aforesaid, which if such person shall refuse to doe, y^e matter of fact in y^e accusation contained shall be taken for granted, and y^e s^d magistrate or justice of y^e peace shall forthwith issue out execution to y^e sheriff or any constable to levy y^e fine and charges by distress upon y^e offenders goods and chattles without any further processe or tryall, always provided y^t it shall be in y^e power of y^e mayor, aldermen and commonalty of y^e s^d city, if they see cause to give or dispose of any small quantity of rom to some particular Sachims, who come here upon publike bussinsse any prohibition aboves^d in any manner notwithstanding. The said fyne to be disposed of as follows vitz: y^e one half or moyety for y^e high sherriffe of y^e county for y^e time being if he informs, and y^e other half for y^e mayor, aldermen and commonalty afors^d, and, if y^e s^d sheriffe doth not inform, he is to have y^e quarter part and y^e informer y^e half and y^e citty y^e other quarter part.

Whereas we are informed y^t one Dubison is intended to transport himself and family to Canida, being suspected to have kept a secret correspondence with y^e French there, and it being juged dangerous to suffer such a percon to live at Sarachtoge or any place of this county at this juncture of time where he may have conveniency to keep such a correspondence. You are therefore hereby required in his majestys name to bring y^e s^d Dubison and family forth-with here, in order that they may be secured from any such dangerous designs, in doing whereof this shall be your sufficient warrant. Given under my hand and seal in Albany y^e 14th of June, 1689.

*A Proclamation by the Mayor, Aldermen and Commonalty

Whereas by these late revolutions diverse persons have taken the freedom to fetch Indians with their packs into their houses, and to be so troublesome and importune to y^e heathens, that they have complained they could not eate their victuals quietly, which is contrare to the wholesome laws and orders made by this city for y^e regulation of y^e Indian trade; we doe therefore hereby, in y^e name of there maj^{es}, King William and Queen Mary, publish and declare that no person or persons whatsoever, within this city, shall upon y^e arrivall of any Indian or Indians address themselves to speake to them of and concerning trade, nor shall entice them either within or without y^e gates of y^e s^d citty, by signs or otherwise, howsoever, to trade with themselves or any other persones, upon payne and penalty of paying for each offence, if committed without y^e gates of y^e s^d citty; y^e somme of three pounds, if within y^e same y^e somme of six shillings only; which fine is to be for y^e behooffe of such person as shall sue for the same. Zacharias Sickells, ratel man desyres he may have payment of 123 g^l wampum, which is due to him for his service as ratel watch. Ordered y^t y^e sergeants make ye division of y^e inhabitants, and y^e constables to collect s^d money.

Whereas wee are informed y^t y^e watch of this citty is so irregularly kept that few or none of y^e inhabitants of this city doe appear upon y^e guard when it is there turn, which of necessity must be occasioned by y^e remisseness, connivance and negligence of y^e commission officers, whose duty it is to see y^e orders concerning y^e settling of y^e garde of this city putt into execution, particularly y^e order made by y^e court martial y^e 28th of November last, by which means the city is in eminent danger and many dissasters, calamities, mischeefs and confusion might ensue.

And since it is a duty incumbent upon us to see y^t good watch and orders be kept in this city, and to use all possible means y^t y^e same may be effected, we doe therefore in there majestys name, king W^m. and queen Mary, require y^t y^e commission officers of this city doe take especial care that y^e s^d order of y^e court marshall here unto annexed, be putt into execution, which is so easy for y^e people y^t none but enemies to y^e peace, wellfare and tranquillity of this, there majestys citty, can refuse; and therefore you are hereby enjoyned to cause y^e s^d four men of each comp. to be warned to attend y^e watch; which if they shall refuse, neglect and not appear according to order, y^t then you see they pay y^e fine or be punished for y^e said offence according to y^e rules and methods usual in this city. And if we shall hereafter fynde y^t y^e garde be not kept according to y^e s^d orders, we declare we shall be necessitate to take other measures y^t so such a great neglect may not be imputed to us or-lye at our door since the preservation and peace of there majestys city as it hath hitherto been, so it is still our principall aim and desyre.

And whereas there hes been severall orders given from time to time, to Capt Wendel and Capt Blecker to compleat y^e works about y^e city which fell to there share, which still is left undone, and not knowing how soon wee may have occasion for y^e same, we doe in an especial manner desyre and require that they may withall speed call there people together and perfect, and compleat said works according to there proportion, y^t so we may be in a capacity to resist an enemy if they should make any attaque, which God forbid. Given under our hand and seal. Albany y^e 28th day of Dec., 1689.

[Information of the accession of William and Mary to the throne of England, reached Albany July 1, 1689, when they were immediately proclaimed by the magistrates and people, with the customary ceremonies (see p. 101) Jacob Leisler, a New York merchant, had previously assumed the government of the colony; but his authority was decidedly opposed by the magistrates of Albany, and his efforts to extend his rule over this city were so vigorously and judiciously resisted, that he only partially succeeded. During these distractions the French made their memorable descent upon Schenectady. There is a gap in the minutes of common council of nearly two years, the period of the troubles that grew out of this usurpation. The records are partially lost, no doubt, for besides the general confusion, Mr. Livingston, the clerk, was a fugitive. What remain of them are bound up in a book of mortgages in the county clerk's office, where they were found by Dr. O'Callaghan, and such as were written in Dutch translated, and the whole printed in the Documentary History, II, 80-178, from whence they are copied into this work.]

At this time fifty soldiers under Milborne were on the way from New York to take possession in Leisler's name, and Jan Nack seems to have been the only member of the council in Leisler's interest.

[Translation.]

Answer of the Magistrates and Justices of the Peace to the Onnondage ambassador who is sent from the Onnondages with the news from Canada. Albany, ye 28 Augusti 1689.

1. We heartily thank the Brethren for the news they send us from Canada, though we have received the news by the Islands of the great victory the English obtained over the French in burning and sinking sixteen big ships and capturing 12 others, each ship being of 60 guns and 400 men; which captured ships the English convey home as you do your prisoners; and therefore our vessels are so long delayed coming because they meet french men of war and fight with them.

2. We lament the death of the brave warriors who were slain in the last battle with the french above mont Royall but rejoice at the great victory gained by you over them, which we recommend you to follow up and not be imposed on by the idle and nonsensical speeches of the Governor of Canada and not to trust any of his ambassadors, for you have experienced his falsehood when he kidnapped so many of your warriors, and promised last harvest to Canadagegai that they should return in summer; but we hear that 5 ships have come but do not hear of one Indian in them.

3. We hope the Brothers will follow up their victory without delay as we perceive the Governor of Canada is now in distress, and would be very glad that you should now make some delay, that he may ship his bait again to cheat the Brothers. Have therefore a keen open eye on the motions of the French and warn us, as we shall warn you; and we hope to see within 30 or 40 days some of the Sachems and Chief Warriors here whose feet shall be well greased.

The Schedule or List of y^e Burgers & farmers names who subscribed for y^e Contribution of money for ye Raiseing of men for our assistance being summd up amounts to y^e somme of £367 : 6 and therefore not half Enough for y^e Procureing of one hundred men which is judged Requisite to acquaint y^e Commonality withall : So y^t other means must be used to procure men, doe therefore Mortifye & make null & void y^e aforesaid subscriptions thanking y^e People who had signed for there good Inclination. It is therefore

Resolved since no assistance can be expected from N :
Yorke nor money raised here to Procure men to write to y^e governor and Convention of Boston for y^e assistance of one hundred men and also to governor and generall assemlly off Connetticut for y^e assistance of y^e like number of men to lye in garrison here this winter to secure there Majesties Fort and y^e frontiers of this county against y^e french or there
Praying Indians which Letters are written accordingly

Whereas it is thought Convenient by y^e Convention of Civill and Military officers of y^e Citty and County of Albany y^t all Possible endeavors be used to Procure y^e Indians of y^e Long Reach Wawijachtenock & Sopus to come here &
Lye out as skouts upon y^e borders of this County to prevent any Incursions y^t might be made by y^e Indians of Canida and Robert Sanders Lieftennant of one of y^e Train bande

Companies of this Citty being thought a fitt p'son to Procure y^e same, he is therefore hereby Impowered & authorized to use his Endevors in effecting y^e same, & y^e gentlemen of our neighbouring County of Ulster are earnestly desyred & Intreated to be aideing & assisting to him in s^d bussinesse itt being for y^e Preservation of there Majesties king William & queen Maryes Interest in these parts Actum in albany y^e 27th of September 1689

Att a Convention &c. Albany Oct. 24th 1689 Present, P. Schuyler Mayor, Joh : Wendel, albert Ryckman, David Schuyler, Eghbert Teunise, Claes Ripse, Ev. Banker, Captain Marten gerritsen, C : Sanders glenn, L : Jan van Eps, En : Joh : Sanders, Liefert Jochim Staets, Capt Sharpe, gert Ryerse.

The Convention being mett to consider y^e Contents of a Letter sent by y^e governor of Boston in y^e name and by Consent of y^e Councill and Representatives whereyn they signify there sence of y^e feares and Dangers we Lye in of Incursions by y^e french and French Indians & y^e need we stand in of some forces to be sent for y^e enforcing of our garrison which they would be willing to afford from thence, but there p'sent Circumstances of things haveing so many men out against y^e Common Enemy to y^e Eastward, besides y^e great Distance from hence, y^t they cannot doe what they would in that Regard, but have written to y^e governor and Councill of Connetticutt Earnestly Pressing them to Provide one hundred men (if they can so many) or what they can for our present Relieffe, & y^t Capt Bull be desyred to take the Command of them; and that they had writt to y^e Governor and Councill of Plymouth that they would enforce the same motion—by there Letter to Connetticut, y^t it may be sent by y^e joynt Concurrence of all y^e Collonies.

Robert Treat Esquire Governor of Conetcticut doth answer our Letter sent him by Captain Bull which he had Communicated to y^e general assembly that there Court had taken our condition into there serious Consideration, and have Resolved to send us about eighty souldiers with there officers as soon as they can effect it, and are endeavoring to Procure Captain Bull to be there Captain but hope and Expect y^t we will pay y^e Commission officers there wages, They being at so great a charge about y^e warrs with y^e Eastern Indians and otherwise by Losses throug great sicknesse and mortality in there harvest season—yet they think strange thatt none of our own neighbouring Counties should Releave us which lye so farr before them with lesse charge & difficulty then they can Reach, & therefore think it so Reasonable a Request on there Parts unto us to take off some Part of there wages, there expenses being so great among themselves, & Cannot raise men for such service at p'sent with great Difficulty & waite our Compliyance herewith.

Vpon which this following was resolved Captain Sander Glenn Lieft Jan van Eps Ens: Johannes Sanders glen, and Sweer Teunise doe vote in y^e behalfe of y^e Toun of Shinnectady y^t y^e men may be sent for from Canetticut and that they will bear there Proportiones of y^e Charge of y^e officers there wages and maintain them accordingly, Provided they be under Command and obey such orders and Instructions as they shall Receive from time to time from y^e Convention of this Citty and County and in y^e time of there not sitting to y^e Mayor & aldermen of this citty. It is y^e opinion of y^e Convention y^t y^e 8 men still at Sarachtoge doe Remain ther til further order.

At a Convention &c. Oct. 25. 1689. Present as before.

It is Thought Convenient that all there Majesties Justices of y^e Peace & Commission officers doe take y^e oath of allegiance to there Majesties William & Mary king and Queen of England France & Ireland &^a Defenders of y^e faith and accordingly

Peter Schuyler mayor & Justice of y^e Peace did take y^e oath of fidelity before Dirk wessells Recorder & Justice of the Peace

And these following Persons took y^e oath of fidelity to there Majesties before Peter Schuyler mayor viz^t

Dirk wessells Recorder Capt Gerrit Teunise Capt: Marte Gerritse Lieft: Robt: Sanders Ens: Gabriel Thompson kilian van Renselaer Claes Ripse Van Dam David Schuyler Robt:

Livingston Lieft : Jochim Staets : Johannes appel Constable
& Peter Boss Constable

Dirk Wessells Jan Janse Bleeker and Dirk Teunise Justices of the Peace haveing been at Sopus for y^e behalfe of this County to Desyre assistance, and accordingly made there application to Major Chambers y^e third time, who gave his warrant to y^e Commission officers to collect the votes of y^e Inhabitants concerning y^e sending up of men upon accusation for y^e assistance of y^e People of alb. upon which y^e return was by Capt Beekman of y^e horse, That all his men were willing but Two Capt Matthys that all his Company was willing, Capt Garten that he himself and all his Comp: were Ready but Capt Paling had not brought in his return

The s^d Justices did Insist with y^e Major of y^t County that y^e men might be Prikt yet were to come upon occasion of allarm, that they might y^e more Depend thereupon, who ordered yet y^e Court marshall should meet y^e 25 of october to effect that Bussinesse

Resolved that the men that are at Sarachtoge be sent for doune and that seven souldiers out of there majesties fort with Claes Rust and Dick albertse Bradt be sent thither to lye there as skouts on y^t part of y^e County.

Resolved y^t Capt killian van Ronselaer & Capt gert Teunise be deputed to goe to y^e Governor and Council of Connetticut and to Return our hearty Thanks for there kinde Letter of y^e 15th Instant wherein they signify y^t they will send about 80 men besides officers for our Releefe Expecting y^t we will pay y^e Commission officers there wages who are to be commissioned to treat wth y^e s^d governor and Council about y^e officers wages since this county hath had such excessive Charges without y^e least assistance & to accept of y^e men by them Proferd & to Dispatch them hither with all speed who are to lye in garrison here this winter.

Whereas we are informed that diverse persons envying y^e Peace wellfare and tranquility of y^e Inabitants of this City & County have Endeavored to Raise diverse false aspersions and jealousies as if some Inhabitants here should have greater affection to y^e late Popish king James Stuart then to our endeared Souvraign Lord & Lady king William & Queen Mary whom God almighty through his great mercy hath been pleased to call to y^e Throne & to rule over us ;

but to avoid all such Jealousies thogh we are very well assured that few or none in our Posts but doe abhor and Detest all Popery and what tends thereunto but on y^e Contrarie will with all Cheerfullnesse & readinesse abide y^e oath of allegiance to there s^d Majesties as all y^e members of y^e s^d Convention have already done

It is therefore thought Convenient by y^e s^d Convention thogh for y^e present there be no Commission from there Majesties to administer y^e s^d oath that y^e Inhabitants of y^e Citty & County of Albany & souldiers of there Majesties fort doe all take y^e oath of Allegiance to there Majesties king William & queen Mary on or before the last day of october next ensuing, and y^e Aldermen in there wards are ordered to administer s^d oath who will be founde at there respective houses on y^e — forenoon & y^e justices in y^e out plantations to administer the same to them that live there, all who are to make Return thereof to y^e office of y^e Citty & County who names are to be recorded accordingly.

Livinus Van Schaik alderman and one of y^e Justices of y^e Peace of this County arrived this day from N : Yorke to whom the Resolution of this Convention of y^e 26th of october Last was Sent, inclosed in a letter to him and Leift
Jochim Staas who were Desyred after they had Received Information y^t Capt Leysler was intended to send up a Company of armed men to make themselves master of there Majesties Fort of Albany and of y^e Citty turn y^e government of this Citty upside doune & Disturbe y^e Peace and Tranquility of there Majesties King William & queen Marys Liege People, and carry Some of y^e Principle Burghers and Inhabitants of this Citty Prisoners to N : Yorke.

That they should Deliver y^e Protestation sent them by this Convention against Such Proceedings.

Alderman Schaik haveing Received diverse Informations from Credible Persones that they had such and such Designs Discoursed Jochim Staets telling him he thought himself obliged to Deliver y^e Protest to Leysler and y^e Committee, which was sent by y^e Convention of Albany upon which Jochim Staets Replied he knew not what to doe. They would have him Capt of y^t Company that went up to Albany which was to Lye in y^e fort.

Alderman Shaik answered Mr. Staets you know that would Be against y^e Resolution of y^e Convention of Albany who hes Put Captain Sharpe to be Commander there, where-upon Jochim Staets Replied they would have Sharpe out, & if I will not accept of itt they will putt in Churchill, methinks that it is better that I accept of itt then that such a Vagabond as Churchill should have y^e Command.

Upon which y^e s^d alderman went in with Jochim Staets to y^e Committee being y^e 29th day of october & Delivered y^e Protest to Capt. Leysler & y^e Resolution of y^e Convention of Albany for Capt Sharpe to Continue till further orders.

The Said alderman Skaik askd, what answer they would give him upon y^e Protest, upon which Jacob Milborne Replied with Consent of y^e other Persons Conveined y^t time that he would goe up to Albany, & see the fort there better Secured.

The Said Schaik Considering y^e Contents of y^e Conventions Letter whereby they earnestly Desyred advice by an Expresse if occasion Required, thought Convenient to come up himself to give y^e Convention an acct off affares not Doubting but that they were fully Resolved to Send up men hither to Disturbe the People of Albany Since y^e day before ye Protest came to his hands he himself being in there Committee (about some Discourse thatt should have Passed on Long Island) heard Capt. Leysler Say amongst other Discourse that they of albany should bring there Charter here if they had one, & y^t Leift Sharpe & Rodgers were Papists all which with severall other Informations he heard while he was at N: Yorke.

The Convention did Returne there hearty thanks to alderman Schaik for his Care & fidelity in acting so Prudently in y^t affaire & for Delivering y^e Protest which they understand would not have been Delivered by Jochim Staets; & Especially for his trouble that He hes been Pleased to take to come up himself Expresse & give an acct of affares.

Upon which itt was Enquired by y^e Mayor of y^e Convention whither there were any Person or member of y^e

Convention from y^e greatest officer to y^e Least y^t any Person had any objection against or y^e Least mistrust that they should now declare itt.

Whereupon y^e Convention unanimously answered that they had nothing to object against any of y^e members of y^e Convention, but that they should be and Remaine in there Respective offices and Stations till orders from there most Sacred Majesties William & Mary king & queen of England &c. and that they would not Suffer that any member Should be Disturbed Displaced or Removed from this Citty upon any Pretence whatsoever and if such a thing happened to be done by force Contrare to y^e Priviledge of this Citty (which God forbid) that y^e whole Convention would Resent it as done to them all in generall & make Record of it accordingly—

Itt is Resolved by this Convention to acquaint the Burgers and Inhabitants of this Citty by the assistants of there Respective wards how y^t we have Received Information from N: Yorke that there is a Company of men comeing up from thence, who Intend to Turn y^e government of this Citty upside doune, make themselves master of y^e Fort and Citty, and in no manner to be obedient to any orders and Commands as they should Receive from time to Time from y^e Persons now in authority in this Citty and County, whereby great Confusion will Ensue, Especially, if y^e Indians Perceive Such Divisions amongst our Selves, will be in Danger to be led away to y^e french, & so break y^e frindship which with so much Trouble and Paynes and charge hath hitherto been Preserved by this government which might tend to y^e great Ruine and Destruction of there Majesties Interest in these Parts which s^d men so comeing up we hear are to be paid by y^e Burgers and Inhabitants of this Citty and County, which charge would be untollerable to be born by y^e Inhabitants att this Juncture of time, & not only that charge butt by such means cause us to Contribute to what Charge they of N: Yorke have been att Since these Revolutions, and therefore itt is thought Convenient to Convein the Burgers in the Citty hall & there to Demand there opinion, and to answer to Some articles which will be given them in writing to morrow.

Att a Convention &c. Albany the 5th day of november 1689
Present as before

According to y^e Resolution taken by y^e Convention yesterday y^e Burgers and Inhabitants of y^e Citty and Part of y^e County were Conveined in y^e Citty hall by Bell Ringing and these following Proposals were made & given them in writeing & Desyred to give there answer.

PROPOSEALLS made by the Convention to y^e People. In Albany y^e 5th day of november 1689. Upon y^e Report of men comeing from N: Yorke.

1 If they be not Resolved to stand for y^e Privileges of there Citty and County, and to Resist all p'sons who shall endeavor to Brake y^e Same.

2 If they had any objection or any thing against the Magistrates or members of y^e Convention from y^e Least member to y^e greatest, That they now would Reveale y^e Same.

3 If they were Inclined to pay y^e Souldiers wages comeing from N: Yorke which we here y^e military officers of N: Yorke have Engaged must be paid by y^e Inhabitants of albany

4 If they had any mistrust of Lieft Tho. Sharpe whom y^e Convention have Continued in y^e fort to be under them, and if they would have one besides him to have y^e Command of y^e fort.

5 Since we have heard Such Strange Rumours, if it would not be Very Dangerous to Suffer y^e men comeing from New Yorke to come into y^e Citty, before we have Sufficient assurance that they come with a good Intent to assist us as neighbours, and to obey the Convention, and not to turn y^e government of y^e Citty upside doune, to make themselves master of the fort and Citty, and to fetch y^e meanest Burger from hence; and if they Burgers would not oppose Such hostility and force.

6 If it is not Extreame Dangerous at this Juncture to make any Confusion Division or change least y^e Indians who are in Covenant with us and depend thereupon should mistrust our Integrity and so be brought to Side with y^e french.

7 If they will not secure y^e fort and Citty for there Majesties till Such time there Majesties king william & queen mary Send orders or a governour, and that of N: yorke nor none else be admitted to be master of y^e same

8 That they ought to Consider y^t y^e Souldiers that lye in y^e fort are no Burthen to y^e Citty nor County but kept maintained & paid upon there Majesties accompt who are not only naturall born subjects of England but have all (Except one) taken y^e oath of allegiance to y^e Present king & Queen

9 If they doe not owne and acknowledge y^e Convention of y^e Citty and County for there Lawfull Authority till a Settlement comes, and if they them will obey as such

Upon which y^e People agreed and Consented to y^e s^d Articles, acknowledgeing y^e members of y^e Convention for there Lawfull Magistracy in there Respective offices and Places and made this following answer Signed by forty of y^e Inhabitants Principall men of y^e Toun

2 That we have not y^e least objection or Evill opinion of y^e Magistrates or members of y^e Convention, butt Promise to Obey them and assist them as faithfull Subjects are bounde to doe there lawfull authority.

3 That we are no ways Inclined to pay y^e People coming from: N: Yorke, neither can bear such Excessive Charge, but if they come as good neighbours & friendes shall endeavor to Treat them Civilly with meat and Drink and Lodging according to our ability.

4 That y^e Bussinesse Concerning y^e fort is Referred to y^e Convention.

5ly That we unanimously judge it Dangerous to lett y^e men coming from N: Yorke come into y^e Citty till Such time y^e Convention have Sufficient assurance of there sincere meaning and Intention, Since by no means we can Suffer them to Turn y^e government of this Citty upside downe, nor that they be masters of City or fort nor suffer y^e Least Burger to be carried away from hence, or molest them. But if anything to object against any of y^e Burgers of this Citty, that they may enter there action before y^e Courts of this Citty & County according to law

6 That we jure a Change or Subversion of government att this juncture to be Exceeding Dangerous in Reference to y^e Treating with y^e Indians, and therefore doe not understand that there now be a Change upon any Pretence whatsoever, before y^t orders comes from there Majesties

7 That wee are fully Resolved with y^e help of god almighty to keep & Secure y^e fort and Citty for the behoofe of our Souveraign Lord & Lady King William & Queen Mary; and not suffer them of N: Yorke or any Person else to Rule over y^e Same, Since it will be Required att our hands when a governor comes & not of theres.

8 That we verry well approve of y^e Souldiers that have taken y^e oath of fidelity doe Remain in ye fort, & if there be occasion for more men in y^e fort to Secure y^e Same y^t then Some of y^e Burgers or whom y^e Convention shall appoint doe goe thither and no others

9: & Lastly: That we doe Esteem owne and acknowlege y^e Convention to be our only Lawfull authority in this Country till such time orders comes from there Majesties whom we doe Relye upon for y^e good government of y^e Same, Praying God to Blesse them in their undertakeings for ye wellfare of our Country, Promiseing to assist them wherein they shall have occasion for the Preservation of Peace and Tranquility in our Toune & to lett and hinder all p'sones who shall Stirr up Mutinie and Sedition to Disturbe our Peace. Att a Convention &c. Albany 7th & 8th days of november 1689. Present as before, Except C : Jan Bleeker absent, and C. Marte gerritse & Gert Ryerse present

The matter concerning y^e Better Secureing of there Majesties fort of albany being taken into Consideration this following order was made thereabouts.

Whereas there is a Resolution made by y^e Convention y^e 26th day of october Last whereby Leift. Thomas Sharpe should Continue in y^e Command of there Majesties fort of albany till orders comes from there Majesties William and Mary king & queen of England &c. who was to obey such orders and Instructions as he should from time to time Receive from y^e Said Convention, and whereas we are Informed that Diverse Persones are jealous that there Majesties Fort is thereby not Sufficiently Secured but are Desyreous that another Sufficient Person shall be authorized along with said Leif Thomas Sharpe to have y^e Command thereof

It is therefore thought Convenient by this Convention Since y^e winter approaches and y^e Long Expected orders from there Most Sacred Majesties not yet being come and to Prevent all jealousies and Annimosities Concerning that affaire at this juncture of time, That Pieter Schuyler Esquire Mayor of this Citty and one of there Majesties Justices of y^e Peace of this County and Leiftenant of y^e Troop be authorized and is hereby authorized to have y^e Command of there Majesties fort and y^e same to keep and maintain and Defend for y^e Behooffe of there Majesties William & Mary king and queen of England france & Irland & a Defenders of y^e faith, and Lieftenant Sharpe be Lieft under him who are both to obey and Perform Such orders & Instructions as they shall from time to time Receive from y^e Convention of y^e Citty & County of albaný that have the greatest Intrest in y^e Preservation & Securing of s^d fort for there Majesties behalfe, and y^t till such time and while there Majesties William & Mary shall be pleased to send a governor or orders for y^e government of this Province & the s^d Pr Schuyler Mayor to take Possession of y^e Same accordingly

N. B: Joh wendel Suspends his vote for y^e p'sent as also Joh: Cuyler & J: nack.

This being Published by Bell-Ringing y^e members of y^e Convention went to ye Mayers house, and told him they were come to waite upon him and Conduct him up to y^e fort who being accompanied with some of y^e Principle Burgers went up and Possession of s^d fort after y^e usuall Ceremonies was Delivered, & y^e s^d Mayor with all cheerfulness Received by y^e officers and souldiers of there Majesties garrison.

Att a Convention &c. Albany 9th day of November 1689.
Present as before, Except, Mayor & Leif. van Schaik absent.

The Members of y^e Convention that were in Toune did meet Together att y^e Citty hall upon the news that there were three Sloops in Sight whereof one had y^e king Jack aboard, and hereing that there were a Comp^e of Souldiers come by there beating of y^e Drum, foure of y^e Convention to witt Captain wendel Captain Bleeker Johannes Cuyler and Reynier Barents were sent aboard to know on what accompt they came, Jacob Milborne who was on board of Jochim Staets Sloop Replied. If the fort was open for his men to march in that night he was answered no, That y^e Mayor of y^e Citty had Possession of y^e fort who was Commander of y^e Same and was Desyred to goe a shore where they would Discourse further, who with y^e s^d four Persones came to y^e Citty hall and was bid welcome by y^e members of y^e Convention then Present.

No sooner was y^e s^d Milborne come into y^e Citty hall which was very full of People, but addressed his Discourse to y^e Common People in a long oration with a high Stile & Language telling them That now it was in there powr to free themselves from y^t Yoke of arbitrary Power and Government under which they had Lyen so long in y^e Reign of y^t Illegal king James, who was a Papist, Declareing all Illegall whatever was done & past in his time, yea the Charter of this Citty was null & void Since it was granted by a Popish kings governour & that now y^e Power was in the People to choose both new Civill and Military officers as they Pleased, challenging all them that had bore office in king James Time to be Illegall, and therefore they must have a free Election and much Such like Discourse.

After Jacob Milborne had ended his long Discourse Jochim Staets & P^r Bogardus who came up with him from N: Yorke asked why y^e magistrates did not speak now, now was y^e time for to Speake upon which Dirk wessells Recorder Replyed, that there was time Enough yet, he was nott Authorized at that Juncture to make him answer to such Discourse, they had seen no Commission he had yett and that they were met together to make Billets for the quartering of y^e men If they were come with a good Intent, which lay Ready upon y^e Table, & y^t Milborne addressed his Discourse to y^e wrong People Since there were no arbitrary Power here; God had Delivered them from that yoke by there Majesties now upon y^e throne, to whom we had taken y^e oath of allegiance, for we acted not in king James's name but in king William & queen Marys & were there Subjects.

Jacob Milborne Desyred that y^e Mayor Might be Present in y^e Convention who was Twice Sent for, but answered y^t he could not leave his Post which was to keep good watch in there Majesties fort, Referring y^e s^d Milborne to y^e Gentlemen that were Conveined together and y^t he would call y^e Convention together to morrow after y^e 2d Sermon when they would Discourse the Case further with him, this was Communicated to Jacob Milborne who answered that y^e Recorder Represented y^e Mayor in his absence, and Delivered y^e Convention a letter Signed by 25 Persones which was Read y^e Contents whereof is as follows

Fort William In N : York y^e 28 october 1689—

The following letter was Sent by Adam Vroman of Shinnectady to y^e Mayor which Milborne had sent to him to warne all y^e People there forthwith to come to albany and Receive there Rights Priviledges and Liberties in such manner as if the government of king James y^e 2d never had been, or any of his arbitrary Commissions or what is Illegally done by his governours never had been done or Past, which Letter follows in Terminis :—

Constitution of the other Counties of the Province aforesaid pursuant to the interest of His Majesty our Souveraign Lord & King and the Welfare of the Inhabitants of said Counties.

These are to advise and require all the Inhabitants of Shinnectady and adjoining places to repair forthwith to the aforesaid City of Albany to receive their Rights and Priviledges & Liberties in such manner as if the Government of King James the 2d had never existed or any of his arbitrary Commissions or any of his Governors illegal acts had never been executed or done.

Upon which Adam Vroman sent him this answer:—

MR JACOB MILBORNE.

Worthy Friend—I have just now received your letter. Firstly, I am not a person of quality; Secondly, the Indians lie in divers squads in and around this place and should we all repair to Albany great disquiet would arise among the Savages to the general ruin of this Country; therefore please excuse me as I am a person of no power nor authority.

Your affectionate friend

ADAM VROOMAN.

By which letter it is Plainly Evident y^e s^d Milborne Designs y^e Subversion of y^e government Confirmed by there Majesties Proclamation of y^e 14th feb. last, and thereby to Disturbe y^e Peace and Tranquility of there Majesties Leige People Especially in this Juncture when the Indians are Round about us, who much Depend on the Present Magistracy that have with so much trouble Pains and Cost Secured them to this government which if they should see y^t y^e authority here should be troden under foot would undoubtedly undertake Some Dangerous Design

And that it may be apparent to y^e world y^t y^e Design was Laid at N : Yorke, y^e following Letter writt by hend : Cuyler one of there Councill of warr as they Term them-

selfs, to ye People of Schinneectady Desyreing there assistance, and that they would come to albany, Telling them itt was Resolved upon that they should have no lesser Priviledges then they of albany, both in Tradeing and boalting which Jacob Milborne would Disclose unto them and Such like false notions doth Sufficiently Demonstrate—

Att a Convention &c. Albany in y^e Citty hall Die Sabbathi 10th november. Post merid : Anno Dom : 1689. Present.—Dirk wessels Recorder, Livinus van Shaik, Claes Rysse, albt Ryckman, C. gert Teunise, Capt Sanderglen, Ev. Banker, Jan nack, gerrit Ryerse, L: van Eps, L: Robert Sanders, C. John wendel, C. Jan Janse Bleeker, David Schuyler, C. Marte gërritse, kill: v. Renselaer, Reynier Barentse, Johannes Cuyler, Eghbert Teunise, Sweer Teunise, Ens: Joh: Sanders, Ens: gabriel Thompson.

The Convention being met together at the Citty hall Jacob Milborne was Sent for, the Recorder Dirk wessells assumed y^e Discourse and told that he had Received a Letter yesterday of y^e s^d Milborne directed to y^e Military and Civill officers and inhabitants of y^e Citty and County of albany, but y^e Convention not being full y^e Bussinesse was Delayed till to day which was Read being Signed by 25 Persones wherein was Inserted that there were 51 men Sent hither for our assistance, the Said Milborne was asked upon whose Cost and charge y^e men were come, and who were to pay them there pay. Jacob Milborne answered, that we of albany must pay them, and that they were hyred at 25 shil per month, the Recorder Replyed that that was Repugnant to there Resolution and letter sent to N: Yorke, y^e 4th of September Last which y^e s^d Milborne Perruseing founde to be soe, & askd all y^e People Standing by if they thought y^e County of albany would be able to pay y^t Charge, who all unanimously answered no; upon which y^e s^d Milborne said Then we shall fynde a way for it, and showed y^e Convention his Commission Signed and Sealed by 6 or 27 Persones y^e Same that Signed y^e letter which was Read: The Recorder told him that Such a Commission graunted by a Company of Private men was of no force here, and that he had no Power to doe or order any affaires in albany, but if he could shew a Commission from his Majesty king william our Liege Lord then were willing to obey it.

The S^d Milborne went on and made a long oration to y^e Common People which were got together in y^e Citty hall of Popish government and arbitrary Power Condemning all things which had been done and Passed in y^e late King James Stuarts time Particularly y^e Charter of this Citty and that there ought to be a new Election of Magistrates &c and many other things to Stirr up y^e Common People, upon which he was told that if all things were null & void which were passed in King James time then y^e Inhabitants were in a Desolate Condition, Since many Patents of houses and lands were obtained in y^e Late King James time, which undoubtedly will be approved and confirmed by there Majesties now upon y^e Throne, and that there had been a free Election according to y^e Charter and further that they Plainly did Discern y^t y^e s^d Milborne by his Smooth tongue & Pretended Commissions did aim nothing else but to Raise mutiny and Sedition amongst y^e People which y^e Convention had with So much trouble these Six monthes Last Past kept in Peace and quietnesse Expecting dayly order from there Majesties King William and Queen Mary and that they had not Spared cost or charge to Secure y^e Indians to this government, of which there neighbors could give a Sufficient Testimony, and therefore, if things were Carried on as Milborne would have it, all would Runn into Confusion with y^e Indians all authority turned Upside Doune as in many Parts of y^e government was done, to which y^e Convention by no means could Condeshend, but were Resolved to be quiet & in Peace if Possible till y^e Long expected orders from there Majesties should come to hand under whom they acted, and therefore desyred y^e s^d Milborne to desist from Such Discourse, for that they would Dispute no more with him about it, leaveing all till a Lawful Power came, nott acknowlegeing him to have any, and that they should Proceed to discourse of quartering y^e men who endured so much hardship by Lyeing aboard, upon which it was Concluded to meet again in y^e morning about 9 a Clock to agree about y^e quartering of y^e 51 men Sent for our assistance.

Memorandum — That Kiliaen van Renselaer Capt gerrit Teunise Capt Sander Glenn Leift. Jan van Eps Ens: Johannes Sanders & Sweer Teunise members of y^e Convention did approve of y^e order made y^e 7th & 8th Instant that Peter Schuyler Mayor should have y^e command of there Majesties fort till orders from there Majesties king William & Queen Mary

Die Lunæ 11 november 1689

The Convention were Intended to goe to y^e Citty hall but understanding that there was so great a multitude of people assembled together there in an Illegal manner to choose one Jochim Staas Leift off one of y^e Train bande Companies of this Citty under Capt. Wendel to be Capt. of y^t Company of Souldiers come from N: Yorke, They stayd att y^e Recorders house Endeavouring to agree with Jacob Milborne about y^e quartering of y^e men, the s^d Milborne Proposeing Some articles which were answered by y^e Convention and sent him by Capt Marte Gerritse Livinus Van Schaik & Johannes Cuyler, but y^e s^d Milborne Insisting to have y^e s^d men to be under a Superior officer who was to be Commander of y^e fort, Distinct from the Civill function, and that then he should fynde a way to pay y^e men, which y^e Convention by no means would Condeshend, but y^t s^d men should be under y^e command of y^e convention till orders came from there Majesties otherwise could expect no assistance from them, which answer was sent him by y^e s^d Capt gerritse alderman Schaik & Johannes Cuyler assistant.

In y^e meantime the Convention sent messengers thrice to y^e People Convened att y^e Citty hall to Disperse themselves and goe home, they nevertheless went on and choose y^e s^d Jochim Staets to be Capt of y^t Company come from N: Yorke by syneing there names to near a hundred Persones, most youthes, and them that were no freeholders which s^d Place y^e s^d Jochim Staets did accept contrare to y^e order of y^e Convention of which he was a member.

Yea y^e People were so Rageing and mutinous that some of y^e Convention being in y^e Citty hall, were forced to withdraw themselves being threatened and menaced that they were in danger of there life, all which was occasioned by y^e

Instigation of Jacob Milborne who is come hither with no other Design then to overthrow all, as Plainly appears by all his actions Deludeing y^e Common Peuple by Promiseing them Priviledges and libertyes and such like false notions and Suggestions endeavouring to draw y^e People off from there obedience due to there Lawfull authority Confirmed by there now Majesties William & Mary and to fill this Citty and County with Divisions factions and Sedition to y^e utter Ruine of y^e same Especially in this juncture while we are Surrounded with y^e heathen who Seing such Divisions may undertake some Desperate Design and breake there Covenant with us kept so many Years Inviolable—

The Convention being met together in y^e fort Sent Johannes Cuyler Ens: Joh: Sanders & Ens: abr Schuyler to Leift Jochim Staets to know y^e Certainty, if he had accepted of y^e Capt. place by virtue of such Illegal assembly or meeting of y^e People chooseing him so who made answer fully Concluded and agreed upon Yesterday, & this is y^e Last Resolution which y^e Convention can take in y^t Subject, neither will they Proceed to any further answers till this Bussinesse be Ended

Fort albany y^e 13 of nov
1689

Signd
P^r SCHUYLER Mayor
in y^e name of y^e
Convention of albany

The S^d Johannes Cuyler and abraham Schuyler were sent y^e 2d time with y^e articles to Jacob Milborne who told him y^t y^e word Committee as they called themselves was graunted, & if he was Ready to Sign, but answered he would not Sign y^e articles with many absurde words as y^e s^d 2 persones doe Relate upon which they delivered him y^e above-s^d Paper.

This day Jacob Milborne caused y^e Company of Souldiers Come from N: Yorke, which for 2 nights Past had Lyen at Marte gerritse's Island to march into Towne & y^e Burgers of y^t faction Received them in there houses without billeting or lawfull authority.

Die Jovis y^e 14th of november 1689

The Mayor came doune to Towne and went with y^e Convention to y^e Citty hall, were y^e Burgers forthwith appeared and there did Declare y^e Rasons why he had Secured there Majesties fort (since he had heard that diverse were Dissatisfyed at his so doing) vizt that he had Received Sufficient and Credible Information from N: Yorke, Especially from alderman Schaick who was in there Meeting of there Committe as they call it at N: Y: where he heard Jacob Milborne say he would goe to Albany and see y^e fort better Secured, Shewing them further three Testimonyes Sworne to, by which it did Evidently appear it was Concluded upon to make an absolute change of government, to carry some Persones Prisoners to N: Yorke, and so to make a generall disturbance among y^e People, and force us to Comply with there new fashioned government Declareing further that he had Sent y^e Recorder from time to time with y^e other members of y^e Convention to Discourse with Milborne Concerning y^e Receiving of 50 Souldiers, & to enquire with what Power and authority he came here Upon which y^e Recorder Put them in minde of y^e Discourse Past between him and Milborne on Sunday's night concerning his authority, when it was Concluded upon to Consult next day about y^e Receiving and quartering of S^d Company of men whereabouts they had been in agitation till now; but See y^t y^e Said Milborne is no ways Inclined to come to any agreement. Since it was Positively Concluded upon, but when it came to Signing founde always Exceptions three Severall times which was y^e Reason y^e Convention did not meet Sooner at y^e Citty hall, upon which y^e articles was read concerning y^e quartering of y^e 50 Souldiers which Pleased y^e Burgers very well and wished they might be Signed; and Milborne being fetched was asked if Such articles were not Concluded upon who Confessed Yess but that he had given some Proposealls to y^e Convention, which he first would have answered and then Sign to y^e articles.

But y^e Convention Replyed y^t he had Delivered y^e articles concerning y^e quartering y^e men on munday morning & y^e Proposealls on Munday afternoon, and was therefore fitting that first an Issue should be made of y^e articles before an answer be given to y^e Proposealls, and y^t y^e answer to y^e Proposealls was Ready to be delivered assoon as he had Signd to y^e articles, But Refused in y^e p'sence of Twelve men whom y^e People had chosen to be Present to hear y^e Debates between y^e Convention and y^e s^d Milborne; whereupon a Certain Paper was Read which had been Delivered to y^e s^d Milborne y^e day before, y^e Purport of which was that they were not Designed to give him any answer to his Proposealls before he had Signd to y^e articles which was approved off by s^d 12 men Since it was Plainly Demonstratē how y^e s^d milborne had from time to time intended to Delay and Deceive them as by y^e Testimoneys can appear

The Convention Said to y^e s^d 12 men that they had used there uttmost Endeavors, & asked if they could Propose or think of any better means or method they would doe well to tell them, and Desyred them to Consult about y^e matter upon which after Consultation they Deputed three of y^e 12 men to witt Harme gansevoort Peter van waggelum and Jeronimus wendell who made Report to y^e Convention then all together at y^e Mayors house at Least Eighteen in number

Harme gansevoort being there Speaker, That they Concurr'd with y^e Convention and y^t y^e s^d Milborne ought to Sign y^e articles, and that y^e Convention could doe no more then they had done Referring further the mannagement of that affaire to y^e generall Convention Since they were Resolved to trouble themselves no more about it.

Die Veneris 15th of november 1689

Itt is orderd to be Entred how y^t Jacob Milborne came to there Majesties fort of albany on y^e 15th day of november 1689 with a Company of armed men, who upon his approach was charged by a messenger sent a Purpose not to come without y^e gates of y^e Citty nevertheless Marchd up and made Demand of there Majesties fort who was answered by y^e Mayor Pieter Schuyler Esq^r Commander of y^e s^d fort, Thatt he kept y^e Same for there Majesties king william & queen mary, & Commanded them away in there Majesties name with his Seditious Company, who after he had attempted to gett into y^e gate haveing one foot in was thrust out withdrew himself & Company to within y^e gates of y^e Citty, and there Putt up y^e Kings Jack facing to y^e fort, and Jacob Milborne after he had charged them to Load there guns with Bullets came to y^e Citty gate & Read a Paper.

A Company of Maquase who were come here for y^e assistance of there Majesties Subjects Standing upon y^e hill neer y^e fort and being Spectators to all these tumults Sent word by hille Pieterse y^e Interpreters Sister to y^e fort to acquaint y^e Mayor and y^e other gentlemen that Since they were in a firm Covenant chain with us, and Seeing y^t y^e People of N: Yorke came in a hostile manner to Disturbe their Brethren in y^e fort which was for our and there Defence, Desyred y^t y^e said hille should tell them if any of those men came without y^e gates to approach y^e fort they would fyre upon them and charged there gunns,

Upon which the members of y^e Convention then p'sent in y^e fort caused this following Protest to be Read off one of y^e Mounts

Fort albany y^e 15th day of november 1689

Pr SCHUYLER Mayor
and commander of there Majesties fort

The Protest being Read hille akus Sister told y^t y^e Indians were very much Dissatisfyed & if Milborne did not withdraw with his Company they would fyre upon him, whereupon y^e Mayor Desyred Doctor Dellius & y^e Recorder to goe to y^e Indians to Pacify and quiet them for y^e Bussiness was y^t a Person without Power or authority would be Master over y^e gentlemen here which they would nott admitt; the Indians answered goe and tell him that if he come out of y^e gates we will fyre upon him, which Doctor Dellius forthwith Communicated to y^e s^d Milborne at y^e head of his Company in y^e Presence of a great many Burgers who made no further attempt to goe to y^e fort, but Marched doune y^e towne and Dismissed his men

Die Saturni y^e 16th of november A^o 1689

Notwithstanding y^t y^e Burgers according to their Duty had Referred y^e Bussinesse concerning y^e quartering of y^e

Souldiers to y^e Convention on y^e 14 instant nevertheless by y^e Perswasion of Jacob Milborne some of y^e Inhabitants gathered together att y^e house of Gabriel Thompson, where Sundrey of y^e Very same Persones appeard who were Deputed by the People Two days agoe to acquaint y^e Convention that they Referred y^e management of y^t affaire wholly to them

And these following Persones to witt Harme Gansevoort Pieter Bogardus Myndert harmense Dirk Bensing an Peter Van Waggelum Private but Extreame active men in these Revolutions have taken upon them to sign a Contract with y^e s^d Milborne concerning y^e s^d Company of Souldiers, not only without y^e least knowledge or Intimation of y^e Convention but after they were warned to y^e contrary who took upon them y^e Charge as overseers of s^d Company together with Jochim Staets who was made there Captain, who with much Perswasion of s^d Milborne at last was accepted by y^e men to be there Captain y^e s^d Milborne went away leaving said Company here in such Confusion.

Die Lun. 25 novembris 1689

By the Mayor aldermen and Commonality and Military officers of y^e Citty of albany and Justices of y^e Peace and Military officers of y^e s^d County

Att a Convention &c.

albany y^e 28th day of November 1689

It was thought Convenient by y^e Convention y^t 5 of there members should be appointed to have a Conference with Capt Jonathan Bull & Mr Jochim Staets concerning y^e Souldiers they have under there Command here in Toune.

And for that Purpose were nominated Dirk Wessells Capt Marte gerritse Levinus Van Schaick Capt Sander glenn & Johannes Cuyler who in y^e behalfe of y^e Convention told them they had Two Companies Lyeing in y^e Toune and y^t y^e out Plantations were not secured where y^e Enemy first must be expected as Shinnectady half moon and Canastagioene, Desyred them to consider y^t some men might be sent thither with all Expedition, upon which Capt Bull Proposed to Mr. Jochim Staets to take tenn men out of his Company & y^e said Capt Bull would take Twenty men of his Company make in all 30 men & send to Shinnectady, upon which Mr. Staets answered he was but weake had but 46 or 47 men, & he would not breake his files he must at least keep 10 files, upon which Capt Bull Replied y^t he could not Expect that they would always be compleat for sicknesse and diverse other accidents might happen, Mr. Staets Proposed y^t Capt Bull should send 24 men to Shinnectady & y^t he Staets would join six of his Company with six of Capt Bulls men to goe and lye at y^e half moon & y^t by Turns one should have y^e Command 14 days & then the other whereupon Dirk Wessells answered that there was no quarters for 12 men at y^e half moon but that some men might goe to Canastagioene where 6 could be conveniently quarterd and y^t was a Dangerous Passe also But Capt Bull said he did not care to have his men so Scattered about.

The s^d Gent: told Mr. Staes that y^e Convention were Desyreous to know upon what account that N: Yorke Company lay there & if he would submitt himself to them Since they had not seen his Commission, he answerd he could not doe that since there were other overseers or weesfaders as he termed them appointed over his men, but he Promised & would Swear y^t nothing should be acted or done by him against y^e Convention althogh new orders did come, & desyred y^t y^e Convention would advise and Consult with these overseers upon which they answered that there was many Dissentions in y^e Place already & by such Confusion and so many masters y^e Contention would augment and Increase, Mr Staets Replied it is now so we must doe as well as we can Joh: Cuyler asked to see his Commission but Refused to show it and so broke off from y^t discourse and Returned to y^e former Proposealls concerning y^e Sending out men to garrison y^e out Plantations, & it was finally Concluded that 24 men of Capt Bulls Company should goe to Shinnectady and 6 of his men to Paepsknee & of Mr. Jochim Staets men 6 to y^e half moon

And as Justices of y^e Peace they desyred y^e Commission officers to call a Court Marshall in y^e afternoon to settle y^e watch in y^e Toune y^t all Things may goe Regularly as was done

But that which was concluded upon on y^e forenoon was altered by some of y^e Military officers in there meeting unknown to y^e 5 gentlemen Viz^t y^t Mr Staets should send of his men ten to Shinnectady & Capt Bull 20, butt took no care for y^e half moon as was concluded upon by y^e Commissioners of y^e general Convention Nevertheless y^t which was Concluded upon by y^e Deputies of y^e Convention & Capt Bull and Mr Staets was thought fitt by y^e Convention to be Performed & Capt Bull accordingly sent his Lieft with 24 men to Shinnectady to keep that post but Mr Staets would send out no men as was agreed upon, but went to Shinnectady with some others of y^t faction, Insomuch y^t y^e Mayor himself & some other gent: were necessitated to goe thither to see y^e men of Capt Bulls Company quartered

[Translation.]

Albany 16th December 1689

The Albany Convention having received the following news it is sent from the Mohawk Sachems by post to Akus to be forwarded to us.

1. That 10 Nations of Twigh Twighs are coming to the 5 Nations to destroy them.

2. That two of the Indian prisoners who were sent to France have returned back home, who say that Ambassadors must come to Canida.

3. That the Oonondages have sent for the Mohawk warriors and Sachems and that they must bring belts with them.

4. That the Mohawk prisoners were to France with the Cowherd who was taken prisoner at Onnondage.

5. That Cadarachqui is abandoned by the French.

Whereupon the gentlemen resolved to send Lawrence alias Jannetje the Indian to Onnondage to learn the truth hereof, and to forbid them in our name to send Ambassadors to Canida or to receive any according to our Treaty—not to trust the French, and if they let them cheat them not to blame us: and to communicate the following news to them.

That 2 ships have come direct from England to N. England, which give for news—

1. That almost all the large Ships of War are sailed full of people towards France, to seize it; full 300,000 men.

2. That 150 ships are ready to come westward to convoy our ships.

3. That we have here a brave Troop of Souldiers and if we want more, there are full 200 in the Sopus, and 3 or 400 in N. England.

This is sent in a letter to Sweer Teunise who shall go to Akus to interpret it correctly to him.

Mr. MAYOR Worthy and beloved friend Sr pieter Schuyler.

Ambassadors from Onondage and Oneyda arrive here just now who report to us that I must accompany them to Albany to interpret their propositions to you. As it is inconvenient for me at present I have taken the liberty to put their meaning on paper.

They let your Honour thus Know that the news received from Canada shall not be communicated before all the Sachems have assembled. Your Honour & Johannes Wendel and I are sent for Express to be present there as they will not discuss the matter until you are there, and then your Honour shall also deliberate on it in order to consult with them as to what may occur to You.

They have again seen three of their Indians who were prisoners, but they do not expect to have them back again as they must return quickly to Canada. They also assure you that they are not going to lie on there backs in consequence of these tidings of peace, and learn to fight only by looking Sideways at it—but they shall again grapple with it because Many of their War chiefs (Veltoversten) have remained in that Country.

They also say that had the Governor of Canada sent the prisoners back home to us as soon as they had come from France, they had in no wise determined on peace, inasmuch as only thirteen survived : all the remainder died of Sickness.

They hear two letters have come to the Jesuit—one from the Governor, the other from Pere Lamberville. They had consulted—to wit, those of the Domine's side—to burn them, but the more cunning Sachems advised that they should be opened before the full Council ; your Honour will then be able to see whether they will contain any deception If, on the other hand there be none, they shall then be handed to the owners.

They also acquaint your Honour that it is a lie that 10 nations of Savages came to destroy them, but Ambassadors of 7 different Nations have come in Zinnodo Wan ha and restored 2 Seneca prisoners and promised to give up 4 more of them as soon as they shall have returned home ; also to treat for peace, and say there are 3 Nations which would continue the War, namely—the Kightages and the Twightwighs and the Sawenochques and give 2 Strings of Zewant with this letter.

The 3 prisoners from Canada had reported that Cuadarghque is abandoned and they found 30 barrels of powder there ; among the rest was a barrel of Match in a hole which they intended to set fire to and thus to burn up the others. But it went out of itself, after burning an ell in length. There found considerable booty both in beaver and peltries in the fort. Six of the principal officers were drowned after they left the fort and fled to Canada, with divers soldiers but they know not how many.

They further say that they had proposed this to Duinandougha, whereupon the Cajadorus answers—If my brothers do not find it convenient for them to journey so far, they would come to Duinandoughe, and should your Honour inform him of your wish it shall be faithfully attended to provided your honour send along one, two or three Strings.

No more than commending you to the Lord with the hearty Salutations of your Servant—by my order,

JACQUES CORNELISEN

They bring further news y^t Cadarachqui is Deserted by y^e french and that y^e Indians have founde thirty Barrells of Pouder and abundance of Beverand Peltry there and y^t Six of y^e Principle officers were Drownd in goeing home to Canida from Cadarachqui and Sundry Souldiers.

Vpon which it was Resolved unanimously to Send Caristasie Tosoquatho and Jurian three of y^e most Prudent Maquasse Thither to onnondage with this answer it not being thought Convenient at this juncture to Send Christians from y^e Convention.

1 Wee are glad to hear y^t y^e Report of y^e 10 nations of Indians Westward comeing Doune to Destroy y^w is false and on y^e other Side much Rejoyced that Seven of s^d nations are Inclined for Peace, which we y^e more must Recommend to y^e Brethren y^t yow may have y^e Larger Scope to Revenge your Selves of y^e French for y^e Blood shed by that false nation, who are now in a mean Condition, and think to Ensnare yow with y^e 13 Prisoners they have sent for from france, and haveing obtained Such a Peace, will have y^e better opportunity to Catch a great number of y^e people as they did in y^e Last Peace, Therefore we doe Recommend you (as we are in a fast Covenant chain together) not to hearken to y^e french nor Speak to them of Peace Since our great king is in actual warr with s^d nation

2 We would come in Person to be Present at your meeting according to your Desyre, but we have Recd a Ship from England which brings us Certain news, that there is a governor for us upon y^e way with many Souldiers & is Expected every houre, when we shall Send you an Expresse to Onnondage a horseback hopeing to have orders by our Governor that y^e English may unanimously goe and Ròot out Canida

3 Concerning y^e 13 Prisoners come from france being all that is to be founde of 39 our advise is y^t yow make Demand of them Positively of y^e French, being Stole from yow and Deceitfully taken in time of Peace, in y^e 2d Place if y^e french there hearts were good, they would have sent yow y^e Prisoners assoon as they came from france. Therefore doe not heare them Speake of any thing before they have Sent you back your Thirteen Prisoners, But yow need not be affraid of your Prisoners So Long as yow have y^e Jesuit and So many french in your Countrey whom yow must keep verry well to be Exchanged as was done in Col Dongans time; It is certain they are in no hazard that yow should be so hasty to release them, they will nott kill them it not being y^e Christians fashion.

4 And for y^e Brethrens more Incouragement we can assure y^w y^t the French king hath his hands so full that he cannot assist Canida much, Yow may See this Plainly by there Leaving Cadarachqui.

5 That they send y^e Two Letters writt by y^e governor of Canida and Lamberville y^e Priest, to y^e Jesuit at Oneyde hither if not already done, and shall Inform them with y^e Contents thereof, and take Especiall care that the messengers that Return to Canida Carry no Letters from y^e Jesuit or any body Else thither.

The high Sheriffe R: Pretty Esquire Returns from Jochim Staas and says that he hath Deliverd him y^e message & y^t said Jochim Staas comes Presently

Jochim Staas appears in y^e Convention and says he doth not Intend to answer y^e Convention and says he doth not Intend to answer y^e Convention by writeing but by Discourse, alledgeing that he might be Ensnared by writeing upon which the Gentlemen did Insist, that if he had any Lawfull Authority Devolved from our Souveraign Lord KING WILLIAM upon Jacob Leysler, that he would be pleased to show itt, they were willing to Obey, and notwithstanding y^e orders were not Directed to Mr Leysler yet they were willing with all cheerfullnesse to Obey such orders as were Comprehended in said Letters, but cannot obey Captain Leysler as Leift governor Except his Majestie hath made him soe, upon which Jochim Staas Replyed y^t we knew well enough y^e KING's Letters were Directed to Captain Nicholson and in his absence to such as for y^e time being take care for y^e Preserveing y^e Peace and administring the Laws in their Majesties Province of New Yorke, and further said

Lett y^e Bell be Rung and Lett all y^e People come Together and then he would show what he had to show, Whereupon y^e gentlemen of ye Convention Replyed that they were not willing to Runn into Confusion to Convein y^e People before they knew what to Publish or Declare to them; and withall Desyred Since he acknowledged to have a Proclamation for y^e Proclaimeing of there Majesties King and Queen of England Scotland France and Irland & a which of Scotland hath not hitherto been done here, that they might have there Majesties Proclamation to Proclaim there s^d Majesties accordinly, and they would cause the Companies come in arms, & doe it with what Solemnity the Place could afford, but y^e s^d Jochim Staas answered y^t y^e Proclamation was sent to him, & he would Obey Orders

Post Meridiem.

Jochim Staas accompanied with Peter Bogardus came to y^e Convention and there showd an Order from Jacob Leysler authorizeing Jochim Staas assisted with y^e Freeholders and Inhabitants of Albanie to Proclaim William and Mary Prince and Princesse of Orange to be king and Queen of England Scotland France and Irland & a Since he y^e s^d Leysler had Received Letters from y^e Lords of his Majesties most honorable Privy Councill dated y^e 29th day of July 1689 to Proclaim there Majesties if not already done, to which Intent he had sent a Proclamation for y^e Same Purpose which Proclamacön is made by y^e s^d Leysler and not a Proclamation sent hither by there Majesties as y^e Gentlemen of the Convention did Conclude and Expeët it was.

Vpon which many Debates were made, But Jochim Staas Insisted Principally if the Gentlemen did not acknowledge Captain Leysler to be Lieutenant Governor and Commander in Cheeffe of this Province, and whither they would obey him as Such.

The Gentlemen of y^e Convention asked if he had nothing else to show which Impoured Captain Leysler to be Lieutenant Governor then those Papers now Produced and if he had y^e Copies of y^e Letters Sent by his Majestie for y^e Province of N : Yorke, who Replyed, If he did show the Copies thereof then yow would say it was Milborn's writeing, he Staas shewd a Commission from Leysler to take Possession of fort Orange and an order for a day of Thanksgiveing. The Convention told Jochim Staas that if he could Produce but y^e Least orders from his Majesty King William directed to Jacob Leysler then they would obey him and Submitt, Else thought itt not answerable to Obey his Commands in y^e Least, but desyred Copies of those Papers which he shewed, & they would Consider y^e Bussinesse when Some members of y^e Convention who were not in Toune were made acquainted with itt and give him there answer in writeing telling him withall they were Intended to write to Captain Leysler about it, but y^e s^d Jochim Staas did not think it Convenient to give Copies of y^e s^d Papers and so went away he and Peter Bogardus together.

ALL the Justices of y^e Peace of y^e Citty and County of Albanie except Major Abraham Staas Dirk Teunise and Captain Sander Glen were Conveined together to give their opinions whether Captain Jacob Leysler ought to be Esteemed and acknowledged to be y^e Lieutenant Governor and Commander in Cheefe of the Province Since nothing hitherto hath been Produced to there view from his most Sacred Majesty KING WILLIAM our Souveraign Leige Lord whereby they can acknowledge him soe, only takes upon him y^e Title in Severall Papers which have been showne by Jochim Staas yesterday.

Peter Schuyler Mayor his vote is that he cannot acknowledge y^e s^d Captain Leysler to be Lieutenant Governor and Commander in Cheeffe of this Province nor Obey his orders till he hath showne that he hath Lawfull Authority from his most Sacred Majesty KING WILLIAM so to be.

Dirk Wessells votes y^e same with y^e Mayor

Captain Wendel is van opinie om dat hy sich Sodanigh Shryft als Luytenant Gouverneur en Commandeur an Chef, dat zyn verstant niet & can beseffen off het sodanigh is of niet & is;

Captain Jan Jansz Bleeker is of y^e same opinion with Captain Wendell which being translated is as follows that because he writes himself soe as Lieutenant Governor and Commander in Cheeffe, That his understanding cannot Comprehend whither it be soe or not soe

Livinus van Schaik is of y^e Same opinion with y^e Mayor

David Schuyler is of y^e same opinioin with y^e Mayor

Albert Ryckman of y^e Same opinion with y^e Mayor

Captain Marte Gerritse is off opinion y^t he cannot see y^t he is Lieutenant Governor and Commander in Cheeffe, before he shows it, that he hes it from his most Sacred Majestie KING WILLIAM

Kiliaen van Renselaer is of y^e same opinion with y^e Mayor

Claes Ripse is of y^e same opinion with y^e Mayor

The opinion of Captain Jonathan Bull who Commands the men sent hither from N: England for our assistance being asked says, That for any thing he hath either seen or heard yet, hath no Reason to Conclude y^t Captain Jacob Leysler is either Lieutenant Governor or Commander in Cheeffe of y^e Province of N: Yorke

The opinion of James Bennet Ensign to Captain Jonathan Bull being asked says, y^t for anything that hes appeared to him, he cannot judge that Captain Leysler is Lieutenant Governor & Commander in Cheeffe of y^e Province of N: Yorke

While y^e s^d Justices of y^e Peace were together a Letter comes from Captain Sander Glenn there Majesties Justice of y^e Peace at Shinnechtady Informing them how that there are five Commissions come to Shinnechtady from Captain Leysler for five Justices of y^e Peace brought thither by Jeronimus Wendell and Gerrit Luykasse, y^e Persones are Myndert Wemp Dowe Aukus Ryer Jacobse David Christoffelse & Johannes Pootman, and a Commission to call the People together to choose new Captain Lieutenant & Ensign and a Toune Courte, and y^t y^e s^d 5 justices come here tomorrow to assist Mr Jochim Staas and to Enter upon there office.

The said Captain Sanders together with y^e Lieutenant & Ensign and Sweer Teunise members of y^e Convention doe write to the gentlemen that there vote is not to Obey Captain Leyslers orders, But to Protest against his Illegal Proceedings.

And since we are Informed by Captain Bleeker of one of y^e Train band Companies of this Citty that Jochim Staas did ask him to beat y^e Drum and call his Companie together tomorrow to Publish a Proclamation sent hither by Captain Leysler of there Majesties to be King and Queen of England Scotland France and Irland, which Proclamation y^e s^d Justices Declare they are Ready to Proclaim, if there is y^e Least Title of orders for y^e same from there Majesties but since, this is used merely as a means to Establish Captain Leyslers authority who makes y^e s^d Proclamation

It is y^e opinion of y^e Mayor and Aldermen and the Justices to Discharge Captain Bleeker and Captain Wendel not to Convein their Companies together nor beat any Drums, to Disturbe y^e Peace of there Majesties Leige People of this Citty, Since y^e s^d Magistrates are Resolved to use all means and methods to Preserve y^e Peace of our Souveraign Lord king WILLIAM & Queen MARY and not to suffer y^e Least Innovation or Alteration in y^e government of this Citty and County till orders comes from his Majesty King William for y^e same, which never hath been hitherto showne

RESOLVED that for y^e Preservation of y^e Peace of our Souveraign Lord & Lady King William & Queen Mary and y^e wellfare of the Inhabitants of this Citty and County of Albanie the following Protest be Published in a most Solemn manner tomorrow, only Captain Wendel & Captain Bleeker say they will have nothing to doe with y^e Protest when they heard it Read

WHEREAS Jacob Leysler of y^e Citty of N : Yorke Merchant hath for some monthes past assumed to himself a Power to Command there Majesties Fort at N : Yorke, and brought to his Devotion severall of y^e adjacent Tounes and Villages without y^e Least Commission or Authority derived to him from y^e Croune of England ; whose Ambitious and Restlesse Spiritt, together with Diverse of his associates have Indefaticably strove and Endevord to bring there Majesties KING WILLIAM and QUEEN MARYS Loveing subjects in y^e

Citty and County of albany unto y^e same Confusion and Slavery, upon Pretence to Redeem them from Arbitrary Power, and to free them from y^e Yoke of Popery, which his Creatures when Last here did Endeavor to Infuse into y^e heads of y^e People and to stirr them up to Sedition and Dissobedience to y^e Lawfull Authority Confirmed by there Majesties most Gracious Proclamation; But he the said Leysler not attaining his aim, which was y^e Subversion of y^e Government of this Citty and County (so Extream Dangerous at this Juncture by Reason of y^e Indians) Continues Still his Malice, and Endavors to Disquiet there Majesties Leige People, by assumeing to himself the Titell of Lieutenant Governour and Commander in Cheeffe of there Majesties Province of N: Yorke, without y^e Least Shadow of orders or authority so to doe from his most Sacred Majestie KING WILLIAM, Deludeing the Common People and making them Believe, y^t y^e letters which were sent by his Majestie to Francis Nicholson Esquire his Majesties Lieutenant governor and Commander in Cheeffe of New Yorke and in his absence to such as for y^e time being take Care of y^e Preserving of Peace and administering y^e Laws in said Province of N: Yorke, Belonged to him, which he can no ways Pretend to, but on y^e Contrary we must Conclude are Directed to us so farr as y^e County of albany is a Part of y^e Province of New Yorke and althogh y^e s^d Leysler is sufficiently senceible of y^e Dangerous Condition y^e Citty and County of Albany are in, by Reason of y^e French of Canida and there Indians which we may dayly Expect, haveing Intelligence that they have Drawne all there forces together to Mont Royall, y^e season of y^e year being now most favourable, if they Design to make any Attaque upon us, who besides are using all Possible means to Delude and Draw off y^e five nations of Indians westward from there Obedience and Subjection to y^e Croune of England by there Indians Lately come from france, By which means there Majesties Intrest will not only in y^e Citty and County of albany but also in y^e Northern Parts of america suffer Extreamly, To Prevent which we have spared neither cost nor Trouble to secure them to this Government. Yet he y^e said Leysler doth Continue to make new Confusions when Peace and Unity is most Requisite by sending orders and Commissions to Jochim Staes, Particularly a Commission to take into his Possession fort Orange and Diverse oyr Commissions to sundrey Persones of this Citty and County, intending thereby to subvert y^e government here and Turn all upside Downe, writing Seditious Letters which are come to our hands wherein he orders new Elections for Mayor and Aldermen forthwith to be made whom he hath signified to y^e s^d Staas Contrare to the Priviledges of this Citty Graunted by Charter, soe y^t Great Part of y^e Time must be spent to Defeat the s^d Leyslers Pernicious and Malitious Designs which otherwise Could be Employd to Resist upon all occasions y^e Common Enemy and for y^e Publike good, and althogh y^e Bussinesse hath been sufficiently Debated with y^e s^d Jochim Staas and so many Arguments used as ought to Convince any Rationall man, That if he could show but the Least Title of an order from our Souveraign Leige Lord KING WILLIAM to y^e s^d Leysler or authentique Copies thereof, wee were willing and Ready to Obey him or if he could not Produce Such that if he could but Deliver us authentique Copies of his Majesties Letters or orders sent to Captain Nicholson, wee were most willing to Obey and Perform whatever was Comprehended in the Same, wee have by the assistance of God dureing these Revolutions taken care for y^e Preserveing y^e Peace & and administring y^e Laws in our said Citty and County notwithstanding all Combinations and Contrivances to y^e Contrare, and forasmuch as we have seen among y^e Papers sent by y^e s^d Leysler to Jochim Staas a Proclamation made by y^e s^d Leysler Pretended Lieutenant Governor and Commander in Cheeffe for y^e Proclaiming WILLIAM and MARY Prince and Princesse off Orange KING and QUEEN of England Seotland france & Irland &^a together with a warrant Signd by y^e s^d Leysler authorizeing Jochim Staas to Publish y^e same, mentioning y^t he Leysler had Received Orders dated y^e 29th day of July 1689 (never yet showne to us) to Proclam there Majesties if not already done, which Titles of Prince and Princesse off Orange since they have above six months agoe been Proclaimed here KING and QUEEN of England France and Irland &^a and we in there names so acted would be a Dimunition of there Majesties Titles, but if they were to be again Proclaiemd wee Conceive would be of Scotland alone, since it is mentiond in s^d Order to Proclaim there Majesties if not already done ; And altho y^e s^d Staas knows y^t there Majesties were Proclaimed here in albany on y^e first day of July Last KING & QUEEN of England France and Irland &^a in y^e Self same manner as our neighbours of Boston had done to whom his Majesties is Pleased to signify his Royall approbation of y^e samie and gracious acceptance, and having Desyred y^e s^d Jochim Staas, that if there was any Orders from there Majesties for a second Proclamation because Scotland was not Inserted in y^e first that we we're most willing and Ready to doe itt with what solemnity y^e Place could afford. But could get no oy^r answer of him, then whether we would not acknowledge Leyslers authority, and y^t he had no other Proclamation then y^t made by y^e s^d Leysler which s^d Proclamation we are Credibly Informed y^e s^d Jochim Staas doth Design to Proclaim by which means he Intends to Erect and Establish Leyslers authority here, and so overthrow y^e whole p'sent Magistracy, whereby many Mischeiffs and Calamities must of necessity Ensue to his Majesties good subjects since y^e Indians have much Depended upon them during these Revolutions

And that it may be Apparent to y^e world that we under-written Mayor and aldermen of y^e City of albany and Justices of y^e Peace of y^e said County have done and still Continue to doe what lyes in our Power for y^e Preservation of Peace and Tranquillity among y^e Inhabitants of this City and County till y^e arrivall of a governor or Orders from his most Sacred Majestie KING WILLIAM which is daily Expected, and to Prevent Such Confusion Innovation and Alteration Since it is an Indispenceible duty upon us at this juncture, and fearing to Incurr there Majesties Displeasure for our too much Lenity, Wee doe in his Majesty's KING WILLIAM's name, forewarn Discharge forbid and Prohibite y^e s^d Jochim Staas and his associates upon Pain of Rebellion to Convein or cause any meeting or assembly of People to come together, within this Citty and County of Albany upon any Pretence whatsoever whereby there Majesties Peace any wise may be Disturbed ; and therefore in y^e Behalfe of ther Majesties Leidge People of y^e said Citty and County we do PROTEST against y^e s^d Jochim Staets and his associates for all Bloodshedd, Plunderings Robberies, mischeeffs Dammages, Losses

Detriments that may henceforth Ensue by his or there Irregular and Illegal Proceedings, Since such meetings can be looked upon no other ways then as Contrare to y^e Peace of our Souveraign Lord and Lady King William & Queen Mary there Croune and Dignity In Testimony whereof we have hereunto Sett our hands and Sealls in albany y^e 13th day of January in y^e first year of there Majesties Reign a^o 16⁸⁹/₉₀ and caused y^e same to be Entered in the Publike Register of y^e Citty and County Signed & Seald p^r

The Manner how y^e s^d Protest was Publishd on y^e 13th day of January 16⁸⁹/₉₀ was orderd to be Entred being as follows.

The Mayor with y^e Recorder and Aldermen and y^e Justices and y^e Common Councill marchd from there Majesties Fort (The marshall going before with a white Rod) accompanied with diverse of y^e Antient Citizens, with a garde of fifty Inhabitants in arms The Mayor as y^e Kings Leif together with y^e Recorder alderman Shaik and Captain Martè Gerritse Justice of y^e Peace as soon as they came within y^e Citty Gates, went with there Swords Pointed; Then followd y^e other aldermen and justices and Common Councill and Sundrey Citizens and then the guards and in this Posture with Drumms Beateing came to y^e Plain Before y^e Church where y^e Bell Rung thrice. Then y^e Mayor made a speech to y^e Citizens which flockd together, shewing the Reasons why he came there in Such manner Then y^e PROTEST was Read in English and Dutch, this being done they all went in y^e Same Posture through y^e Principle Streets of y^e Citty and So up to y^e fort, where y^e guardes were Dismissd and thankd by y^e Mayor y^e Present Commander of y^e fort for y^e Service they had done there Majesties KING WILLIAM and QUEEN MARY that day, and y^e Protest sent by y^e Marshall to be affixed at y^e Porch of y^e Church.

Die Martis Albany y^e 11th day of Febuary 16⁸⁹/₉₀

Haveing Received Information from Shinnectady last night y^t no messenger was yet gone to y^e Maquase Castle to warn them to come doune it was resolved that Mr Wessells should goe in all haste thither to bring doune y^e Maquase and Captain Gerrit Teunise to goe with a Party of men now att Shinnectady to follow y^e Enemies Tract to see if they have a stronger army or any party bounde hither to this Toune and comeing to Shinnectady were assured that a messenger was gone to y^e Maquase Castles, and Lawrence y^e Indian haveing been out in pursuit of y^e Enemy with 9 men which Lay here in Toune got an Indian Prisoner by y^e way who was examind and told y^t the Enemy were not many above a hundred french and 100 Indians y^e s^d Lawrence y^e Maquase Proposed y^t he now had 49 men of y^e Maquase & River Indians sent from Albany, y^t he was Intended to pursue y^e Enemy to morrow, for his heart was Broke to see so much of his Brethrens blood shed and would Procure some of y^e Prisoners back again either by force or by strategem, upon which Mr Wessells proposed to y^e young men come there with Leift Evert de Ridder; now yow see what that Lawrence y^e Indian Intends, how many of yow are willing to goe along with him & serve there Majesties king William & Queen Mary & Pursue there Enemies that have Destroyed so many Christians, out of which Companie & of some oy^{rs} y^t came from Albany only 21 went out with Lawrence y^e Maquase on y^e 12 of february being Weddensday, and just as they were furnishd and Ready to goe y^e Indians of y^e first & 2d Castle came to Captain Sanders but y^e weather being so badd & such a Rain they could not Proceed y^t day Expecting y^e Indians of y^e 3d Castle would be there that night.

BRETHREN—Wee are sory and Extreemly greeved for y^e murther Lately Committed by y^e french upon our Brethren of Schinnectady wee Esteem this evill as if done to ourselves being all in one Covenant chain But what they have done is by way of Stelth by way of Robbery unawars our brethren of New England will be sorry to hear of this sad dissaster, but we must not be discouraged give a belt of wampam according to there custome to wipe of the tears

2 Brethren Wee Lament and Condole the death of so many of our brethren so basely murtherd at Shinnectady, we cannot accompt it a great victory for itt is done by way of Deceit He (meaning y^e governor of Canida) comes to our Country by his messengers at onondage and speaks of Peace with y^e whole house quite hither. But warr is in his heart as yow fynde by woful Experience but what shall we say it is y^e same as he did at Cadarachqui and y^e Sinnekes Country this y^e third time that he hes done so; he hes this is y^e third time Broke open y^e gevell of our house on both ends y^e one end at Sinnondowanne and y^e oyr here but we hope to be revenged there is one hundred of our young men out still who will Pursue them to there doors at Canida nay y^e french shall not be able Cutt a Stick of wood we will lay soe Close seige to them we doe now gather y^e Dead together in order to There Interrment a manner of speaking amongst them doe give a belt of wampum

3 Wee are come here from our Castles with tears in our Eys to bemoan y^e murther Committed by y^e Perfidious french at Schinnectady our young Indians are gone out in Pursute of them and while we are now Bussy in Burying the dead y^t were murtherd there we may have bad news y^t our people are gone out may be killed also y^e same y^t is befallen y^u may befall us; we doe therefore come and bury our Brethren at Schennectady doe give a belt of wampum according to there custome

4 Great is y^e Mischaffe y^t is befallen us it is come from y^e heavens upon us were taught by our fore fathers when any Sad accident or Dissaster doth befall any of y^e Covenant to goe with all Convenient speed to Bemoan there death, doe give a Belt of wampum which they call a belt of Vigelance that is not to have too much thought on what is done y^t Cannot be Remedied but to be watchful for y^e future and give Eye water to make y^e Brethren Sherpe Sighted

5 Wee come to y^r house where we usually doe Renew y^e Covenant which house we fynde Defiled with blood this is knowne to all y^e 5 nations and we are come to wipe off y^e blood and Sweep y^e house clean and therefore pray y^t Corlaer and all they y^t are in office here in albany nameing y^e mayor whom they call pieter m^r wessells and m^r Livingston may use all means and dereect all affairs to be re-venge of y^e Enemy that have done us this Evill doe give a belt of wampum

6 Brethr: Doe not be discouraged this is butt a beginning of y^e warr we are strong enough the whole house have there Eyes fixed upon y^{rs} and they only stay your motion and will be ready to doe what ever shall be resolved upon by our Brethren, our Covenant is a firm Covenant it is a Silver Chain and cannot be broke we are resolute and will Continue y^e warr we will not leave off if there were but 30 men of us left we will Proceed Therefore pray take good heart Doe not Pack and goe away if y^e Enemy should hear y^t it would much Encourage them wee are of y^e Race of y^e Bear and a bear doth not yeald as long as there is a droop of blood in its body we must all be soe doe give a belt of wampum

7 Brethren Be Content Look up to y^e heavens from thence y^e Judgement is come now upon us be not discouraged y^e some hand y^t hath chastised us can heal us; the sunn which now hath been Cloudy and sent us this dissaster will shinne again and with its Pleasant Beams Comfort us Be Incouraged with many Repetitions doe give a bevir skin

8 Wee are Engaged in a bloody warr with y^e french about 3 years agoe and were Incouraged to proceed and no sooner were well Entred and gott prisoners but a Cessation Came and Corlaer meaning Col: dongan hindred us to proceed and demanded y^e prisoners from us we were obedient and deliver them and layed doune ye hatchet which if we might have gone foreward then the french would not have been in y^t Capacity to doe so much mischeeffe as they doe but now we must dye Such obstructions will Ruine us; if we might have had our wills we would have prevented there planting Sowing and Reaping and brought them low and mean Neverthesse lett us be stedfast and not take such measures again lett us goe one briskly with y^e warr doe give a Bever Skinn

9 Wee Recommend y^e brethren to keep good watch and if any Enemies come take care y^t messengers be more speedily sent to us then lately was done we would not advise y^e brethren quite to desert Shinnectady but to make a fort there The enemy would be too glorious to See it quite desolate and y^r Toune is not well fortified y^e Stockadoes are so short y^e Indians can jump over them like a dogg doe give a bever skinn

10 This mischeeffe is done at Shinnectady and it Cannot bee helped but asoon as any Enemy Comes let nothing hinder y^r speedy sending to us y^e news by Posts and fyreing great gunnes y^t all may be alarmd and our advise is y^t y^r gett all y^e River Indians who are under y^r subjection to come and Live neer unto y^r to be ready on all occasions and send word to n: England of all and lend us there helping hand; lett us not be discouraged y^e french are not so many as people talk off if we but minde our buissinesse they can be subdued with y^e assistance of our neighbours of N: England whose Intrest it is to drive on this warr as much as ours y^t it may be speedily ended

Wee Desyre y^t y^e brethren may Recommend y^e Smiths not to be dear in repareing our arms since money is so scarce and we only goe to warring and not to hunting we shall take care to warn y^e Sinnekes and y^e nations living above us to be in Readinesse for we being one they hearken to us and tell of N: England y^t we shall take care y^t y^e upper nations be Ready for our security and assistance and lett them be ready also with Ships and great gunns by water and we will plague him by land we are resolved not to goe out a hunting but to minde y^e warr for y^e sooner y^e french be fallen upon y^e better before they gett men and provisions from france as there usual custome is doe give a bever Skinn

BRETHREN — Your Coming heir according to the Custom of your ancestors to Condole y^e death of the brethren murthred at Shinnectady is very acceptable, whereby your Inclination to wards us is demonstrate, wee must acknowledge that they did not keep so good watch as they ought Considereing what a false and deceitfull Enemy they had to deal with all but that which made them secure was y^e great trust they reposed in the 45 maquase who came heire and tendred there service to goe and be y^e out watch and to spy y^e Enemy, which end powder and lead was given them as they understood wee wer about hyreing of Christians to send thither but wer un happily Deverted by the s^d Companie off maquase who promised to have four posts ready two to goe to there own Country and two to runn hither if any Enemy should appear for the Brethren did assur us that no french Could Come heir without beeing Discouered and then would all fall Into our hands wee are likewise mindfull how y^t y^e 5 nations last fall when the gentlmen of new England were heir did declare how they would Encompasse the french of Canida that they should not break out this winter without being Discoverd and fallen upon and die — likewise propose by our messeinggers arnout and Rob^t Sanders at the generall meeting of onnondage to have 307 : 400 men sent hither to be Readie on all occasions but see non

It well there fore be verry requisite that y^e brethern for there better Security come and plant this summer att Shinnechtady upon y^e Land y^t kannot be Cultivate this year that we may be near to on onoy^r upon any occasion Concerning y^r Proposition of y^e Skachkook Indians tis Concluded on some days agoe to propose to y^e Skachkook Indians y^e Planting on Marte gerritse Island hard by y^e toune and y^e River Indians y^t lived below shall also come together to be ready on all occasions

Wee must Insist and recommend y^w to perswade there of oneyde to Send y^e Priest hither for y^w have Seen how dangerous it is to have such persones among y^w who Informs y^e Enemy of all y^r doings and discovers all our desyns we shall secure him y^t he runn not away and when y^e ouner demands him and y^e troubles are over shall be deliverd for he can doe more harm in oneyde then 100 men

We think it Convenient y^t one or two of y^r Sachims stay here and y^t a Sachim of each nation be here to assist in y^e management of y^e affaires of y^e warr

INSTRUCTIONS for Robert Livingston Gentleman Sent by
y^e Convention of y^e Civill & Military officers of y^e Citty & County of albany to be there agent in n: England

1 Yow are to goe with y^e first Conveniency to Canetticut along with Captain Gerrit Teunise and such Person as y^e Gent: of y^e County of Ulster shall appoint to joyn with y^u in this bussinesse, & if no such Person come to Catskill as is appointed then with y^e s^d Captain Gerrit Teunise & Communicate to y^e Governor & Councill of Canetticut the state of affares here, & in what Danger this Part of there Majesties Territory is in, if not speedily assisted by our neighbours,

2 Yow are to acquaint them how Requisite it is y^t some sudden means be used to fitt out vessells to goe to Canida and Invade Quebec which is y^e Easier and surer way then by Land, since Quebec is but meanly fortified, & few men there, y^e stretch of Canida being Drawn up to mont Royall which y^e french have fortified.

3 Yow are to make y^e addresse to y^e s^d Governor & Councill of Canetticut for y^e assistance of fifty Brisk young men or more fitt for traveling in y^e woods to goe out upon occasion with our People and y^e Indians to annoy y^e Enemy

4 After y^u have discoursed of y^e mean Condition of this Place & how Scarce Provisions are like to be the farmers leaveing there habitations, since y^e murther Committed at Shinnectady; where great store of all sorts of Provisions was Destroyed, then y^u are to Desyre y^e quantity of one hundred Barrells of Porke or Beefe Equivalent for there Majesties use to be Employed as occasion shall Require for there Majesties Troops that lye in garrison here for y^e Defence of this part of y^e Country

5 If y^e governor & Councill of Canetticut doe Decline to send any more men or no Provisions hither then y^u are to Insist y^t y^e Companie of Captain Bull stay here till further order from there Majesties since it would be of Dangerous Consequence to draw off s^d Companie at this juncture & Raise jealousies among y^e Indians, while they are so Eager for more men to Pursue y^e warr against y^e french.

6 Yow are to goe from Canetticut to Boston and apply y^r Self to y^e governor and Councill there, & Inform them of all affares here, what damage y^e french have done & what Subtle Practices they use to draw of y^e 5 nations of Indians from there Dependance on y^e Imperiall Crowne of England. to side with y^e french & how dangerous it would be to there Majesties Intrest if s^d nations should hearken to y^e Enemy.

7 That y^e only means to Secure there Countreyes from y^e Incursions of y^e french and there Indians would be to Equipp & Rigg out some vessells with men to Invade Quebec, & to p[']vent all Supplyes comeing from france whereby y^e french will be Discomfited and our Indians Incouraged to Pursue y^e warr by Land.

8 That we of this government are not able to Resist y^e Power of Canida without y^e assistance of our neighbors, & therefore Desyre y^t fifty men or more may be Speedily sent hither for y^e Defence of y^e Place and to Pursue y^e Enemy upon occasion and one hundred Barrells of Porke & Beefe for there subsistence, which with that dayly Expected from N: Yorke will much Contribute for y^e Safety of y^e Place, since y^e People here are so much Impoverished & Provisions so Scarce by y^e out plantations Being Deserted y^t y^e forces cannot be maintained without a Supply

9 Yow are to acquaint y^e s^d Governor & Councill what cost & Charge we have been att, with y^e Indians, since these Revolutions to secure them to this government, & y^t it is Impossible to Proceed without y^e assistance of £ — — — to be Employed y^t way which shall be Exactly accompted for, what way Disposed & undoubtedly allowed by there Majesties

10 Yow are to strive to make them senceible how usefull y^e 5 nations will be during y^e warr with y^e french of Canida & how Dangerous it would be to loose them at such a juncture & y^e only means to induce them to be vigorous in y^e Prosecution of y^e warr will be by giving them a good example since they verry well know y^t y^e English here farr exceed them of Canida

11 Yow are to keep an Exact account of whatever Charges y^w & y^e Persones going with y^w from this County are att in y^e Prosecution of y^r Journey out & home & whatever y^w Disburse over and above y^e money now given shall be allowed y^w on acct of y^e Publik which if not be allowed by there Majesties then shall be paid by y^e County

12 Since it is unknowne to us what occurrences y^w may meet withall in this Employ. Yow are to act & doe in our Behalfe with our s^d neighbours whatever y^w shall juge expedient & needful for y^e secureing of there Majesties Intrest here in these parts and Safety of there Subjects, Ratefying & Confirming whatever y^w shall act or Perform Concerning y^e Premises

HONORABLE SIR GOVERNOR OF BOSTON

Yours of the 8th instant by Mr pembrock I received & I returne you many thanks for the care I perceive you have had for our packet, since your last wee have received the sad & miserable newes from Skenectedy neere Albany whereof wee understand is laid to your woefull account it is such newes as we feared long since. Alase what could there be expected of a certane number of rebellious people that remained rûlling under that arbitrary Commissione of sir Edmund at Albany within this province, and encouraged & supported by Connecticoatt by ordering their forces sent thither to obserue the directions of the s^d rebels named a Conventione, being well assured the same is supported more specially by that trayterous John Allan the Secretary of that Collony immediately upon the newes wee sent a messinger to advise the Governor that he may expect three messingers from hence with full power to propose to them what may be necessary for his Majesties intrest & the safety of these provinces which was answered with great disdain imaginable, soe that wee are denied the assistance wee expected from that part to day I hope our forces will depart being already imbarqued wee send also three members of our counsell with presents to the nationes of the confederate Indianes and to endeavour to strengthen & corroborate their enmity to the french, and if they see meet to send any of our forces to joine with them agt the french att the first hearing of the s^d newes I immediately made an allarum and in the morning disarmed & Imprisoned about 40 commissioned officers by sir Edmond who in the afternoon delivered up the same which was effected in the night by sixteen troopers, so that I gott in about 150 Commissiones & our militia well settled soe that wee are now in a very good posture of union & better able to resist an enemy as ever, I have seaven in confinement, & a great many have abscond themselves with dongan, I shall be glad to understand from your Honor what measures you are like to take to attack the french and what assistance you are willing to afford us, for one exploit agt Canada by land or sea (Connecticott having refused to advise with us) etc.

ffort william March the 5th 1689 :

TO THE GOVERNOR OF BOSTONE

Honored sir—yesterday was my last to your Honor This morning I received newes that one Robert Livingstone who by his rebellione hath caused great disorder in the County of Albany and also in the wholl province by maintaining the late comissiones granted unto them by sir Edmund Andross & Coll: dongan & other directiones which were given by the magistrates which were appoynted per Coll: dongan & sir Edmond Andross whereby they have caused a divisione & a rebellione, so that they been careless of watching, denying 52 souldiers which were sent up under the command of Captain States Inhabitant at Albany chosen by most of the Inhabitants there & commissioned by the Governor & Councill in hindering one Captain Ruster who was commissioned with 25 men to joine himselfe with our confederate Indianes to proceed agt the french, This rebell Livingstone being conscious of his crymes & understanding our forces were coming up, he upon pretence of going to raise forces at Connecticut & Boston for to defend Albany is departed yesterday for that intent, as is s^d, to obtaine such if possible as may side with them & be obedient to their rebellious conventione, I beleve they may expect him againe if the rogue does not rune further which I doubt he will if not prevented, by apprehending of him he being also considerably indebted to his Majestie, therefore have sent the bearer Captain Benjamin Blagg or Lievt daniell Teneur to persue him with a warrant to that purpose desiring your Honor to assist him or either of them in the securing the s^d rebell it will be a great service, I will further recommend your Honor not to faill to assist us, so well by sea as by land not doubting if you are brisk & doe what you can but what we shall conquer Cannāda pray give us speedy advice to what we may trust that we may encourage the Indianes & tell them the truth, This is all for the present after my service I remaine sir &c :

Depositions Against Livingston.

Present J Bruyn Johannes Prov^t Jan J Bleeker Joh Cuyler

Akes Cornellissen Van Slyck of the County of Albany, aged about 50 years being sworn on the Holy Evangelists before Mr Jan Jansen Bleeker Justus of the Peace declares that about the middle of Feb A^o 1688^g he was with his wife Grietje and George Aersen at Robert Livingston's house and that he deponent stated and said to said Livingston Thou hast read the King's Declaration in English but I cannot understand it—therefore repeat it to me in Dutch. Whereupon the aforesaid Livingston answered & said—That the King stated that many of his Subjects had run away from England to Holland, of whom the Prince is the Chief Rebel — and said further, Let him come to England ; he shall find there as good Soldiers to oppose him as he shall bring with him. And further he saith not. Thus in Albany

Sworn before Me.

Grietje wife of Akes Cornelissen, aged about 45 years being sworn before Jan Janse Bleeker Justus of the Peace declares that she was with her husband Akes & Joris Aersen about the Middle of February 1688^g at Robert Livingston's house; and that she Deponent heard said Livingston state that the King said that the Prince is the head of the rebels. And further she knoweth not well whether she heard from Livingston or her husband or from Jor : Aersen—she, however, heard one of the three say that Livingston had also said that divers English subjects had run away from England to Holland; also, let him but come to England he shall there find as good soldiers as he shall bring with him, and she further saith not. Thus, in Alby 1 April 1690

Present. J Bruyn Joh Provoost Joh Wendel

Reyer Schermerhooren of the county of Albany, aged about 38 years being sworn before Mr Johannis Wendel, Justus of the Peace, declares that he was last harvest at Sweer Teunissens van Velsen's house at Schanhegtade, where Joris Aersen, Capt Sander Glen, Joh Glen & Myndert Wemp were present, and that then Joris Aersen was asked if he had heard Robert Livingston Say that the Prince of Orange (who is our King of England &^{ca}) was the head of the Rebels who invaded England with the Prince A^o 1688 Whereupon the aforesaid Jor : Aersen answered, No—I did not hear Livingston say so; but he said this—that in the declaration which the Late King James issued against the Hollanders he had read that the Prince was declared to be the Head of the Rebels—Whereupon Meyndert Wemp again said in the presence of the aforesaid Company—Remember this well; for Joris Aersen shall yet make these words good; and said, further, that he will note down in his book the words which Joris aforesaid has there stated. And further he saith not. Thus in Alby this 1st April 1690

Annals, ii.

Simon Schermerhooren of the County of Albany aged about 32 years being sworn in presence of Mr Johannis Wendel Justus of the Peace declares, that he was last harvest in his house at Schanegtady where Joris Aersen came and related to him Deponent how Robert Livingston had told him that the Declaration issued against the Hollanders by the late King James denounced the Prince of Orange as the head of the Rebels; and that he Joris had shewn this declaration to Dom : Tassemaker at the time minister of Schanhegtady, to learn if there were any such thing in it, but Dom : Tassemaker could see nothing of the sort there; and as the Deponent afterwards heard that Joris tried to alter the aforesaid Livingston's words. he asked Joris if he now denied that he had spoken to Deponent against Livingston? Whereupon Joris answered, I deny nothing of what I told you herein, for I stated the same to the Domine and the whole consistory of Schanegtady, and I shall not deny it even should I die the death, for Aces Corns & his wife were likewise present when Livingston spoke so of our Prince, notwithstanding that Akes now says he is sick, and his wife says she is only a woman. But, said Joris, when they are put on their oaths they will speak the truth, and should they not, yet will I do it. Item, Joris said, it vexes me much that such slanders should be stated of our Prince as he is my countryman, for I too am an Amsterdam boy. And further saith not Thus in Albany, 1st April 1690.

Myndert Harmensen of the County of Albany, aged about 47 years, being sworn before Johannis Wendel Justus of the Peace, declares that last harvest in his house, he asked Joris Aersen if it were true that he heard Robert Livingston say that our Prince of Orange was at the head of the Rebels? Whereupon the aforesaid Joris Aerson answered No; I did not hear Livingston say that; but he said this, that the Late King James hath in his Declaration against the Hollanders pronounced the Prince to be the head of the Rebels, and further saith not. Thus in Albany this 1st April 1690.

Present J Bruyn, Joh Provoost, J J Bleeker

Capt Sander Glen Justus of the Peace of the County of Albany, aged about 43 years being sworn before Mr Jan Jansen Bleeker, Justus of the Peace, declares that he heard Joris Aersen say several times last summer or last harvest, that it was too much reported of him Joris that he should have spoken against Robert Livingston; and that Joris also said what I heard Livingston say of the Prince; Akes Cornelissen and his wife were there then present when he read the declaration; they well know what he said¹ and further saith not. Thus in Albany this 1st April 1690.

I salute you & Remain

Major Milborn and the rest of the Gentlemen at Schanhechtade.

This afternoon Three of our folks arrived here from Canida who escaped from there; namely, Klyn Isack, the Son of Ryck Claessen, and one of Capt Boll's Soldiers. They report having been 24 days on the road, and the Soldier twenty six days from Monrojael.

They say that Monrojael is not very strongly garrisoned, though they fear nothing and think little of us. Nevertheless the Soldier or Englishman would very gladly attack it and is inclined to accompany our people and gives us great encouragement, that the opportunity is favorable.

The French abstain from talking before prisoners & say they have heard little or nothing from the Port rojael Expedition or of the Indian fight on the Lake

We further refer to the Enclosed to Arnout Cornelissen. We think it right if your Honors consider that Arnout Cornelissen is gone, that it should be sent after him by an Indian in order to communicate this news to the Indians. Wherewith, after salutation we remain,

Your friends

JOHANNES PROVOOST
J. BRUYN

This 9 July A^o 1690. In Albany.

Laurents or Jannetie the Indian with his party urge us very hard not to omit reminding the Gentlemen again to admonish the Indians at Schanhechtade not to let the French prisoners go out with them to fight, for we have an example now in our own people who have run away from Canada, and that they should be disarmed.

JOURNAL of Captain John Schuyler who voluntarily embarked at Wood Creek on the 13th August 1690, with 29 christians and 120 Savages, whom he recruited at Wood Creek as volunteers under his command to go to Canida to fight the enemy.

Nearly about the swamps I met Captain Sander Glen on his way back to Albany, because the greatest number returned. The aforesaid Sanders had in his company 28 whites and 5 savages and came from Tsinondrosie where Captain Sanders had been waiting 8 days for the whole corps. — From these Captain John Schuyler enlisted 13 whites and 5 savages to continue with Captain Schuyler the voyage to Canida and their to fight their mutual enemy. When the rest of the company had left us, and we had advanced nearly two hours on our voyage, we found 2 canoes which had been sent out to spy and which had shot an elk.—After we had done eating and had supplied our canoes we proceeded on our way as far as Canaghsonie.—

The 15th day of August we came one Dutch mile above Crown Point.—

The 16th ditto we had advanced as far as Kanondoro, and resolved at that place to travel by night and have that night gone onward to near the spot where Ambrosio (?) Corlaer is drowned, and there one of our savages fell in convulsions, charmed and conjured by the devil, and said that a great battle had taken place at Quebeck (Cubek) and that much heavy cannon must have been fired there, and that one hundred canoes with savages had come down the river from Cadaraqui. (Coederoqua.) And about one hour after sunrise we have gone to Oghraro, where I placed the first guard and nominated Barent Wemp as officer of the guard.

The 17 ditto in the evening we proceeded to Ogharonde. A Tsenondoga savage of our Company died there; he died of sickness; the Oneida savages gave a wampum belt for the atonement of the dead. That day Capt. Schuyler with his subaltern officers and the Chief of the savages resolved where they should make their attack upon the enemy, and they determined by the majorities to fall upon fort La Prairie (Lapplarie); whereupon the Mohawks gave a wampum belt to the Schaghkock savages as a token to stand by each other faithfully, and what they do call "onrogquasa In a Goera." The Oneida savages did the same to the Mohawk savages by some handful of wampum, and in this manner this resolution was decidedly agreed upon and confirmed with shaking of hands (kinsekaje) as well by the christians as by the savages and, moreover, approved by the savages as to whom should be their chiefs or headmen, — Carristasio and Tehoesequatho and Juriaen the ferocious.

The 18 ditto, set out in the evening, and about midnight we saw a light fall down from out the sky to the South, of which we all were perplexed what token this might be.

The 19 ditto on account of the strong wind we laid still because we could not proceed and we were laying about 3 miles above the Sandbank of Chambly.

The 20 ditto we sent out spies along the west side of the river Chambly and found there a drawing of a party from

Canada and 14 palisades to which they had bound their prisoners whom they had fetched from New England.

The 21 ditto we proceeded to about one mile below the above mentioned sandbank of Chambly, when we again sent out spies, who discovered some places where french and savage spies had been keeping double night watch, and that the same had embarked for Chambly. Then, after having first placed our canoes and provisions in safety,

The 22 ditto we pursued our journey by land and travelled that day close under La Prairie — the road being very difficult on account of the softness of the clay, over which we had to travel, so that two of our christians returned to our canoes. Coming through the clay we heard much firing of musketry, of which we were astonished what it might be.

The 23 ditto in the morning I sent spies towards the fort to see how it was ; returning said all the folks were leaving the fort of La Prairie to cut corn.—Then we resolved in what manner we should hinder them to obtain the fort again, and agreed to do so by intercepting them on their way to the fort, but by the eagerness of the young savages such was prevented, because christians as well as savages fell on with a war cry which displeased the officer that they fell on without orders having been given, but they made 19 prisoners and 6 scalps, among which were 4 womenfolk. The first prisoner was examined, asking him, what the firing of yesterday at La Prairie signified? said, the Governor is yesterday gone away with 800 men and the people discharged their muskets at their departure because their scouts had not heard from us. Then we fell upon their cattle, we pierced and shot to death nearly 150 head of oxen and cows, and then we set fire to all their houses and barns which we found in the fields, their hay, and everything else which would take fire.—Then we christians resolved to fall upon the fort, but could not move the savages to give their consent to help us to attack the fort ; the fort fired alarms when Montroyal and Chamblé answered, so that we resolved to depart with the prisoners to Albany. A savage of ours was stabbed to death, whom we burned in a barn, and we went that day 7 Dutch miles¹ on our way back. Then the savages killed 2 french prisoners because they could not travel on account of their wounds.— A little while after this we sat down to eat and thanked the Governor of Canada for his salute of heavy cannon during our meal—they fired from the morning till 2 o'clock in the afternoon from all three of the forts— That day we travelled to the river Chambly where our canoes were laying.

The 24 ditto we went as far as fort Lamotte.

The 25 ditto we reached the Sand point, where we shot 2 elks.

The 26 ditto we came to the little stone fort, and from there sent a canoe with men to Albany to bring the news of what had happened to us.

The 27 ditto we proceeded to Canaghsione and there shot 9 elks.

The 28 ditto we reached Wood Creek.

The 29 ditto we have travelled to the little Rapid above Saraghtoge.

But in regarde y^e inhabitants are so extreamely impoverished by this war, in so much y^t they are not able to provide and furnish y^e souldiers with bedding for the winter ; it is thought convenient to write to y^e honorable commander in cheiff and counsell to desyre them to send up bedding with there men, and if they should not send duffells or blanketts and for y^t purpose to request that so much money of y^e proportion of this city and county tax towards y^e 2000£ act may be appropriated for that use, to buy bedding for y^e souldiers both of the fuzilleers in towne already, and them that are dayly expected.

GLOSSARY.

The change of sovereignty which the colony of New Netherland underwent in 1664, necessarily interfered with the language, as well as the customs and manners of the people. The records continued for twenty years after that event, to be written mostly in Dutch ; but in 1686 they were required to be kept in English. The Dutch, however, was the oral language of the city for many years after, and the records themselves bear evidence of the transition the language was undergoing, by the mixture of English and Dutch words and phraseology. The following glossary may be useful, so far as it goes, to such as are not conversant with the literature of Albany nearly two centuries ago.

Beverskill, now known as the Buttermilk creek, and long since obliterated below Grand street, being conducted into the river by a sewer.

Blockhuijse, for the locations of the blockhouses as they existed at this time, see diagram, vol. I, 136.

Brant hout, fire-wood.

Brant leere, fire-ladders.

Brant haeken, fire-hooks.

City Hall, occupied the present site of Commercial Building, corner of Broadway and Hudson street.

Gilder, gl., f., a Dutch coin, value nearly forty cents.

Leisler's time, Jacob Leisler, an elderly and respected merchant, who raised the standard of William and protestantism, in 1689, and governed the province by the choice of the freeholders of New York and the authority of the English ministry for nearly two years, was very unjustly executed as a traitor, March 16, 1691. The mayor and common council of Albany were opposed to his administration.

Maquaas river, the Mohawk river.

Maijs, maize, Indian corn.

Oyrs, others.

Parrellt, Pearl street.

Pleijn, the Plain was the flat ground between Broadway and South Pearl street below Beaver. At the beginning of the present century even, there were but few buildings erected upon it. The lot of the Presbyterian Church, corner of Beaver and South Pearl streets now Beaver Block (1869), is described in the deed, dated 1792 (see vol. I, 132), as being "on the plains."

Ruttenkill, had its head springs above Lark street, and passed down what was since called the Hudson street ravine (see vol. I, 146, 158). Its ancient bed, since the ravine was filled up, passes down Hudson and Beaver streets, crossing Pearl street at the centre of the Beaver Block, and enters the Basin near the State street bridge.

169 $\frac{3}{4}$. Before the new style was adopted in 1752, there was much confusion respecting dates, particularly in regard to the months of January and February. Some writers began the year in January, and others in March. The difficulty was to determine whether January and February closed an old year, or began a new one. It became necessary to have some mode, by which it might be known to what year January and February belonged, whenever these months were mentioned. For this purpose the following method was adopted: during January and February, and to the 22d of March, the year was thus marked, 1716-17, or 17 $\frac{16}{17}$, meaning, that by the ancient mode of calculating, the month mentioned belonged to the year 1716; but, by the new calculation, to the year 1717. After the 22d of March there was no difficulty; for by both calculations, the succeeding months were included in the new year.

CONVENTION ON THE STATE OF THE PROVINCE.

One after another the Dutch had now abandoned every point their enemies had assailed. The Connecticut river was gone, Westchester was relinquished, and, now, Newtown, Flushing, Gemeco, Heemstede and Gravesend were surrendered. It was at this gloomy conjuncture, when it became evident that the country was held only on sufferance, and authority felt itself utterly powerless, that the principle of popular representation was, for the first time, fully recognized in this province. At the request of the burgomasters and schepens, a general assembly of delegates from the several towns was convoked, to take into consideration the state of the province. This important meeting was held in the city hall of New Amsterdam, and the members then in attendance were:

Cornelius Steenwyk, Jacob Bakker, New Amsterdam; Jeremias van Rensselaer, Dirck van Schelluyne, Rensselaerswyk; Jan Verbeek, Gerrit Slechtenhorst, Fort Orange; Thomas Chambers, Gysbert van Imbroeck, Wiltwyck; Daniel Terneur, Johannis Verveeler, New Haerlem; David de Marest, Pierre Billou, Staten Island; Wm. Bredenbent, Albert Corn. Wantenaar, Breukelen; Jan Strycker, Wm. Guilliams, Midwout; Elbert Elbertsen, Coert Stevensen, Amersfoort; David Jochêmsen, Cornelis Beekman, New Utrecht; Jan van Cleef, Gysbert Teunissen, Boswyck; Engelbert Steenhuisen, Herman Smeeman, Bergen.

The first question which engaged the attention of this assembly was that of the presidency. New Amsterdam claimed the honor as the capital; Rensselaerswyck as the oldest colonie. The right of the latter was admitted, and the Honorable Jeremias van Rensselaer took the chair under protest. The convention then demanded of the government, protection against the Indians and "the malignant English." If it were not able to afford such protection, they wished to be informed to whom they were to address themselves. The inhabitants of New Netherland, the director-general insisted, had never contributed to the support or defense of the province. On the contrary, the West India Company had expended the sum of twelve hundred thousand guilders over and above the customs, excise, revenue of the weigh-scale and tithes. Danger impended now over the country from two points—the Indians and the English. He wished the convention to decide if the war should be continued, or peace made with the former. If war were decided on, should the allies of the Indians also be included? Should the English summon the country to surrender, were they to be resisted? If so, by what force? Was every sixth man to be enrolled? Over two hundred men besides the soldiers were required. He proposed a tax on mills and cattle. Were supplies refused, the military force now under pay would be reduced.

The political system which commercial monopoly had so long been endeavoring to construct, collapsed at the moment when its powers were tested. The convention refused supplies, and adjourned for a week to consider the propriety of again appealing to the home authorities.

When the convention reassembled, the director and council immediately laid the above information before it. All further remonstrance to the West India Company was now considered unnecessary, and the assembly proceeded to deliberate on the measures proper to be adopted towards the Indians and the English towns. It was found useless to attempt to execute the orders of the Directors in regard to the latter. "The English rebels were as six to one; and with aid from Hartford would easily overcome and massacre the few Dutch soldiers that could be brought against them." It would be impossible to subdue them. The province would be thrown at once into their hands, or delivered up a prey to the savages. These were disposed for peace, and the situation of the province rendered it desirable that a treaty be concluded, for it was discovered that the English of Connecticut were tampering with them.—O' Callaghan's Hist. N. Neth., II, p. 505.

PHILIP PIETERSEN SCHUYLER.

This was the first of the Schuyler family who settled in this country. He came from Amsterdam to America in 1650, and was married on the 22d December of that year, to Margritta van Slechtenhorst, aged 22, daughter of the Director of Rensselaerswyck, by Anthonie de Hooges the secretary of the colonie, "in presence of the officers both of Fort Orange and Rensselaerwyck, and of some of the principal inhabitants thereof." By this lady he had ten children, viz: Guysbert, Gertrude, (who married Stephanus van Cortland;) Alida, (who married, first, Rev. Nicholas van Rensselaer, second Robert Livingston;) Pieter, Brant, Arent, Sybilla, (died aged four weeks,) Philip, Johannes and Margritta. Peter Schuyler was the first mayor of Albany, John, the youngest son, held a captain's commission in 1690, when he led an expedition into Canada, and penetrated as far as La Prairie, being then only twenty-two years of age. He possessed great influence among the Indians, and is referred to frequently in La Potherie's History of North America. His grandson, General Philip Schuyler, occupies too high a place in the history of this state, to need further remark here. Philip Pietersen Schuyler died at Albany, on the 9th March, 1683-4, and was buried on the 11th of the same month in the church of that place, then situated at the junction of State street on Broadway. His will bears date Tuesday evening, 1st May, 1683, O. S.—O' Callaghan's Hist. N. Neth., II, 177.

COMMISSION OF GERRIT SWART, OF RENSSELAERS-

And all this for the term of three years certain, commencing when he shall have arrived in that country; provided that the Patroon and Codirectors reserve to themselves to abridge the aforesaid term, and discontinue the service whenever it shall so please them, without being obliged to give any reasons, nor to convey back either him or his family.

J. VAN DE VEN, NOTARY.

Instructions drawn up by Johan van Rensselaer, Patroon and Codirector of the Colonie called Rensselaers-wyck, for Gerrit Swart as officer of the said Colonie, according to which he shall, in all good faith, regulate himself.

Having arrived with God's help at the island of Manhattans, he shall proceed by the first opportunity to the Colonie, and report himself to Jan Baptist van Rensselaer, and make known unto him his quality, by exhibition of his Commission and Instructions.

He shall, above all things, take care that divine worship shall be maintained in said Colonie, conformably to the reformed religion of this country, as the same is publicly taught in these United Provinces.

He shall, in like manner, pay attention that the Lord's day, the Sabbath of the New Testament, be properly respected both by the observance of hearing the Holy Word, as well as the preventing all unnecessary and daily labor on said day.

And whereas, it is a scandal, that the Christians should mingle themselves unlawfully with the wives or daughters of heathens, the officer shall labor to put in execution the placards and ordinances enacted or to be enacted against the same, and strictly exact the fines imposed thereby, without any dissimulation.

He shall consequently be ex officio a party or attorney in all matters thereunto necessary, before our court of justice resident in the aforesaid Colonie, in which he shall have free access and seat, but no vote.

The conducting of all criminal suits, their institution, execution, description and final prosecution, as he shall deem consistent with his recorded oath, shall therefore be in his name; it being well understood that he shall commence no suit relating to our jurisdiction, domain, or finance, except by order of our Commissaries.

And he shall prosecute no man criminally, or cause him to be apprehended unless on previous information, and this he shall not himself take except by order aforesaid, or unless he be on the spot when the offence is committed, and the delinquent be arrested in the act.

He shall in taking information, conduct himself honorably and uprighteously, and describe the affair with all circumstances most fully, in order to record in writing the clearest and purest truth concerning the same, as well the grounds of defence on the part of the prisoners and accused persons, as of their accusation, provided that what most particularly relates to the service of the Patroonship be first of all inquired into.

He shall sedulously cause the placards, ordinances, resolutions, contracts and commands of the Patroon and Codirectors to be observed, and attend that nothing be done contrary thereto.

And in order that he may be more free in every regard, he shall not be allowed to accept any presents, pensions or gifts from any person whatsoever, nor compound or agree in any criminal matter, but prosecute all according to law, and content himself with the fines and penalties which shall be adjudicated to him.

He shall likewise take care that in matters entailing confiscation of life or property, the judges shall be qualified to the number of at least five, and also see that the same rule be followed whenever courts of criminal jurisdiction shall be held.

Copies of the judgments with the information either sent to, or taken and obtained by him, shall be forwarded hither in the first sailing ship, and all judicial acts shall be so recorded, that whoever need, may be able to be vindicated here.

Care shall also be taken that no prisoners confined with the knowledge of our Court aforesaid, shall remain long in jail at the expense of the colonie, without special cause, but they shall be prosecuted so expeditiously that their business shall be dispatched, and with that view, shall the Court aforesaid be advised as frequently as possible what prisoners are in custody at his instance or otherwise, and on what charge.

In fine, he shall be holden to conduct himself always diligently and faithfully as a good officer is bound to do, on such stipend as is allowed by contract to him.

And for the better dispatch and discharge of this his office and duty, the Secretary of our Court shall draft the preparatory or introductory acts of information, and all other preceding matters and minutes in judicio, and moreover whatever shall be necessary for the performance of his office which we hereby order.

The sworn marshal appointed by the Commissaries, he shall also employ to serve all citations and summonses, in which he is not a party.

He shall further be bound to have these Instructions and Commission enregistered by the Secretary of the Commissaries.

Finally, in all matters relating to his office not specified herein, and which cannot admit of delay, or await the Patroon's and Codirector's advice, he shall act on the resolve of the Commissaries and Court, and advise the patroon and

Co-directors thereof, by the first opportunity, so that suitable order may be taken thereupon.

And all this provisionally, the Patroon and Co-directors reserving unto themselves, to augment, diminish, correct this Instruction according to circumstances, or therein otherwise order as shall be found proper. Thus done and concluded in Amsterdam, this 8th May, 1652.

Johan van Rensselaer,

Johan de Laet, for the Co-directors.

INDIAN DISTURBANCES.

On the 7th June, 1663, the Indians made an attack upon the unsuspecting village of Esopus (Kingston), and destroyed the place, committing their accustomed barbarities upon the inhabitants. The director and council, on receiving intelligence of this catastrophe, dispatched forthwith Councillor de Decker to Fort Orange to raise volunteers, call out the Mohawks and Senecas, and finally obtain, if possible, a loan to aid the necessities of the government. A proclamation was next issued inviting the colonists in and around the Manhattans to enlist, who were further encouraged to come forward by the usual promise of plunder, as well as by the assurance that every Indian, taken in the war, should be the prize of his captor. In addition to these, each volunteer was to receive soldier's pay, a gratuity, ranging from four hundred to one thousand guilders if maimed, and be entitled to exemption from chimney tax and tithes for the term of six years. But, though General Stuyvesant visited Heemstede in person, and sent agents through the other villages, no more than half a dozen Englishmen enrolled themselves, the leaders of their towns having discountenanced the project. Treaties were again renewed with the River tribes, and forty-six Marespink savages were engaged to accompany the troops to the Esopus. Captain Martin Krygier, an old and experienced officer, was placed in command of the expedition, under whom Lieutenants Pieter W. van Couwenhoven, Nicolas Stillwell, and Ensign Samuel Edsal also received commissions.

The news of the massacre caused no less a sensation at Beverwyck than at New Amsterdam; for the inhabitants in that quarter were more exposed, by their frontier position, and the Senecas and Minquaas were now waging a bloody war. Efforts were, therefore, made to put Fort Orange in a thorough state of defence,¹ and ancient treaties were renewed with the neighboring tribes; but so great was the alarm that the out-settlers fled for protection to the fort called Cralo, erected on the Patroon's farm at Greenbush, where they held, night and day, regular watch and ward. In this panic the country was abandoned or miles around. "Nothing," says Jeremias van Rensselaer in one of his letters, "is talked of but war, for no one can distinguish friend from foe."—O'Callaghan's Hist. New Netherland.

THE FUYCK —The earliest name of the hamlet which was gathered on the site of the city of Albany, is called in the Rensselaerswyck manuscripts, The Fuyck, or Beversfuyck, which signifies a hoop-net, and takes its name from the formation of the shore of the river. The earliest mention I have met, says Dr. O'Callaghan, of Beverswyck or Beverwyck, as the name is indifferently written, was in a minute, dated 1634, the original of which was on a small, almost illegible scrap of paper which I found accidentally among the above manuscripts. That the Dutch continued to call Albany the Fuyck, long after the surrender of the country to the English, is evident from letters among the Rensselaerswyck manuscripts. "De huysen in de Fuyck" is an expression in one of S. van Cortlandt's letters, dated N. York, 20th April, 1681, as well as in several others of an anterior date.

In Dankers and Sluyter's Journal, published by the Long Island Historical Society, it is said that Albany "was formerly named the Fuyck on account of two rows of houses standing there opposite to each other; which being wide enough apart at the beginning finally ran quite together like a fuyck."¹ There is now no conformation of any street that would answer to this description but Broadway between State and Steuben streets.

on a carriage. The village of Beverwyck was enclosed by a board fence, which was defended by three pieces of artillery loaned by Mr. Van Rensselaer in 1656, and placed on the church. Alb. Rec. VI, 388, 415, 416.

FORM OF OATH TO THE PATROON.

The following is the form of oath of allegiance to the patroon and co-directors, taken by the colonists. It is from a manuscript found by Dr. O'Callaghan among the papers in the patroon's office, and translated by him for his History of New Netherland.

"I, N. N., promise and swear that I shall be true and faithful to the noble Patroon and Co-directors, or those who represent them here, and to the Hon'ble Director, Commissioners and Council, subjecting myself to the Court of the Colonie; and I promise to demean myself as a good and faithful inhabitant or Burgher, without exciting any opposition, tumult or noise; but on the contrary, as a loyal Inhabitant, to maintain and support offensively and defensively, against every one, the Right and Jurisdiction of the Colonie. And with reverence and fear of the Lord, and uplifting of both the first fingers of the right hand, I say—So Truly help me God almighty."

This date, 15th July, 1649, hath Steven Jansen carpenter taken the Oath of allegiance from the hands of the Honorable Director before the commissioners of the colonie. Witness, A. de Hooges, Secretary.

23d Nov., 1651. Resolved, that all Householders and Freemen of this Colonie shall appear on the 28th day of November of this year, being Tuesday, at the house of the Honorable Director, and there take the Burgerlyke oath of Allegiance.

The following persons have taken the oath at the appointed time, according to the foregoing formulary:—Mon'r Arendt van Curler, Mons'r Johan Baptist van Rensselaer, Pieter Hartgers, Jan Verbeeck, Sander Leendertsz, (Glen,) Gysbert Cornelisz. van Weesp, Willem Fredericksz, Jan Michelz, Rutger Jacobszen, Goosen Gerritz, Andries Herbertsz, Cornelis Cornelisz. ham Pietersz. Vosburg, Thomas Jansz, Everardus Sansz, Adriaen Pietersz. van Alkmaer, Jochim Wessels Backer, Jacob Luyersz, Thomas Sandersz Smith, Evert Pels, — Hendricksz. Verbeeck, [One name defaced here,] — Van Es, Hendrick Westercamp, Thomas Keuningh, Cornelis Segersz, Cornelis Cornelisz. van Voorhout, Jan Ryersz, Jan Helms, Aert Jacobsz, Guysbert Cornelisz. aende Berg, Evert Jansen Kleermaker, Dirck Jansen Croon, Jacob Simmons Klomp, Volcker Jansz. 21st May, 1653.— O' Call. Hist. N. Neth., II, 176.

GAME.—The creeks running through the settlements, as well as the river in front, abounded with fish; the woods with deer and other game. Pike and sturgeon were caught in the Fourth, or Fox creek, and one of the latter could be bought for a knife. "The year before I came here," (1641), writes the Rev. Mr. Megapolensis, "there were so many turkeys and deer that they came to the house and hogpens to feed, and were taken by the Indians with so little trouble, that a deer was sold to the Dutch for a loaf of bread, or a knife, or even a tobacco pipe."—*Hist. NOTES FROM THE NEWSPAPERS.

The events given below are gathered almost entirely from the newspapers. The locations of some of the principal business men are given, who were in active life at the close of the revolutionaiy war.

1771. The first printing office in Albany, respecting which any information can now be gathered, was established in the latter part of this year, by Alexander & James Robertson, who came up from New York for that purpose. Hence Albany was the second place in the state of New York, into which the art of printing was introduced.

The charter of the city was printed this year in the city of New York, by Hugh Gainé, on a demy sheet, in quarto form, of which a copy is preserved in the chamberlain's office.

The Albany Gazette, the first newspaper printed in this city, was commenced in November, by the Robertsons. It was printed on a sheet less than a quarter the size of the largest daily papers now printed here. It is not known when this paper was discontinued, but its publication is supposed to have ended at the breaking out of the revolutionary war, as the publishers are known to have joined the royalists in New York in 1776. A few copies of the paper are preserved in the Albany Institute, which were presented to that institution by Rensselaer Westerlo, Esq. The volume containing the charter just alluded to, contains also a collection of the city ordinances, printed to match, by the Robertsons, in 1773.

1772. Jan. 13. The printers of the Gazette, "from motives of gratitude and duty, are obliged to apologize to the public for the omission of one week's publication; and hope that the irregularity of the mail from New York since the first great fall of snow, and the severe cold preceding Christmas, which froze the paper prepared for the press, so as to put a stop to its operation, will sufficiently account for it."

March. A lottery was advertised to be drawn for the benefit of the Reformed German Church in Albany. (See Annals, vol. I, p. 128.)

Among the advertisers in the Gazette is the firm of James Gourlay & Co., "in Cheapside street, next door to the King's Arms." Cheapside street is now Green street, and the Kings Arms tavern was on the north-west corner of Green and Beaver streets, adjoining what was well known in the first quarter of this century as the Old Stone House. On the breaking out of the war of the revolution, the sign, which bore the device of the king's arms, was forced off by a party, one night, and burnt in State street.

A noted merchant of the day, Thomas Barry, "near the Dutch Church," also enumerates his stock, occupying nearly a column of the paper with a catalogue of goods with names which sound quite odd at this day; for instance, "none-so-pretty of various colors, and black breeches patterns."

July 20. The governor of the province, Gen. Tryon, visited the city, on which occasion the corporation gave a public dinner at Cartwright's Tavern (vol. I, 290).

A meteorological table appeared in the Gazette occasionally.

A book store was kept by Stuart Wilson, an Irishman, at the elm tree corner of State and Pearl streets, in a Dutch house which was afterwards converted into the Blue Belle tavern, the last keeper of which was the late Spencer Stafford's father.

1779. Captain Machin was engaged in taking a water level between Albany and Schenectady, with a view to the supply of this city with water by means of an aqueduct. He submitted a plan to the common council, with drawings to show the manner in which an aqueduct and reservoir should be constructed, as we learn by a notice of the same at a later day.

1782. May. Messrs. Solomon Balentine and Charles R. Webster published the first number of the New York Gazetteer or Northern Intelligencer. The office file of this paper was destroyed by the great fire of 1793, and the only copies of it which are known to exist, are in the Albany Institute.

Sept. 30. A meeting of the creditors of the United States in the state of New York, was held at the City Hall in Albany, Philip Schuyler chairman; the object of which was to lay their claims before the public, in an address, and to suggest a general convention of deputies from the public creditors of the states composing the union, to devise ways and means of payment. (See vol. I, p. 282.)

1783. The Gazette was enlarged and Mr. Webster withdrew from it, and removed to New York. The paper was continued by Mr. Balentine alone. Its publication is supposed to have ceased in May, 1784.

Mr. Balentine published a Pocket Almanac, for the year 1784, which is the first work of the kind that is known to have been issued in this city. A copy of it is preserved in the State Library.

Lord Sterling died in Albany and was buried under the Dutch church (?). An eulogium was written by John Lovett upon his character, and published.¹

1784. May 28. Charles R. Webster, of the late firm of Balentine & Webster, published the first number of a new paper, entitled The Albany Gazette, of which the State Library contains the office file down to the time of its discontinuance in 1845, when it was the oldest paper in the state, being in its seventy-second year.

At this time the post office not only served for the city and adjoining towns, but the lists of letters advertised contain the names of persons in Orange and Dutchess counties, Cherry Valley, and Vermont.

Robison & Hale, dealers in European and East India goods, occupied the "north corner opposite the Dutch Church," now the site of the Museum Building, which was long known as Robison's corner. Maj. Hale is believed to have been an officer of the revolution, and a much respected citizen; but did not, like his partner, acquire wealth.

Jacob Van Schaick, "in Water street near the Middle dock," publishes a long catalogue of articles under exceedingly quaint titles.

Henry, McClallen & Henry, "next door north of the City Hall," which was the site of Commercial Building,

Dr. Samuel Stringer, "a little to the north of the Market House," gave notice that he had just imported from Europe a general assortment of medicines, which he would "dispose of at the New York advance," by wholesale or retail at his Medicinal Store. The Market House was opposite Stanwix Hall in the centre of the street, and Dr. Stringer's store was opposite Bleecker Hall.

John McClintock advertised that he would open a school on the 14th June "in a lower apartment of that house in which the printing office is at present held." This is believed to have been on the south-west corner of Maiden lane and James street.

Peter Van Ness was chosen senator.

John Blake advertised the usual variety of goods for sale at Archibald Campbell's store opposite Hugh Denniston's. He soon after took a store "opposite the east end of the Dutch Church."

Balch & Fryer opened a shop near the north gate, for the purpose of carrying on the gold and silversmith's business. The north gate at this time is believed to have been a little above Columbia street in Broadway.

June. Gen. Schuyler was appointed by congress one of the commissioners for treating with the Indians.

Roseboom & Co. sold all kinds of nails near the English Church.

July 4. The anniversary of our independence was celebrated; in the morning thirteen guns "were fired from Fort Orange," and in the evening the city was illuminated.

July 22. The governor of the state, and the Dutch ambassador, Haere P. J. On the following day the corporation gave their guests an elegant entertainment at Lewis's Tavern.

July 23. Capt. John Fryer, "a worthy citizen," died, aged 64, and was interred in the Dutch Church yard on the following day.

Henry Hart had "a neat assortment of Dry and West India Goods at his store between the Low Dutch Church and Market House."

Aug. The firm of James & Vail was dissolved, and Thomas V. James assumed the business "at the store in the street opposite the City Hall dock," or leading from the dock, which is now Hudson street.

Aug. Gov. Clinton left Albany to attend the Indian treaty to be held at Fort Schuyler, where the chiefs had already begun to assemble.

Sept. 8. Nicholas Barrington opened a school at the house opposite to Mr. Burgess's, "money being very scarce, at the low prices of 10, 12 and 14s. per quarter, for spellers, writers and Seypherers, and three pounds for bookkeeping and navigation."

I. Hutton, "minister of the gospel in Albany," proposed to print by subscription at 1s. each, a sermon entitled Weak Faith Strengthened. Those who subscribed for twelve were to "have a thirteenth gratis." The work was issued in January, 1785.

Sept. 9. "Departed this life, at Nisqueunia, Sept. 7, Mrs. Lee, known by the appellation of the Elect Lady, or Mother of Zion, and head of that people called Shakers. Her funeral is to be attended this day."

John W. Wendell, a few doors south of the City Hall, manufactured all kinds of beveret, castor and felt hats, on better terms than the importers can admit of. He was a Bostonian.

Thomas Sickels sold European and India goods on the south side of the street that leads from the Dutch to the English Church (State street).

Oct. 21. The executors of Mrs. Margaret Schuyler, deceased, offered "a likely negro wench" for sale by auction at Lewis's Tavern.

Sept. 13. The governor and the commissioners of Indian affairs for the state with a number of the citizens of Albany, returned from Fort Schuyler, where a treaty had been concluded with the Six Nations and other Indians residing in this state.

John Carey, offered at the store of Cornelise K. Vandenberg, "at the elm tree in the street leading from the Dutch to the English Church," a quantity of goods which are represented as just imported from Ireland.

Sept. 18. On this evening and the following (Sunday) morning, Oliver Wolcott, Arthur Lee, and Richard Butler, United States commissioners for Indian affairs, arrived in the city, on their way to Fort Stanwix, to meet the Six Nations. They gave notice that in order to avoid the ill consequences and hindrance to public business which would naturally arise from the sale of spirituous liquors they would be wholly prohibited until the treaty closed. The Marquis Lafayette was daily expected to accompany them.

George Reab, at his store in the house of Abraham Douw, near the south-west corner of the Market, offered an assortment of Dry and West India Goods, adapted to the season, in exchange for which he would take cash, R. Morris and M. Hillegas's notes, new emission money, all sorts of public securities; also flax seed, wheat, and all kinds of country produce.

Saturday, Sept. 25, the United States commissioners to treat with the Indians, having remained one week in Albany, set out for Fort Schuyler. The goods intended for the treaty left on Tuesday following, and Gen. Lafayette followed about the 1st of October.

Cornelius & John H. Wendell, opposite the post office, near the Market house, imported goods "from London." The post office was a few doors above Maiden lane, on the east side of Market street, now Broadway. The post office at this time is believed to have been kept by Abraham Yates, afterwards mayor.

Cuyler, Gansevoort & Co. "received by the last vessels from London" an assortment of dry goods suitable for the season; and presented besides a catalogue of other goods, which, like most of the advertisements of the day, began with rum and ended with brass kettles. The stock of an Albany merchant was truly multifarious.

Peter D. Van Dyck dealt in a general assortment of goods opposite the south-east corner of the Dutch Church.

Benjamin Wallace had "a neat assortment of West India and dry goods at his shop a little north of the English Church."

James Doig, from Montreal, proposed to open a day and evening school, at Mr. John Hooghkerk's corner house, opposite to Thomas Barrett, cooper, near the Presbyterian Meeting House. This is supposed to have been at the corner of Hudson and Grand streets.

Wendell & Trotter carried on business principally in dry goods, opposite the south-east corner of the City Hall.

William Gray dealt in dry goods and a general assortment, between the Dutch Church and the Market House, near the City Hotel.

Elbert Willett occupied the house now standing next south of the Mansion House, which he sold to Mr David Newland, for $11,000.

Dec. 21. A detachment of troops from Fort Stanwix, under Capt. Lane, arrived in the city to remain during the winter, bringing with them a number of captives which had been liberated according to the terms of the treaty recently concluded with the Indians.

Dec. 30. Dr. Alexander Edgar, a surgeon's mate in the army, died and was buried in the Presbyterian burial-place.

Mr. Paffane, lately arrived from France, carried on "the muff and tippet making business, in the neatest manner," at the house of Hanse Horne, near the north gate.

Teunis Ts. Van Vechten advertises Turks Island and rock salt, "living near the south-west corner of the Market House." His house was the south-west corner of Broadway and Maiden lane.

John Hinde offered a large invoice of cloths, at the house of Mr. Hewson, adjoining the Low Dutch burying ground.

David Fonda, "next door to Gen. Ten Broek," kept dry goods, groceries and liquors for sale.

John Bogart, next door south of the City Hall, sold mill stones.

Abraham Eights, next door to Capt. Stewart Dean, in Water street, sold Muscovado sugar by the barrel, and had "a few excellent English wind-mills, for cleaning wheat."

Anthony Helmer, at his store in the house of Harmanus Wendell, opposite to Gen. Ten Broek's, sold groceries, German steel, "and a variety of other articles too tedious to be mentioned."

Jacob Vander Heyden, in Pearl street, kept on sale, Dutch mill saws, groceries, and dry goods.

Abraham Bloodgood did business next to Denniston's tavern, probably in the Stone House.

1785. The health of the city was very remarkable during the winter, insomuch that but one burial took place in the Dutch Church-yard, from the 9th December to the 10th March, and that was of a small child accidentally run over by a sleigh.

March 21. A person was arrested for passing counterfeit state treasury notes, and lodged in the City Hall prison, to await a trial.

April 20. Abraham Roseboom, a very respectable citizen, died.

April 26. The annual election of two senators and ten representatives to the state legislature, for the county of Albany, resulted in the following vote.

For the House of Assembly.

Ivie Chambers, "at his store near the Low Dutch church, on the west side of the main street," sold the usual articles of a general store, principally liquors.

The session of the supreme court closed, when Petrus and Christian Cooper being convicted of a robbery, and Christian Loucks of horse stealing, received sentence of death respectively. Two others, convicted of felony, were admitted to benefit of clergy. One was whipped for petit larceny, and two discharged by proclamation.

May 3. An election of city officers took place, which resulted in the choice of the following:

First Ward.—Robert McClallen, supervisor; Peter Van Bergen, Bethuel Washburn, Edward Cumpton, assessors; Marte Minderse, overseer of the poor; Abraham T. Yates, Thomas Barrett, road masters.

Second Ward.—Jacob Cuyler, supervisor; Jacob Vander Heyden, Casparus Pruyn, Richard Lush, assessors; John N. Bleecker, overseer of the poor; Jacob Bleecker, John Marselis, road masters.

Third Ward.—Cornelius Wendell, supervisor; Peter Gansevoort, Jun., Abraham A. Lansing, David Fonda, assessors; Isaac Van Arnum, overseer of the poor; Sanders Lansing, Volkert A. Douw, road masters; Baltus Van Benthuysen, collector for the city.

Elihu Goodrich and John Ely opened a school "in the house occupied by Michael Hollenbake," who had "left keeping tavern." They taught Greek and Latin for 40s. a quarter; grammar, arithmetic and writing for 30s.; reading and spelling for 20s. The hours of study were from 6 to 8, and 9 to 12, in the forenoon; and from 2 to 5, and 6 to 8, in the afternoon. This to the magisters of our day, may appear to have been a pretty thorough drilling of "the young idea."

Alexander Laverty, "tayler from London," took the house lately occupied by Henry Hart, in the back apartment, where he carried on the "tayler's business as cheap as any in town," and made payments easy to those who employed him. His prices were: for a coat 14s.; lappelled do, 16s.; lappelled do, with slashed sleeves, 18s.; vest and breeches, 6s. 9d.

Elisha Crane, opposite the City Hall, sold cyder at 18s. a barrel, and took boards, plank, staves, pease and any sort of grain in payment. In a nota bene the public is informed that money would not be refused.

June. A company of stage wagon proprietors undertook to make the land passage between New York and Albany "the most easy and agreeable as well as the most expeditious," by performing the journey in two days, at 3d. a mile; but in the fall, "for the ease of the passengers," the time of performing the route was changed to three days, and the price raised to 4d. a mile, "agreeably to act of assembly."

July 12. An ordinance was passed by the common council for the extermination of dogs, all of whom were to be killed in two days, under penalty of £8, which was to be recovered for the benefit of any person prosecuting.

Nov. 8. The presbytery of New York ordained John McDonald a minister of the gospel, and he was at the same time installed pastor of the Presbyterian Church in Albany. He was the third pastor of that church, and it was during his ministry that the edifice was erected for that congregation on the corner of South Pearl and Beaver streets, the site of Beaver Block.

Dec. 13. A company of comedians having leased the old hospital, which stood near the present site of the Lutheran Church, and having fitted it up as a theatre, opened with Cross Purposes and Catharine and Petruchio, between which was a dance, La Polonoise, and a Eulogy on Freemasonry. Tickets sold at Lewis's tavern, and no money taken at the door. Boxes 8s.; gallery 4s.

A vigorous effort was made to discontinue these performances, by a large and respectable part of community, but the common council determined by a vote of 9 to 4, that they had no legal right to prohibit theatrical exhibitions in the city. A whole number of the Gazette is taken up with the controversy, to the exclusion of every other subject.

1785. January. By the post office arrangements of this year, the New York mail arrived twice a week, Wednesdays and Saturdays, at 8 o'clock P.M.; and two hours after its receipt, the down mail was made up and forwarded.

July 13. The Gazette was enlarged to a sheet 19 inches by 23, which we learn was the largest size then printed in America. In the same paper is announced the first part of the Grammatical Institute, abridged, by Noah Webster, price 6 coppers, this day printed.

The sloop Experiment, 80 tons burden, was fitted out at this port by Capt. Stewart Dean, and sailed for China. (See Annals, I).

1786. April 4. An act passed the legislature of the state of New York, for erecting the south-east part of the county of Albany into a new county, by the name of Columbia.

July 5. The supreme court closed its July session, when Caleb Gardner, convicted of passing counterfeit Spanish dollars, received sentence of death. Two weeks afterwards, the sheriff advertised that the person then under sentence of death in the City Hall would be hanged on Friday the fifteenth of September; and that any person willing to undertake the execution, was desired to apply to the said sheriff.

July 22. The corporation and citizens of Albany celebrated the centennial anniversary of the charter of the city (See vol. I, 335).

The number of houses in Albany at this time was found, by actual enumeration, to be 550. A statement of the number of houses in the principal cities and towns at this time, will serve to show their relative proportions:

Philadelphia,	4,600	Wilmington,	400
New York,	3,500	Annapolis,	260
Boston,	2,100	Fredericktown,	400
Baltimore,	1,900	Alexandria (Va.),	300
Charleston (S. C.),	1,540	Richmond,	280
Albany,	550	Petersburgh,	290
New Haven,	400	Williamsburgh,	230
Hartford,	300

It will be seen that Albany was the sixth in point of numbers. The census of Boston was found to be at that time 14,640, exclusive of strangers, which gives seven persons to a house. At this rate Albany would have had 3,850 inhabitants. To carry out the calculation, Philadelphia would have contained 32,200, New York 24,500, Baltimore 13,300, Charleston 10,780. The number of strangers might have increased the estimate one-eighth.

1787. Jan. 1. The city authorities fixed the price of flour at 18s. per hundred weight and the assize of bread at the rate of 1lb. 12oz. for 4 coppers. In February, the assize of bread was 1lb. 8oz. of superfine flour for 4 coppers, and 1lb. 10oz. common; flour, 20s. per cwt.

The population of the state at this time was 220,000 whites, 18,889 slaves, and 12 Indians who paid taxes. In 1756, the whole population was 83,233; in 1771, 148,124.

A nail manufactory was established in "Orange street, near the High Dutch Church," by Garret Witbeck, who manufactured 8s. and 10s. at 1s. per lb., and 20s. and 24s. at 11d. per lb. He claimed that they were fully equal in goodness to any imported, and hinted at the great importance of encouraging such an establishment in this country. The forging of nails, notwithstanding their prodigious consumption in this country, was, until 1810, a handicraft trade: the machinery by which they are now produced is an American invention. In the same year, Stevenson, Douw & Ten Eyck erected a similar establishment.

A correspondent of a New York paper, Dec., 1785, observed that the infatuation which possessed many of the people of this state for theatrical exhibitions was truly alarming. That, strange to tell, the honest, sober Dutchmen of Albany, who were once distinguished by industry and a laudable parsimony, were now plunging into that very species of luxury and folly, which stamps upon the metropolis an indelible stigma. That it was still more observable and wonderful to relate that even the fathers of that ancient city had sanctioned the establishment of a public theatre, by granting their permission to players. That in justice to the magistrates of New York, it was necessary to say, that though it was not in their power to prohibit, they had never extended their authority so far as to license the opening of the theatre ; and if common fame could be credited, none of them had countenanced the comedians by attending their exhibitions.

April 22. The sloop Experiment, Capt. Dean, returned from a voyage to China, without the loss of a man during the voyage. (See Annals, i, 261, 2d edition).

June 28. A regiment of militia was organized in the eastern part of the manor of Rensselaerswyck, under the command of Lieut. Col. John Van Rensselaer. The officers took the oath of allegiance and office before Matthew Visscher, clerk of the county of Albany : after which the regiment was formed, and the militia law and the officers' commissions were read by Adjutant Henry. At the same time two companies of light infantry were formed, the volunteers being so numerous as nearly to fill them in a short time. The uniform of these companies is thus described : The commissioned officers, dark blue coats, faced with white, and white under clothes ; non-commissioned officers and privates, a white linen hunting-shirt and overalls, a round hat three inches in the brim, bound with white tape, and covered with a piece of bearskin four inches wide over the crown ; a good musket, bayonet and cartouch box, twenty-four cartridges suitable to the bore of the musket, two spare flints, one knapsack and blanket. .

Rev. John Bassett was ordained pastor of the Dutch Reformed Church, collegiate with the Rev. Dr. Eilardus Westerlo.

August. The trustees of the Lutheran Church, recently erected, acknowledged the receipt of donations to the amount of £552 12s. 2d. more than £214 of which was obtained in Albany and its vicinity. The total cost of the building was £640. (See vol. i, p. 154, 2d ed.).

1788. January, Leonard de Neufville¹ Jan Heefke and Ferdinand Walfahrt, proprietors of the Dowsborough Glass manufactory, ten miles from Albany, appeal to the patriotism of the state of New York to sustain their establishment. They say the state is annually drained of £30,000 for this necessary article which they can manufacture of any size superior to the English glass.

The delegates nominated by the two parties for the convention to decide on the federal constitution, were the following: Abraham Ten Broeck, Jacob Cuyler, Francis Nicoll, Jeronemus Hoogland, Peter Gansevoort junior, James Gordon, John W. Schermerhoorn, Federal; Robert Yates, John Lansing junior, Henry Oothoudt, Peter Vrooman, Israel Thompson, Anthony Ten Eyck, Dirk Swart, Anti-federal.

Jan. 26. Charles R. and George Webster and Co., published a quarto paper, called the Albany Journal, or Montgomery, Washington and Columbia Intelligencer, which was published twice a week during the session of the legislature.

Feb. 11. Claxton and Babcock, lately from Lansingburgh, published The Federal Herald. They returned to Lansingburgh the same year.

March 11. A law was passed by the legislature, authorizing the corporation to raise £2000 for the construction of a new jail (the old one being found inadequate to the safe custody of prisoners), and repairing the court-house. Clinton county was taken from Albany county at this session of the legislature.

May 27. The election of members of assembly terminated in the success of the anti-federal party, and seems to have been the first party struggle growing out of the dissension on the question of the constitution. The vote of the two parties in the county of Albany, as canvassed on this day by the supervisors, stood as follows. John Younglove seems to have had the votes of both parties.

The Albany Register was begun this year, by Robert Barber.

The impolicy of imprisonment for debt is aptly illustrated in the following case, where a rich and popular citizen incarcerates a humble artisan for his inability to liquidate his rent, who thereby becomes a charge upon the county, and a defaulter to all the rest of his creditors.

“Whereas the subscriber (a master of shoemaking) is now confined in the City Hall, upper loft, for twenty pounds back rent which he is owing Gen. Schuyler; and as he is desirous of working for his living, and not to be chargeable to the good people of this city, he therefore humbly requests such of the citizens and others as are desirous of having well made shoes on the most reasonable terms, to favor him with their custom, and they may depend on being served on the shortest notice, and every favor shall be thankfully acknowledged by the public's humble servant, THADDEUS LAWRENCE.”

Aug. 8. The city of Albany, not to be behind her sister cities, set apart a day for public rejoicings, to celebrate the ratification of the constitution of the United States by the convention of the state of New York. Every trade and profession seems to have united in the jubilee, with appropriate emblems, and formed a truly imposing procession under the conduct of Gen. Schuyler. (See vol. I, 330).

November. The citizens were entertained with the extraordinary sight of an “uncommon bird,” killed at Saratoga, and sent down as a rarity. “The distance from the tip of one wing to the other, when both were extended, was nine feet two inches; the mouth was large enough to contain the head of a boy ten years of age, and the throat so capacious as to admit the foot and leg of a man, boot and all.” No one could decide what species the stranger belonged to, till the counsel of Dr. Mitchell of New York being called in, it was decided to be a pelican; perhaps the only one that ever extended his discoveries to this region.

Peter Van Deusen and Jacob Van de Bilt established for the convenience of the citizens, a soap and candle factory, which useful branch of business, they say in their advertisement, had been long wanted in the city. To induce the citizens to encourage these domestic manufactures, they offer their articles at New York prices, thus making a saving of freight and cartage; and further to promote economy, manufactured for those who provided their own tallow, at $2\frac{1}{2}$ pence per pound, and furnish the cotton wick themselves.

1789. Jan. 1. The thermometer at noon indicated 18° above zero; and on the following morning, at six o'clock, it was 24° below, being six degrees colder than it had ever been known in the city.

Jan. 5. The freeholders of Vanderheyden's or Ashley's Ferry, situate on the east bank of the Hudson river, about seven miles above Albany, met for the purpose of establishing a name for the place; when, by a majority of voices, it was confirmed that in future it should be called and known by the name of Troy. From its important state, and natural advantages, it was anticipated "at no very distant period to see Troy as famous for her trade and navigation as many of our first towns." The journals of the legislature for the session of 1789 were printed by S. and J. Loudon, at the house of Mr. Thomas McMurry, in Barrack, (now Chapel) street, they being printers to the state.

May. The Albany Gazette, on entering upon its sixth volume, began to be published twice a week. The following is given in the Register, as a particular statement of the votes of the several towns in Albany county for governor. The election was opened on the 28th April, for governor, lieutenant governor, senators and assemblymen.

The returns were very imperfectly given by the papers, the adjoining counties being seldom reported, and never accurately. The polls were closed in the city, we are told in the middle of the week; but in the east and west districts of the manor of Rensselaerwyck, ballots continued to be received until Saturday afternoon. The election of Governor Clinton was carried by the heavy majority from Ulster county, which gave him 1039 out of 1145.

July 6. The legislature met at Albany. The message of Gov. Clinton, at the opening of the session, occupied thirty-two lines in the newspapers.

On the first of June, the thermometer stood at 40°; on the 30th, at 80; on the 14th July, at 56; on the 24th, at 84; on the 12th August, at 80; on the 30th, at 47; these being the highest and lowest ranges for those months.

At the July term of the supreme court, held in Albany, Elihu Smeeds of Pittstown in the county of Albany, indicted for the murder of Ezekiel Mitchell, and convicted of manslaughter, was adjudged to receive thirty-nine lashes, at the public whipping post, and be imprisoned three calendar months. Six others, convicted of stealing, were condemned to receive thirty-nine lashes each; while about the same time, Francis Uss, convicted of breaking open and robbing a store in Poughkeepsie, was publicly hanged.

There was a scarcity of breadstuffs this year, throughout the country, and complaints were made of monopolizers. Flour sold at New Orleans for twelve dollars a barrel. Complaints were frequent of the scarcity of provisions in the western part of the state, on account of the flood of immigrants. In the vicinity of Niagara, it was difficult to subsist the new comers. A letter from "Cooper's Town, Otsego Lake," May 7, says: "The vast multitude of people that come daily to this country have caused a scarcity of provisions almost to a famine. In the Genesee it is quite so. Corn will bring ten shillings in cash, and six shillings at Albany; and it is said potatoes at Niagara are twenty shillings. However alarming this may be, it proceeds from no other cause than that of an innumerable quantity of people flocking in. I have had thirty in a day seeking land of me."

Nov. 3. A snowstorm commenced at ten in the morning, and continued during the day; and the weather was remarkably cold, having every appearance of winter: a circumstance not before recollected by any of the inhabitants at so early a period.

The amount of receipts and disbursements of the city of Albany for the first six years succeeding the revolution, was as follows:

		Received.				Disbursed.
1783-4	£625	7s.	5d.	£589	11s.	3d.
1784-5	277	6	1	334	13	9
1785-6	476	17	8	482	6	2
1786-7	2392	10	10	2465	10	2
1787-8	1421	5	11	1348	14	4
1788-9	547	7	9	443	10	11

1790. January. It was deemed "indispensably necessary" by Mr. Cornelius J. Wynkoop, that there should be in the city "an auctioneer and vendue master for dry goods, household furniture, &c." Whereupon he opened at No. 8 Market street, "a licensed auction office.".....De Hart & Kinney received the postage for carrying the mail between New York and Albany.

Feb. 1. The legislature granted Ananias Platt the exclusive right of running a stage between Albany and Lansingburgh.

April 2. The legislature passed an act for the improvement of the navigation of the overslaugh, by allowing the proprietors of Mills and Papskni islands to erect a dam to prevent the passage of the water between them, and throw it into the main channel. This, it was thought, would more effectually benefit the navigation, than the employment of "an unwieldy machine, which at best only affords a temporary relief."

The prisoners confined for debt in the city hall, which was the jail, celebrated the 5th July (the 4th being Sunday). There was an allusion to the fifteenth year of American independence, and their confinement for debt. Their fifth toast was: May the time come when no honest man shall be confined for debt." The time did arrive, in less than half a century, when dishonest men even were seldom confined for debt.

October. The mail stage between Albany and New York, which seems to have been suspended, was announced to commence running twice a week as formerly.....The synod of New York and New Jersey erected a new presbytery in the northern part of this state, under the name of The Presbytery of Albany; to which they committed the care of all the congregations in this state in connection with them, which lie north of the Catskill mountains on the west side, and of the southern boundary of Columbia county on the east side of Hudson's river. It was appointed to meet for the first time on the ninth November, in the city of Albany; and to be opened with a sermon by Rev. William Schenck, the senior pastor. In the absence of Mr. Schenck, Rev. John Warford of Salem preached from Luke xiv, 23. Rev. John McDonald of Albany was appointed stated clerk.....There were but two mails which reached the city of Albany at this time; one from New York, and the other from Springfield, Mass. (See vol. I, p. 56)The revenue of the city for six months preceding the twelfth October, was £918 16s. 10½*d.*; the expenditures, £728 9s. 7*d.* Among the expenditures is an item of £3 10s. paid constables for patrolling the streets on Sundays. £24 2s. 4*d.* was received of P. S. Van Rensselaer, for ground in Barrack (Berg,¹ now Chapel) street.

December. The state of the weather is thus given for a part of this month:

8th. Thermometer indicated 4 degrees below 0. 9th. 10 deg. below 0; the barometer higher than had been observed in four years, and the weather colder for the season than had ever been known in the city. 17th. 2° below 0. 18th. 8° below 0. 19. 16° below 0. 20th. 20° above 0. 22d. 0. 28th. 4° below 0. 30th. 3° below 0. 31st. 8° below 0. Jan. 2d. 10° below 0.

¹This being the most westerly and highest street, was called Berg street, that is hill street, which in time came to be written by the English, Barrack street, from the Dutch pronunciation bar-rg, as though it were two syllables. Thus the Helderberg, was pronounced Helder-bar-rag, and is often written by unlettered Americans, Hallebarrack.

LANCASTERIAN SCHOOL.

In the year 1810, the common council had under consideration the project of establishing a free school, on the plan of Joseph Lancaster. As yet there were no public schools in the city. The Mechanics' Society had, a number of years previous, erected a building on the corner of Chapel and Columbia streets, and maintained a school, which was not altogether confined in its privileges to the children of its own members. On the 26th May, 1812, the legislature passed a law incorporating the Albany Lancasterian School Society, which had then been some time in operation. The petition stated that Philip S. Van Rensselaer, John Lansing junior, Simeon De Witt, and others, had associated themselves for the laudable purpose of establishing a school in the city of Albany, for the diffusion of common education; and presented a petition to the legislature, setting forth the benefits that would result to society from such an institution, by implanting in the minds of children the principles of religion and morality, and by assisting their parents in providing suitable situations for them, where habits of industry and virtue may be acquired; and that it would enable them more effectually to accomplish the benevolent objects of their institution, if their association was incorporated. The trustees named in the law to serve the first year, were Philip S. Van Rensselaer, Simeon De Witt, Stephen Van Rensselaer, Elisha Jenkins, Archibald M'Intyre, John M. Bradford, William Neill, Timothy Clowes, John Mac Jimpsey, John Lansing junior, James Kent, John V. Henry and Charles R. Webster. The members of the common council were made members of the society by virtue of their office; and any person contributing twenty-five dollars to its benefit, was entitled to send one child to be educated gratuitously. The school was conducted in the upper part of the building of the Mechanics' Society, until the completion of the school-house on Eagle street in 1817. Mr. William A. Tweed Dale was appointed preceptor. His report of the business of the year 1814, was as follows:

Salary of the teacher,.....	$700.00
Rent of school room,.....	82.50
Fitting up Pettibone stoves, and ventilating, ..	91.00
Incidental expenses,.....	331.03
	$1204.53

The income of the society arose from the following sources:

Allowance by the corporation out of the excise receipts,	$500.00
School fund appropriation,.....	487.66
Tuition fees from scholars,.....	400.00
	$1387.66

The number of scholars instructed during the year was 400, half of whom were new pupils, or such as had not previously attended the school.

On Monday, April 5, 1817, the ceremony took place of opening the new school house, the building now occupied by the Medical College and Law School, of which the woodcut on the preceding page is a correct representation, the wing having been added since the school was abandoned. The house was built by order of the common council, at an expense of $23,918.93. It was capable of accommodating 450 children, and a large infant school; and afforded a residence for the principal. A procession, consisting of the trustees, principal, and four hundred scholars, formed at the house of the president of the society, Philip S. Van Rensselaer, corner of State and Chapel streets, and moved to the Capitol, where it was met by the governor of the state, mayor and recorder of the city, and the clergy and citizens; whence it moved to the school house. There the exercises consisted of a prayer by Rev. Mr. Bradford, an address by Dr. T. R. Beck, and prayer and benediction by Rev. Mr. De Witt. From the address we learn that during the six years the school had been in operation, 1149 scholars had been educated in it. The institution was designed to gather in the poor and neglected children of the city, who were growing up in idleness and ignorance. Of the thousands who were educated within its walls, many doubtless owe a life of happiness and prosperity, in some instances of eminence, to the teachings there imparted. It continued in operation until about 1834, when it was abandoned. Mr. Tweed Dale, who superintended the school from its foundation till that time, a period of about twenty-three years, was now advanced in life. He was, before his arrival in this country, a pupil of both Dr. Bell and Mr. Lancaster, the rival claimants of the honor of having established the system. Incalculable benefits were rendered to the children of the poor in England and America, by the establishment of similar institutions, at a time when education was mostly confined to the higher classes.

This institution was superseded by the schools which went into operation in every part of the city, under the common school system of the state. The edifice was vacant for several years, when it was appropriated to the use of a medical college, of which an account is given in Collections Hist. Albany, II, 219.

In 1818, Mr. Lancaster visited Albany on his tour in the United States; the trustees of the Lancaster school presented him with the following address:

"Sir: The trustees of the Albany Lancaster school society, avail themselves of your unexpected appearance in this quarter of the world, to show you a young scion from that tree which you have planted, which is rapidly spreading its branches over every region, and imparting its blessed fruit to every nation. You, sir, have devised, matured, and brought into universal practice, a system of education, by which the knowledge of letters, science, morality and religion, can with comparatively little effort and expense be communicated to millions of juvenile minds, who by the ordinary established means of education would not have become partakers of its invaluable benefits. Accept, sir, this tribute of our respect, which we tender to you as one of those rare benefactors of mankind, whose services merit such peculiar public acknowledgments as cannot be withheld without incurring the justly deserved imputation of public ingratitude.

“SIMEON DE WITT,
“President.”

ANCIENT FUNERAL CUSTOM.

The following is copied from a memoir read by Judge Benson before the New York Historical Society in 1816:

A family in Albany, and from the earliest time, of the name of Wyngaard. The last in the male line, Lucas Wyngaard, died about sixty years ago, never married, and leaving estate: the invitation to his funeral very general. Those who attended, returned after the interment, as was the usage, to the house of the deceased at the close of the one day, and a number never left it until the dawn of the next. In the course of the night a pipe of wine, stored in the cellar for some years before for the occasion, drank; dozens of papers of tobacco consumed; grosses of pipes broken; scarce a whole decanter or glass left; and, to crown it all, the pall-bearers made a bonfire of their scarves on the hearth — bordering on barbarism! not to be denied. We are more temperate, wholly free from excess and riot — admitted.

THE DUTCH LANGUAGE.

Since the memorable era of Col. Dongan's administration, the descendants of the ancient families which peopled the manor of Rensselaerwyck and the city of Albany have not only suffered the decadence of the institutions and language of their fathers, but have, generally, sought to unlearn and forget every thing that was Dutch; and thus virtually contributed, in no small degree, to render their paternity a byeword. The ancient language of the city has been so wholly neglected, that, although spoken in some families, we know of no scion of the ancient stock who thinks it worth his while to cultivate it for literary purposes. Hence an impression prevails of the general stupidity of the people and the meagreness of the language. Nor is this impression in regard to the Dutch, notwithstanding the respectable figure they have made in the world for several centuries, confined to this country. It is not a little remarkable, says a British writer, that of a people whose national character runs in many respects parallel with ours; who have been animated by a similar spirit of industry, commercial enterprise and maritime ardor, even the language should be hardly at all known in this country, notwithstanding the study of it is calculated to throw so much light upon our own, which has not only the same common origin, but has immediately borrowed a great number of words and expressions from it. So far from meriting that contempt with which the insolence of ignorance has branded them, there are few nations which have contributed more towards the civilization of Europe, and to learning and science, than the people of the Netherlands. The country that has produced an Erasmus and a Grotius, a Swammerdam, a Leeuwenhoek, and a Boerhaave; that has done so much for the physical sciences, for medicine, jurisprudence, philology, classical and oriental literature; that can boast of such writers as a Vondel and a Bilderdijk; that has done so much for the cultivation of its language; that possesses so many literary societies and institutes, together with others for the encouragement of the fine arts, ought not to be stigmatized as one inhabited by a dull, plodding race of merchants.

One circumstance, which, if it has served to diffuse over Europe the labors of its learned men, has also merged their celebrity in that of continental literature generally, has been the practice of employing Latin; a circumstance which has rendered an acquaintance with the Dutch language unnecessary for the purpose of profitting by their studies or discoveries. Most probably, too, the universal celebrity of the Dutch scholars throughout the learned world has in no small degree tended to divert attention from, and excite a prejudice against the vernacular language and literature, as being rude and uncultivated, and unfitted for any nobler purpose than that of carrying on the intercourse of daily life. Yet so very far is this from being the case, that there is scarcely any modern tongue which either contains within itself more plastic elements, or which has been more carefully wrought up and polished; nor have any people paid greater attention to purity of style and elegance of diction, than the writers of Holland of late years. It can not be said that the difficulty of acquiring it has deterred us from attempting to form any acquaintance with the literature of this country; because, of all foreign idioms, it is that which bears the strongest family resemblance to our own; so much so, that flippant and ignorant travelers have sometimes described it as a sort of bastard English; which is just as correct as it would be for a Hollander to call English a bastard jargon of Dutch. Those who decide that the language in which Vondel wrote is a barbarous one, would be capable of pronouncing with equal effrontery that the language employed by Milton is altogether rude and unpolished. It certainly has its defects, but they are those of our own language, which sounds equally harsh to European ears, and is condemned as being clogged with consonants and abounding with monosyllables. At the same time it possesses far greater homogeneity, and, like the German, the power of combining out of its own elements and roots, that class of words which we borrow immediately from the Latin and the Greek; for instance, onnavolgbare, inimitable; vereeningen, to unite; veelomvattende, comprehensive, &c.: whereas we have only a very few of the kind, such as unchangeable, wherein the Saxon root is employed.

It is not pretended that the literature of the Dutch language contains so much to reward the student as that of Germany, but it certainly contains a very great deal, and much too that is equally or even more worthy of finding translators in this country than many of the productions which have come from Germany. There is a current of sound and healthy feeling in the literature of Holland; a devotional fervor, and a regard for the hallowing influences of domestic life; a beautiful simplicity; together with a nobleness and independence, pervading many of the poetical productions of that country.

But lest we should be thought to depart from our province in extending this subject here, we will conclude by referring to the Encyclopedia Americana, its article on the language, literature and poetry of the Netherlands, in the hope that it may have the effect to inspire more favorable opinions on this subject even among those who ought more highly to reverence the language and literature of their fatherland.

DUTCH NAMES FOR ALBANY AND VICINITY.

Albany was known by the several Dutch names of Beverwyck, Willemstadt, and Fort Orange, chiefly by the last.¹ It was also known as the Fuyck, or hoop-net; and a kil is mentioned as there, and known as the Fuyck kil, changed to Rutten kil, an abbreviation of Rutger's kil; Rutger Bleecker,² a proprietor of the ground adjacent to it, the third creek from the Norman's kil inclusive. The creek known as Vyde kil, the fifth creek, the creek at Water vliet, literally at the time water flood, the word vliet since rarely in use; the seat of the family of Van Rensselaer. The lands immediately opposite to Albany, and for a distance along and from the river, the Dutch denoted as Het Greene Bosch, the pine woods, corrupted to Greenbush. The mouths of the Mohock they distinguished as the Spruytes, corrupted to, and which may also possibly pass for a translation, the Sprouts. The larger island formed by the Sprouts, they called Walvisch island, whale island. "I cannot forbear," says Van Der Donck, "to mention, that in the year 1647, in the month of March, when, by a great freshet, the water was fresh almost to the great bay, there were two whales, of tolerable size, up the river; the one turned back, but the other stranded, and stuck nor far from the great fall of the Cohoes." The arable land immediately above, they denoted as the Halve Maan, the half moon, from its crescent-like form along the hills on the western side.—Judge Benson.

¹Fort Orange having been taken possession of by the government, and being often inundated, the settlement was removed farther north, to State street and vicinity, and called Beverwyk.—M.

²This must be erroneous. In the records it is called Rattes kil, which shows that rutten is synonymous with ratten. No part of the city is so infested with rats to this day. This creek was called Rutten kil long before Rutger Bleecker's day.—M.

ORIGIN OF YANKEE DOODLE.

It is known as a matter of history, that in the early part of 1755, great exertions were made by the British ministry, at the head of which was the illustrious Earl of Chatham, for the reduction of the French power in the provinces of the Canadas. To carry the object into effect, General Amherst, referred to in the letters of Junius, was appointed to the command of the British army in north-western America: and the British colonies in America were called upon for assistance, who contributed with alacrity their several quotas of men, to effect the grand object of the enterprise. It was still fresh in the memory of some of our oldest inhabitants sixty years ago, that the British army lay encamped, in the summer of 1755, on the eastern bank of the Hudson, a little south of the city of Albany, on the ground now belonging to Jeremiah Van Rensselaer. Vestiges of their encampment remained for a long time; and after a lapse of sixty years, when a great proportion of the actors of those days had passed away from the earth, the inquisitive traveler could observe the remains of the ashes, the places where they boiled their camp kettles. It was this army that, under the command of Abercrombie, was foiled with a severe loss in the attack on Ticonderoga, where the distinguished Howe fell at the head of his troops, in an hour that history has consecrated to fame. In the early part of June, the eastern troops began to pour in company after company; and such a motley assemblage of men never before thronged together on such an occasion, unless an example may be found in the ragged regiment of Sir John Falstaff, of right merry and facetious memory. It would have relaxed the gravity of an anchorite, to have seen the descendants of the puritans marching through the streets of our ancient city, to take their station on the left of the British army: some with long coats, some with short coats, and others with no coats at all, in colors as varied as the rainbow; some with their hair cropped like the army of Cromwell, and others with wigs whose curls flowed around their shoulders. Their march, their accoutrements, and the whole arrangement of the troops furnished matter of amusement to the wits of the British army. The music played the airs of two centuries ago, and the tout ensemble exhibited a sight to the wondering strangers that they had been unaccustomed to in their own land.¹ Among the club of wits that belonged to the British army, there was a physician attached to the staff by the name of Doctor Shackburg, who combined with the science of a surgeon, the skill and talents of a musician. To tease brother Jonathan, he composed a tune, and with much gravity recommended it to the officers as one of the most celebrated airs of martial music. The joke took, to the no small amusement of the British corps. Brother Jonathan exclaimed it was nation fine; and in a few days, nothing was heard in the provincial camp but the air of Yankee Doodle. Little did the author or his coadjutors then suppose, that an air made for the purpose of levity and ridicule, should ever be marked for such high destinies: in twenty years from that time, our national march inspired the hearts of the heroes of Bunker Hill; and in less than thirty, Lord Cornwallis and his army marched into the American lines to the tune of Yankee Doodle.

¹The appearance of the Massachusetts and Connecticut troops that marched through this city on their way to Saratoga, in the year 1777, was long a source of merriment among the Dutch burgers of Albany. Not only were many of them mere boys, but their dress and accoutrements were of the most heterogeneous description. On being asked where they were going, the universal response was: "Going to take Burgoyne." But their arms and habiliments answered to the British description of the forces that, notwithstanding their uncouth and undisciplined appearance, made an indelible mark at Bunker hill.

See the Yankees leave the hill
 With baggernets declining,
 With lop-down hats and rusty guns,
 And leather aprons shining.

SALMON IN THE HUDSON RIVER.

The historian of the first voyage of Europeans upon our river, speaks of the abundance of fish they met with, among which were "great store of salmons." There are also traditions, if nothing more reliable, that the creeks of Albany abounded with these fishes, particularly the Foxes creek, now become a mere sewer. Dr. Mitchell, nevertheless, wrote a learned paper in the Philosophical Transactions, and a letter of his is contained in the Collections of the New York Historical Society, (vol. I, 41), in which he labors to show that the Hudson river has never been a favorite resort for salmon. His letter is as follows :

Concerning the frequency of salmon in the river Cahohatàtea or Mahaganeghtuc, when first visited by the navigator Hudson, I have my doubts as to its correctness. That fish has, indeed, been taken in this river, and even in the vicinity of Albany. But this is a rare occurrence; and the individuals of this kind that have been caught are solitary, and not the gregarious salmons swimming in shoals. I have conversed with several persons here, who have seen a few of these lonesome and straggling fishes, from time to time, as they have been brought to market.

I can not learn that there is any record or tradition of their having ever frequented our river, after the manner of the Connecticut, the Kennebeck, and the other streams on this continent. Salmon love clear and limpid water, as do all the species of the trout family, to which they belong; and I should question much whether the ooze and mud of the Cahohatàtea was so agreeable to them, as the sandy bottoms of the more precipitous and rapid rivers. Besides, you well know, that our river is but an estuary as far as the outlet of the Mohock; and the strata of schistic rocks which cross it above the junction of that river, are generally more shallow, than, perhaps, the salmon would like. And, further, the Dutch word salm or salmpie, commonly in use to signify salmon, means also, in ordinary and loose conversation and composition, trout.

There are, still, other considerations unfavorable to the abundance of salmon in our river. They are those which relate to the herring, the shad, and the sturgeon, the annual visitants of this stream, at Albany and higher. Whatever may be the opinion of speculative men, as to the governing principle of these creatures, whether it be instinct or reason, the fact nevertheless is, that they select very proper places to deposit their spawn, and perpetuate their race. In our river, these three species of fish had each an appropriate place for the great work of multiplication.

The grand rendezvous of the herrings, was the Saratoga lake; into which they entered by its outlet, yet called Fish creek. The obstruction of this passage by dams and artificial impediments, has turned the herrings from their favorite haunt. The inhabitants of the neighboring region have thereby been deprived of their yearly treat of herrings. But, more than this, the herrings thus dispossessed and discouraged, have become more rare in the river, and are deserting it in proportion to the want of accommodation it affords them. It is reported, that the course of the herrings was more especially on the west side of the river.

The shad traveled along the eastern shore. Their chief place of resort was the basin at the foot of Fort Edward falls.

No particular path in the river was selected by the sturgeons. They seem to have swam at large, as they do at present. But they assembled for the propagation of their kind at the bottom of the Cahoes, or great falls of the Mohock. The roes or eggs of the sturgeon, are exceedingly numerous, amounting to a large mass of spawn. You recollect that the Russian caviar is made of them. Other fishes are fond of feeding on them: they eat it with remarkable voracity. It is one of the most alluring baits that anglers can use. The abundance of this requisite food at the breeding season, is supposed to be a principal inducement for the basse or rock fish, to follow the sturgeons to their place of deposit. The disturbance the sturgeons have experienced in the progress of settlement, has diminished their numbers exceedingly; and the basse has become proportionally rare.

Now, with all this information relative to the several sorts of fish, that have frequented the Hudson, since the possession of its banks by European emigrants, there are no regular notices of salmon. Neither a swimming-course, nor a breeding-place has been detected. It is therefore a fair presumption, that these fishes never found within its waters sufficient inducement to visit them in great numbers, or at regular times, and that those which have been taken are merely strays and wanderers.—Dr. Mitchell, in Coll. N. Y. Hist. Soc., 1, 41.

CASTLE ISLAND.

A few were selected from the crews of the Dutch ships which sailed up the river the following year after the discovery of it, to remain here a winter over. They erected an habitation on the point of the island, the southern limit of the city of Albany, and enclosed it with palisadoes as a defence against the Indians, and it was known as the Kasteel, the castle. Stuyvesant, in his correspondence with the government of the Massachusetts Bay, mentions the island as still known by the name of Kasteel island.

Beeren island¹ and the Overslagh still retain their Dutch names. The Dutch navigators speak of the river Gambia, on the east of Africa, as having an overslagh, a bar, at its mouth.—Judge Bensen.

¹Now often erroneously written Barren island, because so pronounced. It signifies Bear's island. Overslagh (overgeslagen) so called as the place struck upon by vessels going on the river.—M.

INDIAN NAMES OF ALBANY AND VICINITY.

Hudson did not give his own name to the river which he discovered. The Iroquois Indians called it Cahohàtatèa, The Mahiccans, Mahakanèghtuc, and sometimes Shatemuck. Hudson styled it, emphatically, the Great River or the Great River of the Mountains,¹ no doubt from the extraordinary circumstance of such a body of water flowing through the mountains without a cataract. The name of its discoverer, however, was early attached to it. I find it familiarly called *Hudson's*² river in some of the public documents of the Dutch colonial government; but more frequently the North river, to distinguish it from the Delaware, which was discovered by the same navigator, and which, being within the territory claimed by the Dutch, was called by them the South River.²—Dr. Miller, in Coll. N. Y. Hist. Soc., 1, 37.

The names of the rivers Mohock and Hudson, as they are extant among the Iroquois, have engaged my attention to make inquiry concerning them. My opportunities have been favorable. Mr. John Bleeker, the ancient Indian interpreter, now in the seventy-ninth year of his age, was well enough to receive a visit from me this morning, and in possession of his full recollection as to what I asked of him. On seeing me, he instantly, and without hesitation, pronounced my name, with a remembrance that he had been acquainted with me at Fort Schuyler, in 1788, when the Five Nations sold their lands to the state of New York. I have also seen Colonel Louis, the distinguished Indian warrior, who is now in Albany, and have sought information from him. Jacob Dochstetter, the present Oneida interpreter, likewise gave me all the opportunity I wished of conversing with him, while he was attending with his countrymen, a treaty with the commissioners appointed on the part of the state.

² There is reason to believe, that this name, though soon adopted by the Dutch, was first applied by the English; probably as a part of their system for assuming the discovery and the property of the country to themselves.

From these several persons I have obtained the following words, which I immediately committed to writing, and corrected as well as I could, by many repetitions from the mouths of the speakers. Though I ought to observe, that there are a few sounds which the letters of our alphabet are incapable of expressing.

Canneogahakalononitade — the Mohock river.

Skenectadèa — the city of Albany.

Ohnowalagantle — the town of Schenectady.

Cahohàtatèa — the North or Hudson river.

Skenectadèa, Cahohàtatèa — the North river, spoken of in relation to Albany or Albany river.

Tioghsàhronde — the place or places at which streams empty themselves.

Tioghsàhronde, Cahohàtatèa — the North river spoken of in relation to the Mohock, the Watervleit kil, the Norman's kil, and the other streams which discharge into it.

The name of our North river, in the tongue of the Iroquois, strikes my ear very agreeably: Cahohàtatèa.

You may contrast this with the Mohegan name for the same river, given me this day by John Tayler, Esq., a gentleman long conversant in the Indian affairs of New York; Mahakanèghtuc.

What their etymologies are, I have not been able to ascertain, except as to Skenectadèa, Albany; which signifies the place the natives of the Iroquois arrived at, by traveling through the pine trees.— Dr. Mitchell, ibid., I, 43.

The information that Shatemuck was one of the Mahiccan names of the River Hudson, was received from the Hon. Egbert Bensen.

DUTCH NAMES FOR THE FISH IN OUR RIVER.

A few only will be noticed — some denoted by numbers as their names — the Twaalf, the twelve, the Streaked Bass, and the Elf, the Shad — the name of the Shad in Dutch is Elfet, in German Aloft, and in French Alose, all perhaps from the same root; but being pronounced here Elf, the number eleven, the number itself possibly came to be considered as its name, and so led to denote others in the same manner — the Drum is said to have been the Dertien, the thirteen. Van Der Donck, speaking of the North river, expresses himself, it is seer visryck, literally very fish-rich — here the Dutch language would seem to have the advantage over the English, its capability of composition — het gelt-zucht, the money-lust; het mersch-zucht, the sway-lust; for a word for the first the English are indebted to the French, covetousness; for a word for the other to the Latin, ambition; Myn Eer-naam, my honor-name, the name or rather appellation, by which it is peculiarly my honor to be called — no word for it in either of the three languages — an instance illustrating it — “The disciples were called Christians.” Speaking of the fish in New Netherland at large, and consequently comprehending the Connecticut, he expresses himself, “there is also in some places salmon.” Extract from the voyage of Hudson, as found in Purchas; “They saw many salmons, and mullets, and rays, very great” — the third of September, not the salmon season. De Laet, expresses himself, “Hudson also testifies, that with their seines they took every kind of river fish in the river, also young salmon and sturgeon.” The Dutch, whatever may be the true name of the fish in their language, always at least in this country, call the trout, Salmties, little salmon; and they were doubtless in abundance at the mouths of the large streams issuing into the river. Belknap, and as a fact appertaining to the life of Hudson, mentions, “that, in sailing up the river, he found it abounding with fish, and among which were great store of salmon.” — Judge Bensen, N. Y. Hist. Soc. Coll., II, 2d Series, p. 130.

ALBANY ACADEMY MEDALS.

The Caldwell Mathematical Medal.

The institution of the Caldwell Medal took place in 1831. In that year William Caldwell, a retired merchant of the city of Albany, presented one hundred dollars to the trustees of the Academy, to be invested in stock, the income of which should be devoted to the purchase of a gold medal, to be given at each annual examination to the student who shall have made the greatest proficiency in mathematics and natural philosophy; the student to be of at least three years standing in the academy, and the medal to be given but once to the same individual. The donation was invested, and the interest is annually appropriated to the purchase of a medal, which is awarded to the successful competitor. These medals have no device, but simply the words "Caldwell Premium, Mathematics," upon the obverse, and the name of the recipient and the date upon the reverse side, as seen in the fac simile of one of them which is here given. The names of the students who have obtained this medal, are as follows:

The Van Rensselaer Classical Medal.

5. The city was visited at night, by a storm of thunder, lightning and rain, the like of which had not been witnessed in this city for thirty years; and which, in this latitude, is a rare phenomenon. It had all the characteristics of a tropical storm, or rather, succession of storms, for it was prolonged from seven o'clock in the evening until after midnight. The city seemed to be the centre of some extraordinary perturbation of the elements; and the whole dome of the sky was kept illuminated with the sheet lightning with but momentary intermissions of darkness, between the flashes. Thunder and violent rain accompanied the manifestation. The electricity seemed to pervade the whole atmosphere, and to surround every object. After about two hours, a new storm from the west was attracted hither, to intermingle in the elemental strife, and sharp, forked lightning, rattling thunder, and bolts that appeared to strike, added additional grandeur and terror to the scene. From time to time, a new phase in the storm showed that its wasting energies were recruited by new arrivals of clouds, attracted to the vortex which the atmospheric commotion and the altered temperature produced. The rain fell in torrents and the streets in all parts of the city were inundated, and in many places the pavements torn up and much damage done to cellars. A house or barn on the opposite side of the river was struck and fired, and the blaze could be seen from the city. The schooner Rockaway, lying at the pier at the foot of Columbia street, loading with lumber, was struck by the lightning, which descended the forward mast, winding around it in its descent, shivering it to pieces, tearing the sails, &c. The crew were in the cabin and escaped uninjured. The sloop J. K. Polk, lying in the upper part of the basin, and one or two other vessels were also struck, but no material injury was done. The day had been extremely warm and close. Much injury was done to the Rural Cemetery, the roads being broken, and the embankments destroyed, and large trees torn down by the storm.—Express.

CITY FINANCES, 1849—50.

The annual report of the chamberlain for the year ending May 1, 1850, was referred by the common council to the finance committee consisting of Visscher Ten Eyck, C. P. Williams, and John D. Hewson, who, on the 12th August, made the following report on the condition of the finances of the city.

The financial affairs of our city, from their magnitude and varied character, require from the officers connected with their management a strict devotion to duty, as well as zeal, promptness, fidelity, system and good order to control and govern all their operations. The essentials are now the prominent features of the chamberlain's office; and the officers connected therewith, are justly entitled to the commendation of the board for the faithful manner in which they have discharged their laborious and highly responsible duties.

May 1, 1849, was.....	$695,366.67

do 1848.....	662.35
do 1849.....	41,668.78
do 1850.....	67,631.34

The large balance of 1849, and the still larger balance of 1850, are the results of the operations of the law of 1848. In former years the amount raised by tax for support of the city government was nearly if not entirely exhausted on the 1st of May, by its application to the payment of temporary loans. These loans were made in anticipation of the annual taxes, and the means realized therefrom were required for the ordinary expenditures of the city. By a strict adherence to the requirements of the law above referred to, and a due regard to economy in the administration of the affairs of the city, these temporary expedients may be in a great degree, if not entirely, avoided.

During the same period the amount paid and cancelled by the city was.....	$192,008.75
Cash paid to trustees of sinking fund for the same purpose.....	178,700.00
	<hr/> 370,708.75

Making a diminution in the debt of the city in one year of.....$180,708.75

Of this amount, $153,415.36 was received from the state under the provisions of the law of 1859 relative to the Albany basin. The further sum of $20,000 was received from the state under the provisions of the same law, but the applications thereof by the city was changed by a law passed at the last session of the legislature. This $20,000 formed a part of the moneys paid by the city to the Pier proprietors, to procure their assent and release required in the law of 1849 relating to the Albany basin.

The amount raised by tax during the past year on account of interest on the city debt, was.....	$45,500.00
Amount received of the Albany and Schenectady Rail Road Co., and from other sources.....	9,830.74

Making a total of.....$55,330.74
The expenditures during the same period were.....61,991.11

Leaving a deficiency of$6,660.37
This deficiency was caused by the accumulation of interest on the bonds held by the state, and which were paid and cancelled by carrying into effect the law of 1849, above referred to.

City Lamps.—The amount raised by tax during the past year for the maintenance of the city lamps was.....$10,000.00
The expenditures during the same period were.....10,489.17

Leaving a deficiency of.....$489.17

This deficiency was occasioned in part, if not entirely, by the high rates of oil during the past year.

The expenditures for the city lamps were,

A part of the city lamps are now maintained under the provisions of a contract made with the Albany Gas Light Company. The expense attending the execution of the contract can always be estimated, and it can be increased or diminished by the committee of the board having this subject in charge. The expense attending the oil lamps is variant and must continue so, under the present system; and your committee would suggest that measures be adopted by the appropriate committee to ascertain if the contract system can not be carried into effect for these lamps, and a large saving to the city be realized by its adoption.

Markets.—The aggregate amount received from butchers for licenses and for rents of the several markets and out stalls, during the past year is..... $1,819.08
Expenditures during the same period..... 1,369.58

Leaving a balance in favor of the city of..... $449.50

Of this balance the sum of $225 was realized from the lease of the North market, which being deducted from $449.50 would leave $224.50 as the net sum received by the city for the use of the large amount of property connected with the Centre and Vegetable markets.

From the year 1835 to 1845, the average annual net income derived from the several markets was $342.13, and from that period up to the present year, the average annual revenue was $915.69; a revenue entirely below a fair compensation for the use of so large an amount of real estate.

Common Schools.—The amount raised by tax during the past year for the support of common schools and the erection of a school house, was..... $9,503.36
Amount received from the School fund..... 4,501.68
For tuition..... 301.00

Making a total of..... $14,306.04
Expended during the year..... 15,340.46

Leaving a deficiency of..... $1,034.42

The Ferry.—There has been received during the past year from the lessee of the ferry the sum of..... $1,525.00
Expenditures during the same period for repairs..... 273.34

Leaving a net revenue of..... $1,251.66

The ferry is now under the operation of a lease or contract, and the city is realizing annually therefrom a fair equivalent for its use, whilst, under the old system, its management and maintenance was attended with expenditures far above the revenues received.

Night Police.—The amount authorized to be raised annually by tax for the support of the night police under the provisions of the 2d section of the act of March, 1848, is $17,000.

The amount raised during the past year under the authority conferred by the 3d section of said act, was..... $18,000.00
 The amount expended during the same period was.... 16,979.46

Leaving a surplus of..... $1,020.54

Day Police.—The amount expended during the past year for the support of this department, including the salaries of the police justices, was..... $4,249.29

Making an aggregate for the support of the night and day police of..... $21,228.75

This sum ought, in the opinion of your committee to be sufficient to secure a united and always reliable night and day police for our city, which would be prompt and efficient in its operation, and are preferable to the system now existing.

City and County Poor.—There was expended during the past for the maintenance of the Alms House $15,405.87

For temporary relief in the city, salaries, cholera expenses, &c. 12,885.83

Making a total of..... $28,291.70

During the year 1849, the expenditures for the same objects were..... $26,127.49

During the year 1848..... 33,966.34

“ “ 1847..... 20,455.73

Justice's Court.—The amount received during the past year from this court for fees was..... $2,667.84

Expenditures during the same period to the justices for salaries 2,630.00

Leaving a balance in favor of the court of..... $37.84

Fire Department.—The amount expended during the past year for the support of this department was $20,476.47

Of this sum $2,598.57 was expended for the Hose depot, $1,303.58 for new hose, and $890 for fire policemen.

Contingencies.—The amount received during the past year on this account from taxes was..... $40,000.00

From the state under the law of 1849, relating to the Albany basin..... 20,000.00

From fines imposed by the Albany special sessions, ($1,240.50) rents, surveys, and sundry other items, $14,699.86

$74,699.86

Expenditures during the same period..... 59,998.55

Leaving a balance in favor of the city of..... 14,701.31

City Debt.— On the first day of May, 1848, the debt of the city was..... $877,896.93
On the first day of May, 1849..... 858,396.93

Making a diminution during the year of..... $19,500.00

On the first of May, 1850, the debt of the city was $677,688.18
Showing a reduction during the past year of..... $180,708.74

The debt here stated does not include the contingent liabilities of the city, viz: $100,000 of the bonds of the Albany and Schenectady Rail Road Company, guarantied by the city, and falling due in the year 1852; and 1,000,000 of city bonds issued to the Western Rail Road Corporation. These liabilities of the city are amply secured, and they can not therefore be classed as a debt, for the payment of which means should be provided.

Your committee have stated that the debt of the city on the 1st day of May, 1850, was..... $677,688.18

From this there should be deducted the sum of $125,000 loaned to the Albany and Schenectady Rail Road Company, and upon which they pay an interest of 5 per cent; and also further the sum of $123,468.80, being the am't expended by the city for the same company, for the purchase of the depot and track in the city, which sum, according to the terms of the agreement, is to be refunded to the city or interest paid thereon, at the expiration of the 20 years, at the rate of 5 per cent per annum, making an aggregate of..... 248,468.80

Leaving the actual debt of the city..... $429,219.38

Under the restraining operations of the law of 1848, this debt can be steadily and successfully reduced each year, if the common council on their part carry into practical operation all the requirements therein contained. To reduce taxation and lessen the burdens of our citizens should be the constant aim of all, and in order to do so effectually, great care must be exercised in the prosecution of new improvements. If improvements are directed by the board and the owners of the property benefited by the improvement are negligent or remiss in their payments, the deficiency must be raised by taxation. If the common council are profuse in their expenditures for the public lamps, or the night police, or in the ordinary contingent expenses of the city, all deficiencies beyond the amount received during the previous year must be raised by taxation.

It is this inattention to small matters in the beginning, which has been the cause of rolling up this large debt against the city, and to cancel which all our energies should now be directed.

During the past year it became necessary to renew some of the loans of the city, and for that purpose stock was issued amounting.

to \$50,000 bearing an interest of 6 per cent. This loan was taken by Watts Sherman, Esq., of this city, and upon which the city realized a premium of $1\frac{1}{4}$ per cent, being the first premium ever received by the city.

During the month of May last, a further loan was negotiated with the same gentleman for $100,000 of the city bonds, bearing an interest of 5 per cent. This loan was taken at par, and the amount realized therefrom is to be applied to the payment of city bonds, bearing an interest of 7 per cent, and falling due during the present and ensuing years.

To provide means for the gradual payment of our present debt, and the necessary increase which must inevitably follow, when the water law is carried into effect, requires the board to be firm in the discharge of their duty, and to be governed and directed by the restraining law of 1848, before referred to, and all other laws which may tend to the same result.

The character and prosperity of our city depend, in a great measure, upon the faithful discharge of the trust committed to our care; and it is for us to determine by our acts, whether the credit which our city now enjoys shall continue to grow and flourish, or be reduced to that low standard under which we groaned a few years since.

ASSESSORS' VALUATION.

From the Albany Evening Journal.

From many untoward and disastrous circumstances, the citizens of Albany, for several years past, have been burthened with what may be very justly termed most enormous rates of taxation; reaching a point far exceeding that of any city in the Union. The causes which have produced such results have been numerous and in many instances, unavoidable; while, in other cases, it has been the result of mismanagement and political manœuvring. The failure of the Canal Bank was a sad blow to the moneyed interests of our city, and coming at a time, too, when we were sorely scourged by conflagrations, the finale to which was the devastation of nearly one-eighth of our city. The basin assessment has been hanging over our heads like a leaden weight, completely crushing us and retarding our progress. From these and other numerous causes, rates of our taxation have been ranging from two to two and a quarter per cent, and on one occasion going beyond even that high figure.

It will be a matter of congratulation to every Albanian, that we have at last emerged from the woods, and are now so firmly established on a good, sound basis, that we can rejoice at our deliverance, and look with bright hopes to the future. We have recovered from all our disasters; that incubus, the basin assessment, is wiped away; our limits are extending on every side; the last vestiges of the fire of 1848 are rapidly disappearing, and our population has, in spite of all the stumbling blocks cast in our way, reached over 50,000, an increase of over 12,000 since the last census.

We feel that we have a right to rejoice for all these favorable results, and should any of our friends need additional cause for such manifestations, we have only to call their attention to the returns of the Assessors for the present year.

In the year 1849, the entire amount of real and personal property returned as assessed by the common council, amounted to $11,971,274.38. For the present year the amount returned is $12,602,284.85, or an increase of $630,415.47 over the year 1849. The increase over 1849, when distributed among the wards of the city is as follows:

THE MAYOR'S STATEMENT ON THE FINANCIAL CONDITION OF THE CITY.

Mayor's Office, Albany, May 25, 1850.

WATTS SHERMAN, ESQ.,

Sir, In accordance with your request, I take pleasure in presenting to you the following statement of the financial condition of the city of Albany :

For many years prior to 1847, the public debt of the city had been gradually rolling up, from the operation of the same causes which produce individual embarrassment ; an expenditure greater than the resources, and a reluctance to resort to those trenchant and restrictive measures necessary, as well to reduce the evil as to prevent its recurrence. But in the year 1847, the finance committee of the common council, convinced of the necessity of preventing any additions being made to the debt, and also of providing for its liquidation, recommended a restraining law, which was passed by the legislature of the state in 1848.

This law is one of the most restrictive character : requiring that all expenses of the city government, and the deficiencies arising from the non-payment of assessments for street improvements, together with the interest and ten thousand dollars of the principal of the debt, shall be raised by taxation annually : and also providing that no expenditure of the public money, except for the ordinary expenses, which with the amounts, are specified in the law, shall be made, unless the appropriations for the same shall have been passed by the votes of two-thirds of all the members of the common council.

On the first day of May, 1848, the debt of the city (exclusive of the loans made to the Western Rail Road Corporation, and to the Albany and Schenectady Rail Road Company, both of which are so amply secured that they can not be considered absolute liabilities of the city), amounted to $752,896.93. Since that date, this debt has been reduced $211,764.90 ; and the exact amount of the same at this present time, is $541.132.03.

This rapid extinguishment of so large a portion of the debt, resulted from the assumption by the state of a part of the expenses which the city had incurred for the excavation of the basin at the eastern termination of the Erie and Champlain canals, and from the effect of the restraining law before alluded to.

There is every probability that the amount which will be realized by the trustees of the sinking fund from taxation, receipts from the sales of city property, and payments of assessments, will not fall short of $20,000 annually. As this fund is sacredly pledged for the redemption of the debt, it is sufficiently evident that the liquidation of the same within a reasonable period, is placed beyond contingency. In addition to all this, the city, in its corporate capacity, possesses property which may be fairly valued at $415,000, of which $375,000 are invested in real estate, and $40,000 in the stocks of water works, insurance and plank road companies.

The population of the city as shown by the last census which was taken in 1845, was 42,189. The increase during the then previous five years was 8,476. The census which is to be taken this year, will probably show the present population to be over 50,000.

The value of the taxable property in the city as shown by the assessment rolls returned to the board of supervisors, in November, 1849, was $11,971,203.

In speaking of the value of the taxable property, it should be remarked that although the assessment rolls furnish the only criterion by which the aggregate value can be ascertained, they are by no means a correct one. To lessen the amount which each county must pay towards defraying the general expenses of the state, it has been, and still continues to be the practice of the assessors in most of the counties, to value property at much less than its actual worth. In this respect, the county of Albany is not an exception ; and, therefore, the assessors of this city have established a standard of valuation which is equal to about sixty-five per centum. For this reason, the value of the taxable property in the city of Albany may be safely estimated at $18,000,000.

Trusting that the information here contained may serve to maintain the high credit which our city already enjoys,

I remain very respectfully, your ob't serv't,

FRANKLIN TOWNSEND,

Mayor of the City of Albany.

BASIN EXCAVATION.

It was charged in August, that the person having the contract for removing the earth which had accumulated in the Basin, had dumped it near the channel below the city. The editor of the Express, having investigated the matter, made the following statement. It is interesting as showing the changes which the channel of the river is subject to in the neighborhood of the city.

During the last spring freshet, the ice formed a complete dam, from a point a few yards south of the termination of the docks near the island, and a new channel was made by a diversion of a great body of the water which was flowing down the river. When this formidable barrier was worn away, it was found that an entire new channel had been made through the creek, and running out into the river at an opening in the dyke, nearly opposite the Abbey, and the flats had been materially increased, in very many places. The forwarding men who are most deeply interested in the navigation of the Hudson, last year had a channel cut through these flats upon the western side of the river, and when the work of excavation of the basin was commenced, made a visit to this formidable obstruction. Upon consultation they arrived at the conclusion that by lessening the depth of water upon these flats by depositions of earth, it would be forced into the original channel of the river, and in a great degree aid in rendering it navigable for vessels. Accordingly, the earth dug from the bed of the basin, is taken in scows to the flats, and dumped upon them, so as to lessen the quantity of water in that locality, and throw it over into the channel. These deposits are of a hard formation, impregnated with clay, and remain in their position, notwithstanding the ordinary current; rivermen contend that it is proving an advantage to the navigation instead of a detriment, and is consequently worthy of approval. When the bill authorizing the removal from the basin, of the obstructions to its free navigation, was pending, it was contended that the work would cost from $150,000 to $200,000. The whole expense, however, will not exceed $35,000. The lower section will be completed on Saturday, after having dug out over twenty thousand yards of earth affording eight feet of water in every portion of the same. The upper sections will also be soon finished,

THE BARLEY TRADE OF ALBANY.

Albany is the barley market of the Northern and Eastern states, and of many of the cities in the Atlantic states. Purchases have been made here during the past season for points as far south as Charleston, while with Baltimore and Philadelphia a large business has been transacted. To show the increase of the trade in this article within the last few years, we give from official documents the receipts of barley at tide-water for a period of nine years;

1838,	677,338 bush.	1847,	1,523,020 bush.
1841,	121,010 "	1848,	1,548,197 "
1844,	818,472 "	1849,	1,400,194 "
1845,	1,137,917 "	1850,	1,720,000 "
1846,	1,427,953 "

At Albany almost the entire of these receipts are sold. Of the new crop of the last season, of which we estimate that at least, 1,600,000 bushels were received at tide-water, we have reported sales in this market of 1,330,000 bushels. In these reported sales the contracts made with our brewers early in the season for delivery of barley are not included, and allowance should also be made for sales which were not reported to us. If we place the sale of the new crop in this market at 1,430,000 bushels, we think we shall be within the mark. Of the value of the contract sales and the sales not reported to us, we can not make any estimate, but we have made a valuation of the actual transactions reported, reaching to about 1,330,000 bushels; all of the new crop, and find it amounts to the sum of $1,008,574, an average of 76 cents on the bushel. The lowest figure paid was 65 cents, the highest 101½. The greatest number of bushels sold at one price was 117,500, which brought 100c.; 89,100 bushels were sold at 85c.; 77,200 at 77c.; 75,100 at 60c.; 69,500 at 78c.; &c., &c., and the smallest quantity sold at any one figure was 700 bushels at 97c. It will be seen that the receipts of barley at tide-water for the season which has just closed, are 1,720 000 bushels, exceeding our estimate, which was considered a rash one, made at the opening of the new crop, 120,000 bushels, and exceeding the receipts of any previous season. The high prices realized during this season will no doubt be a sufficient inducement to farmers to sow a greater breadth of land than usual with this grain. Whether the next season will call out the crop to such an extent as to justify the payment of high prices, is a problem yet to be solved.—Argus.

HILLS AND CREEKS.

For the past twenty years there has been a species of civil war going forward between the lads and young men residing on the hill, as the Texan section of Albany is called, and the creek, as the upper part of the 8th ward is styled. We remember twelve or fifteen years ago, that these feuds were of a serious character ; on one occasion a Creek who had ventured from his valley, upon the hill, was set upon by a large party of Hills, who pounded the life nearly out of him, when he fired a pistol and they retreated just far enough to enable him to limp down hill all bruised and bloody, being well revenged a night or two thereafter, for two of the Hills who strayed down into the creek, were attacked and soon transformed from tolerably good looking fellows into mummies. There were in those days frequent fights, in which one hundred and fifty persons, and often as many as two hundred, were engaged. Many who were engaged in them have grown up to manhood, become peaceable and influential members of society, and their children have succeeded them in carrying on the war. The combats within the last eighteen years between the Hills and Creeks, would fill volumes. For the last ten years the war has been carried on, but with less spirit, and at times lengthy cessations of hostilities. On Saturday, Nov. 4, however, it was renewed, and on sabbath afternoon the Hills and Creeks met again upon their old battle ground. The Creeks marched up hill, and the Hills drove them down again, when the latter sallied down and were driven back in great haste by the valley men ; and woe to the straggler or cripple who could not run fast and lagged behind his fellows. The running fight, which lasted several hours, attracted great crowds of spectators. No one, we are glad to say, was seriously hurt. This species of sabbath breaking and disgraceful wrangling should be stopped by the interference of a strong body of policemen. If such civil war is allowed to exist, it will soon be as of old, unsafe for persons residing on the hill or in the creek, to venture into the districts of the contending parties. It is morally wrong that such occurrences should take place in a law abiding community.—Knickerbocker.
